BRITISH SECRET PAPER BRANDED AS NOT GENUINE

Shearer 'Document' Adds Interest to Hearing, Then Blows Up.

EXPERT FROM NAVY CALLS IT SPURIOUS

Contents Are Hushed Up as Propagandist Tells How He Came by It.

SIR WILLIAM WISEMAN MAY FACE COMMITTEE

Banker Is Believed Able to Explain Matter Fully; Hearing to Rest.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

An alleged secret British document, sinister in import, hovered over the Senate subcommittee investigating navy lobbyists yesterday just long enough to involve a lot of names and then was fairly exploded at the end.

After it had been discussed and William B. Shearer, propagandist and self-styled and widely accepted patriot, had given a dramatic recital of how he had came in possession of it and what he had done with it, Senator Allen, of Kansas, offered the report of a Navy Department expert that it was spurious. The committee then decided that it had better withhold the document and the Navy report on it until the whole matter can be gone into more thoroughly.

In all probability, it was made known, Sir William Wiseman, generally understood to be in charge of British propaganda in this country during the war, and from whose office the document is alleged to have come, would be called, as one committee member expressed it, to settle the matter once and for all.

Contents Are Hushed.

Wiseman is now associated with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and writes frequently for the Saturday Evening Post. As to the lurid contents of the document, the committee decided it had better not make them available at this time.

The committee, as a matter of fact, decided to rest awhile from its study of international intrigue, London night clubs, European betting transactions and the racy language of men of the world, and it is quite likely that the rest will continue until after Premier MacDonald has come and gone.

It has been testified that the European correspondents at the Geneva naval limitations parley of 1927 could not understand Shearer as well as did the American correspondents, he being "peculiarly an American institution" and the best minds are of the opinion that perhaps Mr. MacDonald would not.

U. S. Agent Named.

The document, however, was a wicked-looking thing, with two bold color streaks across it, one of red and the other of blue, the colors of the Union Jack. As to where it came from and this is Shearer's testimony, well, he met a man named Sumner out in California; "Judge Sumner" was what he always called him. He was told about the document.

Subsequently Sumner was in Washington and Shearer said: "How about that document?" and Sumner said: "I've got it right here."

Sumner told him that a man named "Ben McLendon," who worked in Wiseman's office during the war, had gotten it, and "Mr. Wheeler, the United States Secret Service agent at Los Angeles," presumably Jack Wheeler now out of the service, had authenticated it.

"Do you really know that Mr. Wheeler authenticated it?" he was asked by Senator Robinson.

"Oh, yes, by telegram to Judge Sumner."

"Did you see the telgram?"

"I did."

Shearer lost no time in communicating with naval officials, he said, and "Commander Powell" wanted to take it immediately to the home of "Capt. Johnson, head of the O. N. I." (Naval Intelligence.) Shearer demurred to letting it get away from him but the next day it was photographed in Johnson's office in Shearer's presence.

The name of Sir William Wiseman was at the bottom of the document but Shearer explained that the naval intelligence officers wrote the name on it in order that the name would appear in the photograph to identify the exhibit.

When "Commander Powell" returned the document he also gave

Bell Rites Tomorrow; Body Is Brought Here

Stock Exchange Halts as Tribute to Late Financial Dean.

Funeral services for Charles J. Bell, chairman of the board of directors of the American Security & Trust Co. and dean of the Capital's financial and civic leaders, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral, it was announced last night. Mr. Bell died of pneumonia yesterday morning in St. Luke's Hospital, New York City, after an illness of several months.

Accompanied by the widow and children, Mr. Bell's body arrived at Union Station shortly after 7 o'clock last night, and was taken directly to his beautiful Woodley Lane estate, Twin Oaks.

Mr. Bell, who was 71 years old, had been in ill health since last February, when he was operated upon at the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital here to relieve him from severe headaches. It was only recently realized that he had small chance of recovery. He was taken to St. Lukes Hospital in New York, on the advice of specialists.

two daughters, Mrs. Julien H. Ripley and Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue, all of New York, were with him when he died.

Expressions of deep regret were heard on all sides in the financial district yesterday when Mr. Bell's death was announced, and the Washness, and his son, Robert W. Bell, and

MITTEN, NOTED RAPID TRANSIT BARON, DROWNS

Philadelphia's Traction Magnate Has Fatal Dizzy Spell.

BODY DISCOVERED UNDERNEATH BOAT

Coroner Declares Death Due to Accidental Circumstance.

COMPANY HE HEADED HAD MET CRITICISM

Philadelphia, Oct. 1 (A.P.)—Thomas E. Mitten, one of the outstanding street railway managers of the world, drowned in a pond on his estate near Milford, Pa., today.

Mitten, who was 65, was president of Mitten Management, Inc., which operates the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. System, the Interrailway Co. of Buffalo, the Yellow Cab Co. of Philadelphia, and a number of enterprises outside the street railway business.

Word of his sudden death was first announced from the offices of Mitten Management in this city. It was stated that Mitten went out alone in a small boat on Big Log Tavern Pond on his estate, and that he was drowned while fishing. It was further stated that he was heavily clothed because of the cold weather and that the boat upset.

Death Was Accidental.

The estate, known as Sunnyland, is eleven miles west of Milford, in the heart of the Pocono Mountains. It contains about 4,000 acres. As soon as word of the drowning was received in Milford, Coroner J. Henry Ludwig, of Pike County, went to the estate to investigate. The body had been recovered, and, after an examination by Dr. W. R. Shannon, Coroner Ludwig announced that death was due to accidental drowning.

A Philadelphia undertaker was on his way to the estate tonight, and the body will be brought to Philadelphia tomorrow morning.

From the examination made by Dr Shannon and Coroner Ludwig it is believed Mitten met his death shortly after 5 o'clock this morning. His watch was found to have stopped at 5:10. He was known as an early riser.

Search Discloses Boat.

Word of Mitten's death was telephoned to this city by his son, Dr. A. A. Mitten, who succeeded his father as chairman of the board of directors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. Dr. Mitten called his father at 7 a. m. today for his usual daily conference and was told his father was still in bed. He again called, at 8:30, and received the same response. When he called a third time, at 10 o'clock, an investigation was made by the servants, who reported to him that his father was not in his room.

Becoming alarmed Dr. Mitten immediately started for the estate, more than 100 miles from Philadelphia.

Meanwhile search about the place was made, and his secretary, Miss Hynes, of Philadelphia, discovered the

PAIR IS SCORED FOR LETHARGY IN DEATH QUIZ

WHITE HOUSE HEARS REQUEST FOR ACTION

Two Representatives Go to Hoover Secretary and Complain.

SCORCHING ATTACK IS MADE ON POLICE

Senators Ask That Justice Department Handle Murder Trial.

Congressional criticism based on their lassitude in the McPherson murder investigation threatens to eliminate Commissioners Proctor L. Dougherty and Sidney F. Taliaferro as formidable candidates for reappointment, it appeared last night. Their terms expire simultaneously in February.

The fate of the Commissioners came to the forefront after a day in which both the White House and Congress were drawn into the McPherson case.

To the White House went two men who have much to say and to do about District affairs—Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, and Representative Holaday (Republican), of Illinois. Both are members of the appropriations subcommittee that handles the local budget.

The two men saw Walter Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries, and discussed with him not only the McPherson case but the situation here in general.

Commissioners Are Blamed.

Just what the two men told Newton is not known, but afterward Simmons placed responsibility for the McPherson fiasco smack on the doorsteps of the Commissioners and the chief of police, and Holaday described the situation existing here as "disgraceful."

From Representative Bowman (Republican, of West Virginia, yesterday came a hit of reform. He announced that he now is engaged in drafting legislation to give Washington a governor, who would have the authority and the ability to take definite and decisive action in such things as the McPherson case. The Commissioners would remain, he said, but their "buck-passing would come to an end."

From the floor of the Senate, the fiery Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, called on the higher-ups here, including President Hoover, to punish those who "attempted to conceal evidence" in the McPherson case.

Asks Departmental Handling.

Later Blease joined with Senator Overman (Democrat), of South Carolina, friend of Mrs. McPherson's father, in demanding that both the investigation of the murder of the nurse and the prosecution of young McPherson be handled henceforth by representatives of the Department of Justice.

"I think it would be a further outrage upon justice to allow the case to remain in the hands of those who tried to hide the crime," Overman said.

"No one who held the suicide theory, whether on the police force or in the district attorney's office, should figure in the investigation from now on, or play any part in the case for trial jury.

"This is plainly a case to be handled by disinterested, impartial and unprejudiced minds. The Department of Justice is maintained for just such cases as this."

Allen Files Complaint.

Earlier in the morning, a familiar figure in the McPherson case could be seen hurrying along the corridors of the Capitol. It was Robert J. Allen, the suspended policeman, who cracked the McPherson case wide open and lifted it from a prosaic suicide to what the grand jury called a brutal murder.

Allen saw Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, and made a formal complaint against Lieut. Ed Kelly and Assistant United States Attorney William Collins, the detective

M'PHERSON PORES OVER CHESS BOARD

He and Cellmate While Away Hours as Lawyer Begins Work on Defense.

LEAHY TO HANDLE CASE

While he sat in his cell playing chess with his cellmate, a Hollander, who is serving time on a charge of receiving stolen property, McPherson's lawyer, William E Leahy, started work on the defense with which he expects to save the youth from conviction of any kind.

Throughout yesterday afternoon Leahy worked on the case. He was in private consultation most of the time. Unlike most lawyers, he did not start on his case by interviewing the defendant, whom so far he has never seen. He expects to meet him today for the first time.

Attorney Leahy collected his initial material from other sources. He was working behind closed doors. But, news leaked out, nevertheless.

The screams after midnight, the man on the roof the taxi driver, who claims he took McPherson to the alley at the rear of the Park Lane apartments on the night that his young wife died—these are only a few of the obstacles to be attacked by the guns of the defense.

And while the plans for tearing down these obstacles were going forward, McPherson sat quietly in his cell playing chess with a man who is barely able to speak English.

The routine of chess playing went on. Talk was scarce. McPherson wanted to discuss football, movies, books. Ulgee showed an inclination to mumble about the windmills and dykes of his homeland. An incongruous pair. But they appeared to be getting along splendidly.

From behind the screen bars of the bank in which he worked, McPherson would have given a man like Ulgee one passing glance, and forgotten him. Now, behind the bars of a cell, he is obliged to see Ulgee's face every hour, to know him as a friend, to eat with him, bathe and dress with him and sleep next to him.

The dull afternoon was broken by one incident that brought comfort to McPherson. His father and mother sent him a letter, and handkerchiefs, brand-new ones, in individual boxes, stamps and stationery, cigarettes and a prayer book.

SHELBY DEMOTION STIRS IRE OF KING

SNAP ACTION IS ALLEGED

The action of the District Commissioners in relieving Inspector William S. Shelby and Detective Lieutenant Edward Kelly of their duties was roundly condemned by Harry King at the Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting last night. King declared:

"I want to personally protest and condemn the demotion of Inspector Shelby. This man has risen from the ranks and is the best officer on the Metropolitan Police Force.

"The action of the Commissioners was unjust and unfair. Every man is entitled to his day in court, even in military life. With snap judgment action, the Commissioners have thrown the 30 years of enviable service which Shelby has given the Police Department into discard."

"People of Washington have become mere puppets in the hands of Congress," King continued. "Those men on the hill howl and bleat about this city and its officials. As a result of their unwarranted charges the people of the country are led to believe Washington is infested with thieves and thugs; that crime of all kinds, bootlegging and thievery is rampant in our fair city. They rail and rant daily, making charges on complaints they do not even take time to verify. Since Washington is the news center of the Nation, the people of the country are misled concerning our city. The time is coming when we will have to rein up and bridle and halt those unfounded statements in the halls of Congress."

King asserted that Washington is the best-governed city in the United States, and that there are fewer bootleggers and undesirables here than in any large city in the country. He charged that Congress has always intimidated the municipal and civil authorities of Washington, and that its members are now using similar tactics on judicial officers.

Miss M. Pearl McCall, assistant district attorney, seconded Mr. King's declarations, and declared that his statements as to Shelby could apply equally to Lieut. Edward Kelly.

Deceit, Fraud Prompt Crime, Says Rover

Practically all major crimes are prompted by deceit and fraud, District Attorney Leo A Rover declared in discussing "The Relationship of Advertising to Prevention of Crime," before the Advertising Club yesterday noon.

"Where fraudulent and unethical methods prevail among business men, you will find a crime-infested community," he asserted. "On the other hand, where truthful, square methods in business are pursued, you will have a lawful and explar community."

BOARD NAMED TO INVESTIGATE THEIR CONDUCT

Bride, Davison Chosen by Commissioners to Make Inquiry.

SHIFTED OFFICERS' RANKS UNAFFECTED

LIEUTENANT MADE COMPLAINT OFFICER

Pratt Says Action Meets All Suggestions Made by the Grand Jury.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday relieved Inspector William S. Shelby and Detective Lieut. Edward Kelly from duty in the Detective Bureau and transferred them to posts of equal rank elsewhere in the Police Department.

Subsequently the District Commissioners acted upon a recommendation made by Maj. Pratt and appointed Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and Maj. Donald A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, to inquire fully into all facts in connection with charges against the two officers "whose actions" in the McPherson murder case "have been held reprehensible."

Thus did the District officials comply with the demands of the grand jury that Shelby and Kelly, accused of attempting to conceal evidences of a murder behind a theory of suicide, be removed from the Detective Bureau.

"It is believed," said Maj. Pratt, "that this action will meet with all the suggestions contained in the report of the grand jury."

Shelby, until yesterday chief of the Detective Bureau, is now "supervising inspector of the uniformed force." His new job is a revival of an obsolete post once held by Maj. Pratt, but which has been "practically abolished" for several years.

No one seems able to enumerate definitely the duties of the "supervising inspector of the uniformed force," but the general opinion of police officials, including Maj. Pratt, seems that Shelby is to function as a sort of contact point between the superintendent of police and the various inspectors.

Kelly and Morgan Exchange.

Kelly is assigned to duty as liaison and complaint officer, succeeding Lieut. Joseph C. Morgan, who in turn succeeds Kelly as chief of the homicide squad.

There is no mention made in any of the orders or recommendations issued in the matter to indicate officially who is to be the new head of the Detective Bureau. It was stated last night, however, by Proctor L. Dougherty, president of the Board of Commissioners, that Shelby is to be relieved by Capt. Walter Emerson, heretofore his assistant, who is now to hold the title of acting chief of the Detective Bureau.

Pratt's action in transfering Shelby and Kelly from the Detective Bureau to other jobs, while it is believed to comply with the letter of the demands made in the grand jury's report Mon-

RUM EXPORTS CURB REFUSED BY CANADA

Government Has No Right to Halt Shipments to United States, Is Ruling.

SPECIAL LAW NECESSARY

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Canadian department of justice has ruled formally that the government of Canada has not the power to prohibit the regulation of the export of liquor to any country wherein the importation of liquor is prohibited or restricted.

This opinion, which has particular application to the United States, became known today when Premier MacKenzie King, after a meeting of the cabinet council, said the department of justice had been requested for a ruling on whether he and his colleagues could prohibit by regulation liquor export from Canada to a prohibition country.

The reply was in the negative, the premier added.

"That means that any actions for the prohibition of liquor export to countries where its importation is prohibited or restricted must be taken by Parliament," Premier King said.

Asked whether he believed Parliament would act, the premier replied, "That is for Parliament to say."

Broker, Ruined in Stock Market, Leaps to Death

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A broker leaped to his death from a window on the eleventh floor of the Hotel Shelton early today after writing a note telling of stock market losses of $124,000 since last April.

The man was identified from papers in his pockets as W. J. Keyes, vice president of the Charles Freshman Co., Inc. A note addressed to "Dearest Mother" said "last April I was worth $100,000. Today I am $24,000 in the red."

VIRGINIA PARK LAW UPHELD BY COURT

Way Is Cleared to Acquire Shenandoah Reservation by Judge's Ruling.

LANDOWNERS LOSE SUIT

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 1.—The way was paved today for the Virginia State Conservation Commission, in charge of Virginia's end of the park movement, to immediately commence work of acquiring land in the Blue Ridge Mountains for conversion into the proposed Shenandoah National Park when Judge Philip Williams, in the Warren County Circuit Court at Front Royal, handed down an opinion upholding the validity of the State park law which permits the commission to institute blanket condemnation of the 327,000 acres of mountain land from Front Royal to Waynesboro. Judge Williams' opinion came in a test case instituted by a number of mountain landowners in Warren County in which the validity of the law passed by the extra session of the Virginia General Assembly two years ago was attacked in a friendly suit. A number of Page County landowners intervened.

The case has been pending before Judge Williams for thirteen months, his opinion being delayed by several reopenings of the suit to permit all dissatisfied landowners to have their say in the one case. Judge Williams, in a 23-page opinion, overruling the contentions of the landowners that the law is unconstitutional, held that the statute is "very carefully drawn and based upon established principles and precedents of the law of eminent domain and well designed, practical and sufficient for the purpose of providing a system of procedure adapted for the condemnation of extensive areas of land."

Mayor Walker Discovers Telephone Wires Tapped

Revelation Follows Charges That Tammany Controls "Tax Racket," Making Poor Bear Burdens of Favored Rich; Padlocked Cable Box Opened.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Discovery that all the telephone wires into the City Hall office of Mayor James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for reelection, had been tapped was today's election sensation.

The discovery followed anti-Tammany charges that more was known in high places of the murder of Arnold Rothstein than had ever been made public, and that Tammany Tiger controlled a "tax racket" by which the poor were made to bear the burdens of the favored rich.

Seventeen telephone instruments are in the mayor's office, and all of the wires run through a padlocked cable box in the basement. This box had been wrenched open. An old abandoned wire from the basement to the third floor also ran through this box, and a short wire had been spliced to this so that it could be hooked onto any of the cables to the executive office.

Telephone company experts, called in to investigate strange noises and "fading" on the mayor's wires, discovered marks of hook-in clips indicating that a portable listening set had been connected with the abandoned wire in the committee room of the aldermanic chamber, in the gallery outside that room, and in an anteroom on the third floor.

Asked to comment on the political significance of the wire tapping, if any, Charles Kerrigan, assistant to the mayor, replied that the public could best judge of that, and asked in turn who would have an interest in such tactics "at this time."

F. H. LaGuardia, Republican fusion candidate for mayor who made the "tax racket" charges and who has

$40,000 in Bank Seized by Bandits

Five Men Force Fifteen to Kneel at Wall While They Loot Vault.

Cadillac, Mich., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Five armed men late today held up the Peoples Savings Bank here and forced Alfred Chapman, cashier to open the bank vault from which they took between $40,000 and $50,000, while more than 15 persons in the bank either lay face downward on the floor or knelt with their faces to the wall.

The robbery apparently had been well planned, the cashier said. When the five entered the bank, one took his position at the front door, another made five bank employes lie on the floor, a third forced the cashier to open the vault and the remaining two gathered up the money and some securities from the vault and tellers' cages.

Eight persons including E. J. Haynes, president of the bank, entered during the holdup. Each was directed by the man at the door to kneel and face the wall.

Senate Will Investigate All Lobbying Activities

Caraway Resolution for General Inquiry Is Adopted. Is Broad Enough to Include "Social" Propaganda in Capital, Senator Brookhart Is Informed.

(Associated Press.)

Moved by the activities of William B. Shearer and by charges that efforts had been made to influence tariff legislation, the Senate yesterday adopted the Caraway resolution for an investigation of lobbying in Washington.

The proposal was advanced by Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, early this year, but little interest was shown in its adoption until recently, when event caused lobbying activities to be thrust to the forefront.

The investigation was assigned to the Senate judiciary committee, of which Senator Norris, of Nebraska, is chairman. The Nebraskan is expected to call his committee together shortly to discuss plans for the inquiry.

It is intended to develop the nature of lobbyists' activities, the extent of their revenues—and for what purpose and in what manner they are expended. An expense fund of $10,000 was appropriated.

Just before the resolution was adopted, Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, asked Caraway whether the committee intended to investigate "the social lobby" in the Capital. The Arkansas senator replied that the resolution was broad enough for that.

Under the resolution, Senators have asserted, the committee may investigate both the popularly termed "big Navy" and "little Navy" advocates, tariff legislation seekers and all other persons seeking to influence the trend of affairs at the Capitol in such questions as prohibition.

The Caraway resolution set forth the charge had been made that "lob-day, is not in line with other recommendations to which the Commissioners had given serious consideration, and which would have been more drastic if adopted.

This other course would have relieved Shelby and Kelly from all duty until specific charges could be brought, when the two would have been suspended and their cases acted upon by the Police Trial Board.

Pratt Expresses Confidence.

Exercising his power of transfer, which can not be overruled except after action by the Trial Board, Pratt stood upon his authority as head of the Metropolitan Police Department to follow the procedure, which he followed yesterday, by which the two officers will continue to function as active members of the department until such time as Bride and Davison complete their investigation and Trial Board action may be indicated.

In taking this stand Maj. Pratt expressed full confidence in Shelby and Kelly, citing "the long and faithful services rendered to the community by the two officers, in whom the department has and must continue to have confidence until facts are presented indicating that such confidence has been forfeited."

Maj. Pratt pointed out that under the law the two officers are entitled to trial on sworn charges, to be represented by counsel and to have witnesses summoned in their behalf. He stressed the grave importance of the matter to the Police Department and its deep interest to the public.

Bride and Maj. Davison went into executive session a few minutes after being notified of their appointment as an investigating committee by the Commissioners, but it was indicated that their activities last night would be confined to laying plans, and that no definite steps would be taken in their probe until today.

Meanwhile, Robert J. Allen, the suspended policeman, who constituted himself an independent detective bureau to prove his contention that Virginia McPherson was murdered after his superiors had classed the case officially as "suicide," was still without the rank of detective sergeant which was the goal which he has insisted prompted him in his battle against the entire Police Department.

ANDERSON'S LAND TO BE CONDEMNED

PRICE IS SET AT $25,000

The Montgomery County commissioners yesterday directed Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, to file condemnation proceedings against the property of Otto W. Anderson, cunty agent. The property is the last remaining parcel in the block west of the courhouse at Rockville, needed by the county for the erection of a modern courthouse and jail, upon which a price has not been agreed.

The special subcommittee of the courthouse building committee reported that a conference had been held with Anderson and that an agreement on the price could not be reached. The report was presented by Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners.

Clark reported that the committee had offered $25,000 for the property, which had been appraised at $23,800 in the original estimates but that Anderson had intimated that he would not take less than $30,000. Anderson had asked $38,000 for the property but intimated at the conference that he would be satisfied with $30,000.

Condemnation proceedings were authorized several weeks ago by the county commissioners but Capt. Cissell had been instructed not to force the case until a final effort at amicable settlement had been made by the subcommittee. The county commissioners yesterday directed him to proceed with the action.

It is probable that the necessary papers will be filed within a day or two, possibly today.

It was hoped that the property could be obtained without the delays of condemnation in order that the actual work of starting the construction of the new courthouse and jail could be begun.

County officials are anxious to have the new building constructed as quickly as possible in order that the valuable records of the courthouse offices can be stored in a fireprof building.

At the annual meeting of the Takoma Park Chamber of Commerce held Monday night at 32 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md., the annual election of officers was held and Gordon W. Bonnette, president of Old Colony Laundry, was named president. Bonnette succeeds H. L. Thornton, who retired after serving for two years.

Other officers elected, all to serve for one year, are: Oliver W. Youngblood, vice president; John W. Coffman, secretary; J. Milton Derrick, treasurer; executive committee members, H. L. Thornton, Louis Sherman and Dr. J. Walter Dudley. Derrick was reelected.

It was voted to affiliate with the United States Chamber of Commerce, and to join in the movement to form a State chamber of commerce for Maryland. An invitation from the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring the organization of a State-wide chamber, met with approval and President Thornton appointed the following committee to act for the local organization: John W. Coffman, chairman; Gordon W. Bonnette and H. L. Thornton.

A final report from the second annual celebration committee, of which G. W. Bonnette is chairman, was deferred until the November meeting. A meeting of this committee will be held on Thursday or Friday morning to receive the final report of the chairman of the subcommittee on finance, A. D. Grubb. Th committee plans to settle all accounts of the celebration at this meeting.

Railway Clerks Plan To Ask Higher Wages

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Representatives of 69,000 railway and steamship clerks met today to consider a wage increase. It was understood they would ask twelve and a half per cent increase from twenty-five Eastern railroads.

GOV. RITCHIE TALKS AT OPENING OF FAIR

RACES ARE POSTPONED

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Md., Oct. 1.—Despite rain and cool weather the Charles County Fair opened on schedule this afternoon though all outdoor events, including the races, were postponed. A crowd approximating 1,000 saw the interior exhibits and heard the addresses.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, Brooke Lee and Cy Cummings spoke during the afternoon.

The exhibits were deemed especially good this year. Live stock and poultry entries were so numerous that temporary sheds were erected to accommodate them. Space for household exhibits was so far short of the demand that a large tent was obtained to house the State Health Department displays.

The fair will be carried over a day more than scheduled in order to complete the program of racing and other outdoor events. Today's racing events will be held on Friday, the closing day.

James P. Ryon, of Waldorf; Julian C. Blacklock, of Bel Alton, and W. B. Perry, of Welcome, have been named judges for the daily races. Wallace S. Barnes, of La Plata, will be clerk to the judges.

All passenger trains on the Popes Creek line of the Pennsylvania Railroad will stop at the fair grounds.

W. B. Kinne, Idaho's Acting Governor, Dies

Lewiston, Idaho, Oct. 1 (A.P.). The Tribune was informed that Lieut. Gov. W. B. Kinne, of Idaho, who also was acting governor, died at Orofino, Idaho, tonight. The Lieut. Governor's death was unexpected. He was stricken with appendicitis Saturday, but an operation was not thought necessary until Sunday morning.

Lieut. Gov. Kinne, a Republican, was holding his first major political office. He was acting governor in the absence of Gov. H. C. Baldridge, now in Ogden, Utah, representing the state at the meeting of the western division of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

GAME THREAT SEEN IN LICENSE TO 'BABE'

Ruth Pays $15.50 for Hunting Privilege to Clerk in Upper Marlboro.

GIRL EMPLOYE THRILLED

George Herman Ruth, better known as "Babe" Ruth, King of Swat, has been issued a license to hunt in the State of Maryand and was the guest of Frank Owens, of Hyattsville, over the week-end, at the latter's hunting lodge on the banks of the Chesapeake.

Miss Helen Briscoe, who issues the hunting licenses at Upper Marlboro, Md., yesterday discovered that the plain George H. Ruth, to whom she issued a license Saturday, was none other than the famous Bambino. Miss Briscoe is a baseball fan. Needless to say she is thrilled to death. The Babe didn't ask for the license himself, but secured it through a friend. He paid $15.50 for a State-wide nonresident license.

In the month of September 488 county-wide, 146 State-wide, 59 nonresident, 17 duck-blind and 4 pusher licenses were issued at the office of Summerfield Hall, clerk of the Circuit Court for Prince Georges County, according to Miss Briscoe's report. The fees amounted to $2,061.

The Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday authorized the purchase of a new automobile for the use of Miss Ruth Tighe, county nurse, and an increase of $100 per year for a bus line to the Mitchellville School. The increase was made necessary by the enlargement of the territory served by the bus.

Edward H. Russel, 45 years old, a tenant on the farm of Clarence Roberts, attorney, at Landover, Md., was cut about the wrist yesterday afternoon when a lamp globe which he was cleaning exploded. He was brought to Casualty Hospital and treated by Dr. John Collins.

H. E. Keene, 38 years old, 338 Thirteenth street southeast, Washington, a collector for the Collier Publishing Co., was injured about the hand yesterday when his automobile was in collision with the rear of a truck at Berwyn. Keene was given first aid at the Berwyn pharmacy and then drove his car to Casualty Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Philip Stebbing.

According to Keene his car skidded on the slippery road when the truck stopped unexpectedly. His hand was badly cut and he suffered considerable loss of blood.

The high officials were guests of Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Namura and his officers, who were returning the entertainment tendered them on their stay. The ships will leave Baltimore Harbor tomorrow morning for an eight-day stay in New York.

Five-Acre Site Bought For Franklin School

Franklin, W. Va., Oct. 1.—The Board of Education of Franklin district has purchased from Dr. O. Dyer and the T. J. Bowman estate five acres of land in North Franklin between the Petersburg and Harrisonburg highways for a high school site. Bids for the erection of the main unit of the high school were asked recently. The voters of the district at a recent election favored issuance of bonds for $25,000 to cover the project.

M'PHERSON HEARING IS SET FOR SATURDAY

U. S. Attorney Rover Plans to Arraign Wife-Murder Suspect October 5.

SPEEDY TRIAL IS SOUGHT

Robert A. McPherson, jr., 21-year-old bank clerk, who was indicted Monday by the District of Columbia grand jury on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the mysterious strangulation of his nurse-wife, Mrs. Virginia McPherson, will be arraigned before Justice Peyton Gordon in Criminal Court No. 1 on Saturday, according to an announcement by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover.

"At the same time we will seek to have a date set for the trial," Rover continued. The United States attorney announced Monday immediately after the indictment was returned that he would seek to try the youth at the earliest practicable moment.

Possibility of a delay in the trial was seen yesterday in the fact that McPherson's attorney, William E. Leahy, is also engaged in the Albert B. Fall trial, which is scheduled to begin next Monday.

Prosecutor Not Named.

Aside from the statement as to the arraignment and the desire of his office to have an early trial, Rover had no statement to make in the case.

Pressed for a statement as to what assistant would prosecute the case, the United States attorney said announcement of that would be made in due time.

It is considered unlikely that Assistant U. S. Attorney William H. Collins will get the call. Collins conducted the investigation before the grand jury and was criticised by that body for the manner in which certain phases of the investigation were handled.

Fihelly Is Mentioned.

John W. Fihelly looms as Rover's possible choice for the assignment unless Collins is given the task. Rover refused to say that Collins would not be given the job or to say that he would do it.

Fihelly is considered one of the best assistants in Rover's office and has had much experience as a prosecutor.

That Fihelly is regarded highly by Rover is indicated by the fact that he acted as United States Attorney during Rover's absence on vacation during the summer.

DANVILLE TOBACCO PRICES DISAPPOINT

WEATHER HURTS SALES

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 1—Marked disappointment was evidenced by old belt farmers today when the price of their tobacco averaged no more than 15 cents or approximately production costs. The opening sales here saw 750,000 pounds of leaf on display. The actual figures and precise average is not expected until late, owing to the unusual size of the opening break.

Many farmers refused to sell and withdrew their tobacco taking it home for better prices later. Dealers and warehousemen admitted that the prices were lower than expected due chiefly to weather conditions. An equinoctial gale, torrential rain and relative high temperature, together with poor light for judging, conspired against the farmer. The tobacco was overmoist and in that condition quickly spoils.

This invariably causing price depression. The general opinion was that the farmers have a good crop and that when the best leaf comes in, prices will advance. Most of today's tobacco was of "common" variety which is not in demand, as the lower belts have contributed so much inferior leaf that the large companies no longer need it in quantity. It was noted today that the expert leaf company buyers were particularly heavy purchasers and this was taken by the farmers as an encouraging sign. The situation on the Danville market was paralleled by that seen in the other markets in the belt where the general average was reported to be about 15 cents.

Petersburg Sales Brisk.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 1.—The Petersburg tobacco market opened today for the sales of loose-leaf tobacco at the different warehouses for the season 1929-30. The tobacco offered was of mixed grades, and the breaks were fairly large. Although weather conditions were unfavorable, it was estimated that in the neighborhood of 150,000 pounds of tobacco were sold at an average price of 15 cents per pound.

The sales were attended by buyers from several large companies, and the bidding was spirited. The tobacco crop in the counties contiguous to Petersburg is said to be the largest in some years and the quality much better than that of last year.

on his cot. Then he read and reread the letter.

Gazes Over at Gallinger.

Conversation became difficult after that. The good fellowship that McPherson has always offered reporters vanished. It was clear that he wished to be alone. Uljee seemed to understand and began to read a magazine.

The last the reporter saw of McPherson he was staring dreamily through the window of his cell across a stretch of green lawn and flowers. Through the mist of rain his gaze rested on the red and white buildings of Gallinger Hospital. To his mind one memory must have come—the memory of the night he first met Virginia Hurly in that building across the way, the night he first danced with her, perhaps the first night he took her in his arms and said, "I love you."

COURT IN VIRGINIA UPHOLDS PARK LAW

Conservation Commission, announced this afternoon that steps will be immediately taken to acquire the land, under this law, in Warren County, United States Government engineers have completed a survey of the bounds of the park area in Warren County, enabling the Conservation Commission to inaugurate necessary legal proceedings to acquire the land.

As fast as the boundary lines are completed in Page, Rappahannock, Madison, Greene, Rockingham, Albemarle and Augusta Counties, machinery will be set in motion to acquire the designated mountain land in those counties. The Federal engineers have completed the survey of all the counties except Albemarle and Augusta, but they have made a report only on Warren County.

"Under this law," said Carson today, "we hope to be able to acquire possession of the land in fee simple and have it in shape to turn over to the Federal Government within two years. If we had been compelled to follow the old condemnation law, it would have taken us ten years and would have involved a heavy cost in instituting suit for each of the 4,000 tracts of land in the park area. It must be remembered that Congress, in passing an act to create the Shenandoah National Park, stipulated that the land must be donated by Virginia in fee simple. That means that Virginia, acting under the park law, must first acquire the park area and then give the Federal Government a title to it before it will be developed."

Cost Held Problematical.

Just how much money the 327,000 acres of mountain land will cost is a matter of conjecture. It is generally estimated at between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 dollars. The Conservation Commission now has in hand approximately $2,500,000 for the purchase of the land. This sum is made up of nearly a million dollars raised by the old Shenandoah National Park Association in a popular subscription campaign, another million dollars appropriated by the Virginia Legislature from the $2,000,000 surplus during the first two years of the Byrd administration, and $550,000 given by two millionaires whose names have never been divulged by Carson.

Under the law, upheld by Judge Williams, the land will be acquired in this fashion:

Circuit court judges in Warren, Page Rappahannock, Madison, Greene, Rockingham, Augusta and Albemarle Counties will name appraisal boards of five men each to fix the value of each tract of land in those counties. Land owners will establish their titles before these boards. The boards will then seek an agreement as to the price.

Board Fixes Value.

If no agreement is reached, the board then fixes what it deems a fair value and reports to the circuit court judges their findings. Hearings will be held by the circuit judges for land owners dissatisfied. The court may overrule the findings and send a disputed case back to the appraisal board. When the price of the mountain land is finally fixed in each county, the judge notifies the Virginia Conservation Commission and that body puts in the hands of the court a sum to cover the aggregate cost of the land in its jurisdiction. The court then pays the land owners.

COMMISSIONERS' POSITIONS MENACED BY MURDER CASE

and prosecutor who fought the murder theory.

Leaving Capper, Allen said he was going to a movie and relax. Senator Capper said he would take no action unless the Commissioners failed to do what he thought they ought to do in view of the grand jury's scathing report.

Go on Own Initiative.

Contrary to reports, Simmons and Holaday were not summoned to the White House, but went there on their own initiative. President Hoover was at a Cabinet meeting when they arrived, so they talked to Secretary Newton.

"The responsibility for the chaos caused by the McPherson case," Simmons said afterward, "rests entirely with Maj. Pratt, the superintendent of police, and the Commissioners. After all, who else could it rest with?

"Here were Shelby and Kelly fighting to prove that the girl was a suicide, and here was Allen fighting to prove it was murder. They were like small boys in a jealous quarrel. Instead of trying to solve an important mystery, it looked to me like they were trying to prove each other liars."

Action Was Needed, Claim.

"Now here was where the chief of police and the Commissioners should have stepped in. They should have called a halt to the bickering and demanded that the investigation go on in an orderly, harmonious manner. But they remained silent; they did nothing.

"This was not the first time they failed to take proper action. There was the Burlingame case, and there were others I might cite, too, but I suppose I have said enough."

Discussing the future of Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly, Simmons expressed the opinion that their usefulness was ended. What jury, he asked, would give them respectful attention after what the grand jury has just said about them?

Representative Holaday felt pretty much the same way as Simmons about the McPherson case and about conditions here in general.

Situation Long Standing, Claim.

"The disgraceful situation which exists within the Metropolitan Police Department today," he said, "did not arise within the last two weeks; it is the natural result of conditions which have been present for many months.

"This situation was called to the attention of the District Commissioner in charge of police (Proctor L. Dougherty) last February, but no adequate steps have been taken to remedy the conditions."

Commenting on the grand jury report accusing Shelby and Kelly of inefficiency and of destroying evidence, Holaday agreed with Simmons that no jury would ever convict on their testimony in the future.

"The chief of police is responsible for allowing this situation to exist," Holaday said. "If he is unable or not willing to cleanse the Police Department he can be removed by the District Commissioners. In the final analysis the responsibility rests with these men."

Shelby, Kelly Scored.

Representative Bowman's statement was a scorching attack on the conduct of Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly in the McPherson investigation. The "hasty and unwarranted" decision that Mrs. McPherson was a suicide, he said, can not be justified even by an error in judgment. For judgment, he said, was rendered without the determination of all the facts.

"Apparently," he said, "it was a conclusion without investigation and founded only upon rank incompetency and inefficiency."

Bowman called upon Maj. Pratt to follow the recommendation of the grand jury that Shelby and Kelly be relieved of duty in the Detective Bureau, which Pratt did.

Made Study of Government.

Bowman is a member of the Gibson subcommittee, which made an exhaustive study of the local government, and it is as a result of this study that he now is drafting a bill to provide for a governor for the city.

Senator Blease was inspired to arise in the Senate after reading the McPherson story in The Washington Post. He had the story put into the Congressional Record.

RANSOM PLOT SEEN BEHIND KIDNAPING

SEARCH FOR LAD IN VAIN

Detroit, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A search of more thaff 24 hours for 5-year-old Jackie Thompson, believed to have been kidnaped from in front of his home at 5 p. m., Monday by two men in an automobile, had failed to reveal a trace of the child tonight.

Police late today, however, announced that they believed Henry S. Thompson, the father, was in touch with the kidnapers but was refusing to talk because of warnings given him.

Henry Thompson, jr., 8, was the only witness to the kidnaping of his younger brother. The child's mother was in the house at the time. Both heard the screams of the child and saw the car in which he was held speed away from the lonely neighborhood in which the Thompson house stands.

It is the belief of authorities that a ransom and extortion plot is behind the child's disappearance. Investigation of the real estate business conducted by Thompson and of his personal affairs, however, convinced officers that there were no known enemies who could be suspected of the act.

Belief that Thompson was in touch with the kidnapers was strengthened when he rushed away from his home this noon, returning 90 minutes later apparently much relieved. He refused to answer questions put to him by police. Officers said they believed Thompson was withholding vital information from them and decided to let him make the next move.

Officer Is Indicted In Virkkula Death

Second-Degree Murder Is Charge Laid Against Customs Man.

International Falls, Minn., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Emmet J. White, 24, of Duluth, U. S. customs patrolman, was indicted late today on a second degree murder charge for killing Gust Henry Virkkula, of Big Falls, Minn., the night of last June 8 while White and another officer were searching for automobiles carrying liquor. White will be arraigned here tomorrow to enter a formal plea in District Court.

The grand jury of 22 men and two women spent slightly more than three hours in examing witnesses and deliberating before returning the true bill.

White, who is out on $5,000 bail, announced that he was prepared to appear tomorrow. He expressed no surprise at the action taken by the jury, although he had nothing to say of his plans.

Writer, Unable to Sell Stories, Shoots Self

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Richard Allman, 21, writer, who came here to visit his sister after he had made the rounds of Chicago magazine publishers in a vain effort to sell his stories, shot and killed himself in her home today.

Allman had unsuccessfully sought to market his writings in the East and six months ago attempted to commit suicide in Detroit. His sister, Mrs. Robert Jackson, said he refused to do any other work when his stories failed of acceptance.

Woman Assails Ford's Opinion of Fair Sex

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Henry Ford's ideas about women were attacked by Mrs. Lillian Gilbreth, New York industrial engineer, in an address before the annual convention of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs here tonight.

Mrs. Gilbreth charged Mr. Ford with "turning his back on women when he tells us our place is in the home." She stated, on the other hand, that the automobile manufacturer had, by contributing greatly to the modern machine age, made it possible for women to pass more time away from home.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

A CHANGE in the whole strategy of the fight against prohibition is indicated by the elaborate preparations for the approaching battle in Massachusetts. One of the clearest signs is the falling off in the Senate and House of the outbursts by wet senators and members of the House against the Volstead and Jones acts. The wets are beginning to realize that this nagging policy, while most annoying to the drys, actually accomplished nothing save to give the Antisaloon League leaders and excuse to raise more campaign funds.

It has begun to dawn on them also that the election here and there of a wet senator or member of the House in place of a dry did not actually accomplish anything. As a matter of fact, the wets fared rather badly in the Hoover-Smith election, regardless of the actual wet and dry sentiment in the sections where they lost.

For example Maryland, which has elected wringing wet Albert C. Ritchie governor three times, although no governor since the Civil War has succeeded in getting more than one term, elected a dry senator, Goldsborough, over Bruce, one of the most caustic wets in the Senate. The State of Missouri replaced wet Senator James A. Reed, who did not seek reelection, with a dry Republican, and the Norfolk district of Virginia, which had the only wet member of the House between the Potomac River and New Orleans, elected a dry Republican in his place.

BUT with the rather strong stand of President Hoover for State cooperation—following an attitude on public land and education questions which showed a strong trend toward State rights (his utter rejection of the department of education idea for example)—the wets have come to believe that their best program for the next few years is to induce individual States to repeal their State enforcement laws.

Massachusetts offers the best prospect, they believe, and they are getting ready for a whirlwind campaign in the Bay State. They want to add it to the five States which now have no local enforcement laws—New York, Wisconsin, Montana, Nevada and Maryland. Maryland never had one. New York and Wisconsin repealed theirs by acts of their legislatures, following popular referendums which went heavily wet, and Montana and Nevada repealed theirs by direct referendums.

The last method is the one which appeals most strongly to the wets. They point out that in such States as Illinois, for example, where a referendum somewhat similar to that in New York and that in Wisconsin gave a tremendous wet victory, the legislature paid no attention to it. In most States, they complain, the legislatures are gerrymandered so that the rural districts have greater representation than the cities, while the wet sentiment is generally stronger in the cities and the dry sentiment in the country districts.

The only important exception to this general rule is California, where Los Angeles, the largest city, is heavily dry. It is probably the dryest big city, from a political standpoint, in the country.

• • • •

IT may be that fights to repeal the State enforcement acts will be made next year in several States, California and Missouri being among those under consideration, but most interest centers on Massachusetts.

Massachusetts went for Smith in 1928 by a majority just under 20,000. But Senator David I. Walsh, a wet, was reelected by 125,000, while a referendum appealing for modification of the Volstead act was passed by a much larger majority—around 200,000. Which proves again that the vote for wet or dry candidates does not necessarily give a clear indication of local sentiment. Too many other complications are apt to enter in when personalities and party issues become involved.

But Massachusetts will be of enormous interest because it is generally regarded as a wet State. Actually it is not so wet, in the opinion of many of its leading politicians, as most outsiders believe it. Boston is wringing wet, and so are the big manufacturing cities. But the rural sections of the State, particularly in the western section, are heavily dry.

• • • •

ANOTHER element enters into the situation to make the outcome doubtful. The drys will use to the utmost the idea that if the State enforcement act is repealed, speak-easies will multiply. Actually there is no appreciable change in New York City since the Mullan-Gage act was repealed, but Bay State politicians point out that in the old days the rich suburban towns around Boston generally went dry on local option, though the very people who voted dry were glad to have Boston wet, and brought their liquor home with them from the Hub.

They think, therefore, that many of the wets who theoretically are opposed to the eighteenth amendment, and actually are getting their liquor without too much trouble now, even though the price is high, would prefer the present situation to an opening of the door to speak-easies.

Their theory, according to this contention, is that the bootlegger is all right, but the speak-easy is bad.

There is no doubt about this—that if Massachusetts should go dry on a popular referendum, it would be a terrible blow to the wets. It would make the path to modification of the Volstead act look mighty long and dreary. If it should go wet, it would be pretty much what the country would expect, though it would add enormously to the difficulties of national enforcement.

All Sudbury Ceases Labor To Extend Dawes Welcome

Sudbury, England, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—This quaint old English borough, which numbers among its industries the manufacture of coconut fiber "welcome" mats for the doorsteps of the world, had only one big industry today, and that was the making of a rousing welcome for Ambassador Charles G. Dawes.

The Ambassador was made an honorary freeman of the borough, from which one of his ancestors, William Dawes, set out with the Puritan settlers of Massachusetts colonies in 1628.

He was hailed as the personification of America's vigorous race by officials of the municipality. They added that Sudbury looked upon this American descendant of a seventeenth century Sudbury stonemason as her own contribution to the ranks of the world's statesmen.

To make it a suitable welcome, the band in Sudbury market place played "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" as the ambassadorial limousine rolled into town from London. Few Englishmen know the American words to this tune, but the music sounded like home to the visiting Americans.

Gen. Dawes replied with his usual picturesqueness to the warmth of Saturday's welcome.

Signing the roster of honorary freemen, he told the townspeople he thought it would have been impossible to pick a better ancestor for an American family than a Puritan stonemason from Sudbury, "a builder, not a destroyer: A constructor, not a critic. Also a man who did not run with the crowd."

The ambassador lunched with the townspeople in the regimental drill hall, drank a health with the mayor from a huge silver loving cup, spoke fatherly advice to the school children and shook hands with everybody in the town hall. Then he and Mrs. Dawes strolled through the town like home folks, chatting here and there with the friendly people and visiting some of the historic buildings.

As he walked along the streets the smoke from his well-known underslung pipe trailed behind him to the manifest interest of the townsmen.

Sudbury's welcome included the whole Dawes family, and Mrs. Dawes was a center of attention, particularly when she drank out of the silver loving cup which the ambassador and the mayor also used.

She was preented with a cushion of hand-woven silk, made in Sudbury, and a miniature old English room constructed by a member of the town council. The model room was completely furnished in oak.

FOUR PERSONS DEAD AS GALE HITS SOUTH

Tropical Disturbance Sends Rivers to Flood Stage and Halts Traffic.

ANXIETY GRIPS AUGUSTA

Atlanta, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Excessive rainfall, high winds and two deaths marked the progress of the tropical storm which squirmed northeastward through Georgia today, after entering the State through the Gulf of Mexico.

Shorn of its hurricane force by contact with land, the storm vented its wrath in gales and rain which exacted heavy toll of all communications lines and sent many streams toward the backfull and flood stages.

The 30 to 50-mile gales accompanying the storm took one life at Albany. Dewey Moore, 30, carpenter, was killed by flying debris at a crumbling brick cotton gin where he had stopped to repair his automobile.

Woman Is Electrocuted.

Mrs. Isham Douberly was electrocuted near Blackshear, Ga., when she came in contact with a high voltage wire blown down by the winds. Otherwise, damage from winds throughout the storm area appeared to be minor.

The storm hesitated as it entered the State headed northeastward and remained central in the area of Thomasville for several hours. The course then curved northeastward, C. F. Von Hermann, of the Atlanta Weather Bureau said, and lay diagonally toward the Atlantic.

If the disturbance is sharply checked by high pressure areas to the north, the course will lie directly to the coast, probably just north of Brunswick, Ga. Otherwise, it will head more gradually up the Atlantic Coast line, probably emerging to the ocean around Charleston, S. C.

Barometer Is Falling.

Late today Brunswick reported a falling barometer and a 50-mile gale, and Savannah was expected to experience 45 to 60-mile winds tonight.

Meanwhile telegraph and telephone communication was difficult through the storm area.

Rainfall was particularly heavy in the Flirt, Ocmulgee, Oconee, Savannah, Altamaha, and Chattanooghee River basins. Thomasville had 3.40 inches of rain in the 24-hour period end at 7 a. m.; Macon, 2.14; Augusta, 2.06, and Atlanta, 1.72.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Waters surrounding the Florida peninsula were believed to be virtually free of distressed shipping tonight for the first time since early last week when the West Indian hurricane swirled over the Bahamas.

Tug Is Disabled.

The tug Bafahe, towing the Seaboard Oil Co. barge Tiolene from Smiths Bluff, Tex., to Tampa, reported itself drifting 50 miles off Cedar Keys with disabled engines. The crew of 22, however, was said to be in no immediate danger and several Coast Guard boats were on the way to assist.

Confusion arising from the receipt of S O S calls from both the Garnet Hullings and the Salina Saturday night was cleared up today as shipping circles determined that the distress signals were from one tanker. It developed that the Garnet Hullings was formerly known as the Salina. The Hullings was floated Sunday after foundering off the East Coast and now is en route to Baltimore under its own power.

Boats Reach Port.

The fruit boat Truxton, which lost a propeller in the high winds, arrived at Tampa today, two days overdue from Cuba, while the Clyde Line freighter Oneida reached Jacksonville from Boston one day behind schedule because of the recent gales.

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—E. D. Emigh, U. S. meteorologist, tonight predicted the Savannah River tomorrow would reach a stage of 47 feet, "making the flooding of Augusta almost certain."

Emigh's prediction was based in the river reading at 8 o'clock tonight. At that hour heavy rains continued to fall in the watershed to the north of the city.

Six hundred soldiers and 1,000 civilian laborers tonight were working on the 18-mile levee built to protect Augusta from high water of the Savannah. The levee was weakened by the flood which last week reached a record stage of 46.4 feet and tonight three large crevasses remained in the portion lying below Augusta.

Woman Seriously Hurt in Fight.

Suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, Maggie Robinson, colored, 18, was reported to be in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital yesterday as the result of a fight with her husband, Willie A. Robinson, colored, 24, at their home. The man was treated for cuts about the face and arms, which, police said, were inflicted by his wife.

overturned boat about 150 feet from the opposite shore of Log Tavern Pond, which is about a quarter of a mile wide in front of the house.

She summoned workmen on the estate, who went out in a boat to investigate. They discovered Mitten's body under the boat in 15 feet of water. The boat had been anchored. The oars were in the boat, and a fishing pole also found in the boat did not appear to have been used.

The opinion was expressed that, in preparing to fish, Mitten had a dizzy spell and fell overboard.

Besides his son, Mitten is survived by two brothers, A. G. Mitten, treasurer of Mitten Management, and P. J. Mitten, assistant to the vice president of Mitten Managemen in charge of operations, and two nephews, E. L. Mitten, treasurer of Mitten Bank & Securities Corps., and C. E. Mitten, assistant to the vice president of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. in charge of operation.

System Under Fire.

For some time past Mitten Management has been under fire of citizens and certain civci organizations in connection with the management of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., which owns nearly all the surface lines in the city, all the elevated lines, and the Market Street Subway. At present Mitten Management is operating the city-owned Broad Street Subway under a so-called gentlemen's agreement.

Mitten came to Philadelphia in 1911 after a disastrous strike of the street car men and took hold of the management of the company. After straightening out the company's affairs he entered into an agreement with the 10,000 employes whereby the latter have a voice and an interest in the company's affairs. This agreement has attracted wide attention.

Mitten was a millionaire several times over and was said to have been one of the most heavily insured men in Philadelphia.

Born in England.

He was born at Brighton, Sussex, England, of English parentage. In 1875 the family came to America and settled on a small farm at Goodland, Ind. Until the age of 21 he remained on a farm and learned during his spare moments practical telegraphy in the local freight office of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad (then the Chicago & Indiana Coal Railroad) at Goodland. He was variously employed until 1896, when the management of the Milwaukee Street Railway System offered him a position as assistant superintendent. It was at Milwaukee he first conceived the elements of the cooperative plan.

In 1905 he accepted the task of come general superintendent of the International Railway, operating the electric railway system centering at Buffalo, N. Y.

In 1905 he acepted the task of straightening out the transit situation in Chicago and spent six years there before coming to Philadelphia.

RAYON MILLS HEAD, IN PAIN, ENDS LIFE

FOUL PLAY DISCOUNTED

Elizabethton, Tenn., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Konsul W. C. Kummer, acting president of the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff plants, was found dead in bed here today, his left wrist slashed in a dozen places. A coroner's jury declared he had killed himself while "in intense pain."

A note in German, found on a table in the room, read: "I do not believe that I shall be able to work any longer for Rayon. If by chance any impairment * * *" The sentence trailed into unintelligible words, as if the writer had been unable to finish. The note was interpreted for the coroner's jury by E. R. Boss, technician at the plants.

Foul Play Discounted.

Hints of foul play, advanced earlier in the day, were dispelled, after the inquest at which Dr. J. B. Shoun, of Elizabethton, testified that the mill head was subject to attacks of gall stones and that he had suffered from that cause Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Shoun, who was called when the body was found by Dr. W. P. Sander, who shared the house with Kummer, said the mill executive's wrist had been "slashed to the bone" ten or twelve times, and that apparently after using a safety razor blade on himself, Kummer had walked to the bathroom and then circled his bed twice before lying down to die.

The telephone operator testified the signal for Kummer's number had flashed between 12:30 and 1 o'clock this morning, but when she received no response she "plugged it up." The telephone was found on the floor beside the bed where Kummer's body was lying, and the hour coincided with testimony as to the probable time of death.

In Charge Two Months.

Dr. Kummer came here about two months ago from Germany to assume control of the mill, succeeding Dr. Arthur Mothwurf. During the past few weeks, unrest of employes who struck last spring, closing down the plants, was manifest, and while officials of the American Textile Workers Union made preparations for a strike ballot, Kummer ordered a ballot in the mills under the direction of workers' committees. The employes voted against a walkout. Kummer was a native of Barmen, Germany, where his wife and two daughters live.

Before coming to the United States he was active in German industry and was a director of the J. P. Bemberg A. G., of which the local mills are subsidiaries; the British Bemberg, Ltd., the Associated Rayon Corporation and Kodak A. G., in addition to other smaller companies.

After funeral services here tomorrow the body will be sent to his former home at Barmen, Germany, for burial.

S. R. Fuller, chairman of the board of the two corporations here, is en route from New York to assume charge of the mills.

VOTE TO BE CLOSE ON FLEXIBLE TARIFF

MANY SPEECHES MADE

(Associated Press.)

Senate factions at loggerheads over the flexible tariff policy appeared yesterday to be more hopeful than confident of the outcome in the first real test of strength in the tariff contest.

So close was the issue after the sixth day of debate that some senators said a tie vote might result, leaving Vice President Curtis to cast the deciding ballot. The outlook was for a vote late today or tomorrow.

Nearly a dozen speeches were made during the day. Incidents of the last presidential campaign were revived. Senator Allen (Republican), Kansas, speaking for the flexible provisions, said the words of John J. Raskob and Alfred E. Smith on the tariff were not reconcilable with those now being uttered by Democrats in the Senate and asked whether they "were playing politics then for campaign purposes, or if they are playing politics now for party purposes?"

Replying, Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, said he was sorry that Allen, by innuendo, had "waved the bloody shirt of partisanship" in such a scientific discussion. He also regretted that the Kansan's coworker in the campaign (William Allen White), had not been brought forward to retract the campaign words which Tydings said had cast aspersions upon the personal character of Alfred E. Smith.

Senator Simmons (Democrat), North Carolina, predicted he had enough votes to withdraw the power now delegated to the President to change customs duties after investigation by the Tariff Commission. The Democrats concede the Republicans four or five minority votes, but hope to more than offset these by a dozen or more Republican independent ballots.

If all senators voted or obtained pairs a tie would be impossible since there are 95 senators now on the rolls. The likelihood of a tie is held out, however, for the reason that occasions are rare when the entire Senate is recorded.

Recognizing the vote-getting possibilities of the amendment to the minority plan suggested by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, and aimed to prevent general revisions every time the Tariff Commission reported to Congress, the Democrats formally accepted it along with some perfecting amendments also proposed by the Nebraskan independent. The best vote is to come on this revised minority proposal.

Lake Ship Seized With $3,000 Rum

Steamer Utica Is Raided at Milwaukee; Captain and Sailors Held.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Great Lakes Transit Corporation might faced the possibility of losing the steamer Utica, authorities said, because the vessel held illicit liquor when it docked here. The liquor was valued at $3,000.

Coast Guardsmen and Federal prohibition agents raided the Utica late last night, following a tip Saturday from Windsor, Ontario, that the ship had sailed with a cargo of liquor. Those responsible for the shipment of the liquor may be liable under two counts—smuggling and transportation of illegal liquor.

Capt. Robert Koch, of Buffalo, denied that the liquor cargo was carried for purposes other than for use of the crew. W. Frank Cunningham, deputy prohibition administrator, however, said a Milwaukee bootlegger had been offered a part or all of the liquor before the ship docked.

Capt. Koch and a number of the crew were placed under arrest.

Premier Plays Deck Game; Daughter Dances With Mellon's Nephew.

S. S. Berengaria, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The party of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald engaged in little activity today while this vessel pushed its way steadily over smooth seas toward New York, where it will arrive Friday morning.

Mr. MacDonald paid a brief visit to the sun deck in the afternoon, where he played shuffleboard with Robert G. Van Sittart and W. L. Craigie of his staff. "I had a great game," he remarked as he descended.

Capt. Sir Arthur H. Rostron gave a small tea in his cabin on the bridge, at which former Ambassador James W. Gerard and Mrs. Gerard were guests, as well as the British Premier.

Miss Ishbel MacDonald kept up her attendanne at the evening dances with various partners, one of the privileged few being Tom Mellon, nephew of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Stafford Is Urged For Chief Justice

Attorneys to Ask President to Name Ranking Jurist if McCoy Quits.

Attorneys who practice in the District Supreme Court are planning to hold a meeting at an early date to draft resolutions urging President Hoover to nominate Justice Wendell P. Stafford as chief justice should Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy retire in December when he becomes eligible for retirement because of his age.

The movement was launched yesterday at the opening of the fall term of the court and it is likely that it will be given additional impetus during the next few days.

Justice Stafford is the ranking jurist on the bench and the attorneys feel that, if Chief Justice McCoy decides to retire, his mantle should fall on Justice Stafford.

FORESTS OF SIBERIA VEIL COSTE'S FATE

French Flier and Comrade Last Seen 250 Miles Off Course.

SIGHTED AT LAKE BAIKAL

Moscow, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—At midnight, almost five days after he left Paris in an attempt to set a new nonstop flight record, the fate of Dieudonne Coste and his companion, Maurice Bellonte, still was in doubt.

Their red sesquiplane, the Question Mark, apparently followed the great Trans-Siberian Railroad Line without mishap for 2,000 miles until the Frenchmen lost their way shortly after leaving Novo-Sibrisk. That Siberian city is 1,000 miles this side of Irkutsk, their immediate objective.

At 6 a. m. Sunday, Moscow time, they were reported over the city of Kirensk, 500 miles northeast of Irkutsk, on the Lena River, far north of their scheduled route. Observers here believed that Coste, then realizing his mistake, attempted to fly southward and reach Irkutsk from the east.

He was sighted later the same day, or at least a strange plane was seen which was thought to be the Question Mark, over the village of Adamova, in the Barguisinsk district on the eastern shores of Lake Baikal, 250 miles northeast of Irkutsk.

Although all Soviet authorities have instructions to telegraph immediately any word of the aviators, no further tidings have been received since Adamova reported.

Lieut. Smith, the pilot, was a reserve officer, who came to Fort Riley August 17 for a year's active duty at Marshal Field. He is survived by his widow and five children.

Three other Army pilots, flying in formation nearby, witnessed the crash.

Hand Firing Coal Into Your Boilers Is Today Needlessly Wasteful and Primitive, When You Can Positively Save Fuel, Trouble and Money With

Combustioneer

The Automatic Coal Burner That Feeds and Burns Coal at Less Than Half the Cost of Oil

Where do your dividends come from in your apartment building, factory, hotel, garage, laundry, greenhouse, dairy? They represent the difference between your income and what it costs you to operate that building. What does your ledger show?

If you are still operating your plant with primitive hand-firing methods, we can prove to you that at least every third shovelful of coal which you pay for might just as well be thrown out of the window. Combustioneer has demonstrated the above fact time and time again. For the efficiency and savings possible with Combustioneer, the automatic coal heating, coal burning device are not an experiment. In every section of America today, in every type of building, in boilers used for either heating or power . . . Combustioneer has replaced fifteenth century hand-firing methods with modern efficiency and economy.

With enthusiasm almost unbelieveable they will show you actual figures on their own boiler room on how Combustioneer has made it possible to burn the lowest-priced fuel on the market more efficiently than it was ever possible to burn the best grades of coal by hand-firing.

They will tell you that they are burning many tons less. They will point to Combustioneer's automatic control of heat or power, showing you that for the first time in their history they have been able to maintain day and night, a uniform, predetermined temperature or head of steam.

They will tell you how labor in the boiler room has been released for other duties in the building . . . a saving alone worth serious consideration. They will tell you that Combustioneer absolutely eliminates the smoke nuisance.

Get the facts about Combustioneer today. Write, telegraph, telephone.

Combustioneer can be installed over night, and the next day will start paying real dividends.

M'NAB TO STUDY DRY ENFORCEMENT

Hoover Names California Lawyer to Assist in Judicial Changes.

CONGRESS AID EXPECTED

(Associated Press)

To expedite the contemplated reorganization of Federal prohibition enforcement machinery, President Hoover has designated John McNab, a San Francisco attorney, to study the situation in cooperation with interested governmental agencies and formulate recommendations for congressional action.

This announcement was made yesterday by the Chief Executive, who disclosed at the same time that he expects specific recommendations to be ready for transmission to the Capitol at the regular December session of Congress.

As an additional means of bringing early action, Mr. Hoover is hopeful that Congress will adopt his suggestion of last June and appoint a joint committee to make an inquiry before the session begins. In this way, he believes, legislation could be formulated and laid before the two Houses at the outset of the session, thus avoiding the delay of protracted committee hearings after this session has begun.

Reviewing briefly the general form the reorganization is to take, the President said its primary purpose would be centralization of responsibility in the Department of Justice. To bring this about, it is proposed that the administrative phases of enforcement now under the jurisdiction of the Treasury be transferred to the Justice Department giving to that branch of the Government responsibility for both administration and investigation.

The inquiry also will include methods of expediting judicial action. Mr. Hoover pointed out that these proposals "have to do solely with administration and procedure in enforcement of the laws and not with change in the laws themselves."

The President said McNab had accepted the appointment at the joint request of himself, Secretary Mellon, Attorney General Mitchell and Chairman Wickersham of the Law Enforcement Commission. It is intended that he shall work in cooperation with the agencies that Mellon, Mitchell and Wickersham represent, possibly to coordinate their individual finding.

McNab, an old friend and formerly a fellow townsman of the President, came to Washington Monday and since has been a house guest of the Chief Executive. Because of his long association with Mr. Hoover he was chosen to make the speech placing the President's name in nomination at the Republican national convention last year in Kansas City.

Bankers of Capital Mourn Charles J. Bell's Passing

Young and Old Among Financiers of City Pay Tribute to Ability in His Profession and Value as Citizen; Stock Exchange Adjourns.

Sorrow pervaded the city and its financial district yesterday over news of the death of Charles J. Bell, chairman of the board of the American Security & Trust Co., friend of young and old bankers, Washington and its people. Officials and humblest clerks mourn his passing deeply and the entire business and civic realm became acutely conscious of what his loss means.

"The association has lost a great friend," said Wilmer J. Waller, president of the District of Columbia Bankers' Association, commenting on Mr. Bell's death. "He was always most active in promoting its welfare; a man whose advice and counsel could always be depended upon. A dean of his profession, he will be greatly missed and his loss notably felt. Mr. Waller added that the association will meet soon to take action of respect to his work and memory.

A. E. Henze, president of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, junior banking organization, voiced the deep regret of this group, saying, "The chapter feels his loss because he has been a friend of the institute ever since its organization. He has offered prizes to its students for years and has taken a profound interest in its work. We will greatly miss him.

President George O. Walson, of Liberty National Bank, and the Washington Stock Exchange, which adjourned yesterday morning out of respect for the deceased, said: "Washington has lost one of its leading citizens of all time. There is hardly any man we know who can take his place. In spite of his great responsibilities, he maintained a constant affability and geniality that endeared him to all of us. Always interested in the organization of the bank clerks, he continually encouraged it by offering prizes and undertook with interest promotion of plans for its welfare."

Secretary C. J. Gockeler, of the exchange, announced the death of Mr. Bell at yesterday's session, and Albion K. Parris, of Crane, Parris & Co., one of the two oldest members of the exchange and life-long friend of the deceased, paid tribute to his life and work at the session. President Walson will appoint a special committee to attend the funeral and one to pass resolutions of respect.

"Washington has suffered a great loss in his passing," said President Robert V. Fleming, of Riggs National Bank. "He was active, helpful and constructive in the upbuilding of the city. He was helpful in banking circles and in the progress the banks have made. I consider his passing a great loss to the city."

President John Poole, of the Federal-American National Bank, said: "His death is a very great loss to the city. He was the most brilliant, the most outstanding banker the city has ever known in my time and his death is a very great loss to the community."

Vice President Francis G. Addison, jr., of the Security Savings & Commercial Bank and official of the American Bankers' Association, declared "Mr. Bell was always looked upon as a man with intense interest in the welfare of his profession and the city. His interest in the bank clerks as reflected in his continuous prizes to students of the banking institute and his aid to its work had always been an inspiration to the younger bank officers and clerks. He was a friend of every bank officer he knew.

"I join with the community in mourning the loss of this outstanding man," said Vice President Frank W. Stone of the National Savings & Trust Co. He advanced the banking profession and other lines of endeavor in every way. He was a very high type of man."

"The entire banking fraternity as well as all who knew him equally regarded him as one of the highest types of man in Washington." This was the assertion of President George W. White of the National Metropolitan Bank. "His loss is going to be most deeply felt. As a public citizen, as a friend to young men as well as old, his loss can not be replaced and Washington will regret for many years his demise."

In the death of Mr. Bell, President Robert N. Harper, of the District National Bank said, "The banking fraternity has lost a most valuable member, one who has done much in a personal way to elevate banking and to encourage the student in the banking institute."

"His loss is a great one to the banking fraternity and the men associated with him," according to Henry H. McKee, president of the National Capital Bank and of the Washington Clearing House Association.

President Frank J. Stryker, of Columbia National Bank, described Mr. Bell as "Always a constructive banker whose first interest was the development of Washington. In his death the city has lost a most valuable man."

Peter A. Drury, chairman of the board of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., said "I had known Mr. Bell for 40 years and I regarded him as one of the most able bankers the city has had."

Referring to his death as a great loss to the profession and the bankers' association, President Victor B. Deyber, of the Second National Bank, described him as an outstanding man whose life and work had been a great influence in their growth.

"One of the finest men we have ever had here," was the tribute of President Edward J. Stellwagen, of the Union Trust Co.

Through the day statements like these were multiplied throughout the city, the financial district and the country. They came from high and lowly and all were equally sincere.

ington Stock Exchange, of which he was one of the best known members and a former president, adjourned immediately after call yesterday out of respect to its former leader. A committee on resolutions and one to attend Mr Bell's funeral will be announced by the Washington Stock Exchange today.

A native of Dublin, Ireland, Mr. Bell was educated in Wesleyan Connectional College in Dublin, and migrated to Canada in 1875, where he was employed with the Imperial Bank of Canada for four years. He then became interested with his cousin, the late Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, in the telephone industry, being appointed general manager of the National Telephone Co. of England in 1880. Two years later he came to Washington, married Miss Grace B. Hubbard, of this city, and organized the private banking firm of Bell & Co.

As was characteristic of every enterprise with which Mr. Bell was connected, the banking firm prospered and in 1889, when the American Security & Trust Co. was organized, Mr. Bell was offered its vice presidency. Four years later he was made president of the institution, which grew into one of the largest financial establishments in the District during his 35 years of subsequent leadership.

In February, 1928, Mr. Bell was succeeded in the presidency by Corcoran Thom, and was elected chairman of the board of directors, in which position he maintained his activity with the bank's affairs until his illness. A year ago, however, he took a trip to Ireland and had planned an Alaskan trip this year, but his health would not permit of such a long journey.

Mr. Bell also was chairman of the boards of directors of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co., and president and director of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. In addition to these connections, he was a member of the board of directors of the following thirteen representative business enterprises: Terminal Refrigerating & Warehousing Co., Washington Market Co., Security Storage Co., Real Estate Title Insurance Co., Columbia Title Insurance Co., Columbia Sand & Gravel Co., Braddock Electric Light Co., Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of this city, and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Cos. of New York, Virginia, West Virginia and of Baltimore, Md.

Leader in Philanthropy.

In the field of philanthropy Mr. Bell's leadership was much sought after and highly prized, and he was one of the incorporators of the American Red Cross and the Washington Community Chest. He was a trustee of the American University and the George Washington Memorial Association, and a member of the board and chairman of the finance committee of the Public Library. He also was on the board of directors of the National Geographic Society, and a member of the Chapter of the Washington Cathedral.

Other organizations in which he held membership were the District of Columbia Bankers Association, of which he was past president; the Washington Board of Trade, the Washington Chamber of Commerce, the Columbia Historical Society, the Telephone Pioneers of America, and the Metropolitan, Cosmos, City and Chevy Chase Clubs, of this city. At the time of his death he was treasurer of the latter club.

He was an influential member of the Episcopal Church and also a high degree Mason. In politics he was a Republican, although his other varied interests precluded any great activity in that field. He did find time, however, for his favorite diversions, which were fishing, golfing and motoring. He was an angler of some repute, and nearly every summer spent his vacations in Maine and Canada, engaging in that sport.

Raised Flowers as Hobby.

Another of his hobbies was the cultivation of flowers on his Twin Oaks estate, and he never failed to have a bouquet of blossoms on his desk at the bank, winter or summer. He also delighted in showing his friends through his hothouses and pointing out particularly interesting plants along the drives.

Mr. Bell's hospitality was legendary among his many friends, and the beauty and charm of his estate enchanted all who entered its drives. At the meeting held under the Twin Oaks last year when the Community Chest became an actuality for Washington, practically all of the civic leaders of Washington gathered in the ancient oaks' shade and it was generally remarked at the time that the benignancy of the surroundings had contributed greatly to the unanimity of philanthropic purpose which resulted in the launching of the chest.

Man Stricken Ill on Street Car.

David L. Lockard, 38 years old, of 778 Sixth street southeast, was taken ill on a street car at Tenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest and taken to his home by a passing motorist. His condition grew worse and he was removed to Casualty Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Louis Jimal for asthma. His condition was reported to be serious.

River Survey Fund Appropriated.

The Secretary of War yesterday appropriated $12,000 for making a survey of the Rappahannock River in Virginia for the purpose of formulating plans for power development, flood control and irrigation.

More Subtle Flares Rich Furring Labels the— 1929 COAT

The coats for 1929 are marked by a tendency for more flaring—more subtly accented — and by lavish use of rich furs. Our recollection is outstanding. The Cressala coat is here—in bottle green, a leading color, cleverly outlined in deep black lynx or fox, or rich chestnut brown beaver. There are others—woolen weaves using flat or fluffy furs.

THE LEGION FOR REAL PARITY.

The attitude of the American Legion toward national defense has long been understood, but it is well that National Commander McNutt took occasion to reiterate the position of the veterans at the annual convention in Louisville, Ky.

"Under present conditions," he said, "the policy of parity with other powers is absolutely essential to complete defense. Such parity must be real rather than apparent. If it is possible to achieve such parity by agreements rather than by competitive armament, the policy of the legion is to support such a move. Until such agreements are reached the cruiser-building program should be continued."

No opposition to limitation or even reduction of armaments can be detected in this policy. The legion stands firmly on the ground that the United States must be protected. If that protection can be secured through international agreements, without additional naval construction by the United States, those treaties will meet with hearty approval of the veterans. If parity can not be secured in that way, the Government is in duty bound to strengthen the Navy to a point where adequate national defense will be assured.

No organized group is in a better position to realize the cost of unpreparedness than the American Legion. It is not surprising that the soldiers who suffered the consequences of American unpreparedness in the World War should use their influence to avoid repetition of the loss which that policy entailed. The legion is fundamentally right in taking this position.

CHARLES J. BELL.

The people of Washington mourn the death of Charles J. Bell, a citizen whose long and public-spirited service had placed him in the foremost ranks of Washingtonians. Mr. Bell was never so engrossed in business as to be unable or unwilling to contribute more than a full share of his time to matters intended to promote the city's welfare. It is often said that the busiest men prove to be the most generous of their time and ability when really important public affairs press for attention, and this was certainly true in the case of Mr. Bell. The records of such service are not published, and the service is not performed for advertising purposes. Therefore much that Mr. Bell contributed to Washington's progress remains unknown to the public. This is as he would have had it. What he sought was sound accomplishment, and not self-glorification.

One of the last public services which placed Washington under a debt to Mr. Bell was his work in placing the community chest upon a solid and enduring basis. This undertaking owes its success to him more than to any other citizen.

Throughout many years, as the head of one of the Capital's leading financial institutions, Mr. Bell was enabled to foster innumerable local enterprises of merit and to safeguard the community's best interests by his wise counsel. His integrity in all the relations of life, his optimism and kindliness and his attractive personality commanded admiration and friendships which could not be broken except by death. The City of Washington, while mourning his departure, will gratefully cherish his memory.

AIR-MAIL CONTRACTS.

Conferences between air-mail operators and the Postoffice Department are being held this week with a view to making the air-mail service pay for itself. This is in pursuance of the plan set on foot by Postmaster General New, who issued orders for an overhauling of air-mail contracts with a view to obtaining cheaper service.

The Postmaster General is authorized to fix new rates on routes that have been in operation two years. It is one purpose of the conferences to reduce the high rates that were necessary when the service was in an experimental stage. Many of the contract operators are now well established and, in view of the greater volume of mail, can afford to operate with a lower rate. If these adjustments are sufficient to put the air mail on a self-sustaining basis, the system could be greatly expanded without further funds from Congress. Thus the conferences should redound to the benefit of aviation interests as well as to the Government.

A number of the contract companies are urging an increase in air-mail postage as a means of reducing the deficit. Evidently they hope that a postage increase would make contract adjustments more favorable. The belief has been expressed that a 10-cent rate would not result in reducing the volume of air mail, but figures showing the growth of the system make it difficult to accept such a view. The amount of air mail carried in August, 1929, was nearly seven times as great as that carried in the same month of 1927, when the 10-cent postage was in effect. August, 1928, the first month the reduced rate was operative, shows a 310 per cent increase over the previous August. The volume has continued to grow under the 5-cent rate, but only at the rate of 66 per cent. The difference between 66 and 310 per cent may be attributed to the reduction in postage rates. When these figures are considered there seems to be no justification for the belief that an increase in rates would not retard the progress of the air mail and reduce the revenue. It is not likely that the contractors will be able to induce the Postoffice Department to take this backward step.

THE M'PHERSON CASE.

The transfer of Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly from the Detective Bureau to other duties in the Police Department, where they will have no connection with the McPherson case, was made necessary in view of the grand jury's recommendations. The developments in that case will probably determine future action in regard to these officers.

The indictment of Robert A. McPherson for the murder of his wife, after the Detective Bureau and a coroner's jury had reached the conclusion that she had committed suicide, naturally brings out severe public criticism of all officials who were connected with the case. This criticism includes the United States Attorney's office.

The indictment of a man is only too often regarded as proof of guilt. It is nothing of the sort. Grand juries hear practically only one side of a case and sometimes are unduly impressed by hearsay and other "evidence" that is excluded from a trial. McPherson is legally entitled to the presumption of innocence, and his case should not be prejudged. His acquittal, after a fair and thorough trial, is just as fairly to be assumed as his conviction.

The long experience of Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly ought to be taken into consideration, as well as their possible mistakes in judgment. They had no possible incentive to make a murder appear to be a case of suicide. Events may prove that they weighed all the circumstances of the McPherson case more accurately than the grand jury has done. At any rate, no fair-minded citizen will jump to conclusions in regard to this remarkable case.

In order that an absolutely fair trial may be had, a special attorney should be detailed to conduct the prosecution. The United States Attorney should ask that his official personnel be relieved from further responsibility in this case.

MR. M'NAB'S BIG JOB.

To John McNab, San Francisco lawyer, has fallen the task of working out a plan for concentration of prohibition agencies in the Department of Justice. Hopes of the administration for more effective enforcement of the dry laws center about this investigation. If the wishes of President Hoover are carried out the study will be completed in time to submit a definite plan before Congress at the regular session beginning in December.

That Mr. McNab has one of the most difficult jobs in the country goes without saying. His investigation will include not only transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Department of Justice and other movements toward centralization of authority, but the expedition of judicial action as well. The previous announcement of the President on this subject indicates that he has in mind the creation of a single border patrol to deal with illegal immigration and all sorts of smuggling, as well as liquor importation. This is a plan on which there is certain to be disagreement. Mr. McNab is likely to be the country's busiest man for the next few months.

President Hoover's recommendation that Congress appoint a joint commission to cooperate in the investigation was disregarded. In connection with the appointment of Mr. McNabb he reiterates hope that Congress will take such action. Apparently Congress failed to act because some members took the attitude that the President was trying to shift responsibility for the proposed concentration of dry forces upon the legislative branch. There is no foundation for such an argument, since Congress must pass on the matter under any circumstances. If a committee were appointed to study the subject Congress would be in a better position to act intelligently either for or against the President's proposal. There is no reason why Congress should ignore the issue until a formal bill is introduced.

THE CHINESE INSURRECTION.

The resumption of fighting along the Hunan border gave evidence that the period of internal turmoil in China was not yet at end, but the manifesto issued by the reactionary wing of the Kuomintang party is a still more serious indication of widespread disaffection. The latest rebellious movement against the government of President Chiang Kai-shek has been instituted by Wang Ching-Wei, former chairman of the central executive committee of the Nationalist political organization, and ten other members of the committee who have been ousted by the president. The manifesto is being circulated throughout China and it may have the effect of uniting all the foes of the present regime.

Serious charges are made against President Chiang Kai-shek, including bribery, sale of public office, political corruption, misuse of public funds for military purposes, ruthless confiscation of property and unlawful execution of citizens. He is also accused of surrendering national rights to Japan and other nations, of packing the party congress last March with hand-picked delegates, and of neglecting tutelage of the masses for democracy to strengthen his own power. The president is referred to as the betrayer of his party, and the insurgents insist that fighting will never cease until he is overthrown.

It is difficult to estimate what portion of the charges are well founded because of the strict censorship which the Nationalist government maintains. There can be little doubt, however, that Nanking has used funds intended for constructive purposes to put down revolts and to buy off opposing military lords. No doubt President Chiang considers this justified by the achievements of his administration. The country is nominally unified for the first time in ten years, and a semblance of stability has been maintained for several months.

The chief complaint of the reactionary group is that the purpose of the revolution was to establish a democracy, but that instead a dictatorship has been set up. The Nationalists will hardly attempt to refute this charge. The impossibility of maintaining a democratic government in China at its present stage of political development is recognized everywhere. The Kuomintang aimed at a representative government, but the exigencies of repeated civil wars have made a virtual dictatorship the only form of government tenable. The choice has not been between democracy and dictatorship, but between chaos and dictatorship. The imperfections of the Nanking government are manifold, but the Chinese people may think twice before overturning the only regime that is capable of maintaining a responsible government.

HIGHWAY SPEED.

The annual congress of the National Safety Council is being held in Chicago this week, and the discussion naturally has centered upon the automobile, inasmuch as it is responsible for 27,500 deaths out of an annual total of 96,000. No sooner had the congress been opened than the question of automobile speed was brought to the forefront. Paul Hoffman, of South Bend, automobile manufacturer, defended speed as a contributing factor to the growth of civilization. Dr. Louis Dublin, New York insurance statistician, contended that there is no excuse for speeds greater than 35 miles an hour and that unless effective steps are taken to stop speeding the death toll of the automobile can not be reduced.

Between these extremes lies the road of safety and expedited transportation. It is quite true, as Mr. Hoffman pointed out, that the public today demands speed and that it is going to have what it wants. It is also significant that the average speed of traffic has been doubled in the last fifteen years, while the number of accidents per car has been almost halved. He predicts that in ten years improvements in highway construction and in automotive engineering will make it possible to tour with safety at 100 miles an hour. This seems to be a far-fetched prophecy. Few persons believe that it will ever be possible to travel at such terrific speed on a highway that must be shared with others.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Senator Borah has indicated that he will oppose any naval treaty which does not settle the question of the freedom of the seas. He will find company of like opinion in the Senate. Outside of the Senate there are many who are firmly convinced that there can be no hope of permanent peace among the naval powers, or between the two greatest, unless and until the issue of the rights of neutrals at sea during a war is faced, brought to the point of decision and embodied in a clear-cut and definite treaty.

Yet so wide and fundamental are the differences between the English and the American viewpoints on this problem, that even in the new and propitious atmosphere created by the Hoover-MacDonald movement it is doubtful whether any substantial progress could be made at the present time. The United States has always maintained, in theory at least, that neutrals have the right to trade as they please with belligerents, in the absence of a full and effective blockade, and with other neutrals. In practice, England has always used her sea power to prevent goods from reaching enemy countries or adjacent neutral countries. This right the British have shown slight signs of being willing to relinquish.

The possibility of compromise has, however, come in for a good deal of discussion. There are those who believe that, under the regime of the League of Nations and the Kellogg pact, there can be no important neutrals. It is pointed out that, in case of war, all members of the league are bound to be against the aggressor and at least morally committed to prevent aid and comfort from reaching a nation which takes up arms in violation of the covenant. Likewise, signatories of the Kellogg pact could hardly with consistency permit their nationals to trade freely with a nation or nations which violated the pledge to renounce war as an instrument of national policy and never to seek for settlement of disputes by other than peaceful means.

But it is still dubious how these moral obligations would stand the test of actual war. It has been found impossible to reach full agreement on the specific definition of aggression. Under the league covenant there still remains the possibility of a "legal" war—one entered upon by nations after exhausting all the steps provided for war-prevention. And in the Kellogg pact any commitment as to what the nations would do in case of a violation was studiously avoided.

In spite of the growing feeling that a nation in certain circumstances should be treated as an "outlaw," subjected to boycotts and otherwise punished, it is also clear that the United States is far from ready to surrender its long-maintained rights as a neutral. President Coolidge refused to enter into a discussion of freedom of the seas on the ground that the only possible result would be in the nature of a compromise and that the Senate would accept no compromise. He had good ground for his pessimistic attitude.

It is nevertheless possible that President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald have agreed to explore the subject. Dispatches from London indicate a conviction that the two statesmen will discuss the matter and point out the possibility that an understanding might be reached which could be embodied in a treaty. Whether there is any specific reason to believe that developments have reached this stage is uncertain.

But it is important that the subject should be explored and there is a favorable conjunction of men and circumstances for the exploration.

THE SECOND-HAND SHOP.

That is cluttered with things from the cellar to top.
There is something of everything scattered about,
But whatever you want he can ferret it out.
"Now just wait a minute," he says with a grin,
"I'll find what you're after. It's somewhere within."

This second-hand store on this little old man
I drop in to visit whenever I can;
For he in himself is a lovely antique,
And there's something about him so gentle and meek
That, just like the trinkets he sells, it appears
He has taken on charm with the dust of the years.

I chuckle to see him go shuffling around
Till the treasure he seeks in the rubbish is found,
And I fancy sometimes as I sit there and chat
In that jumble of things that man's mind is like that.
It's a second-hand shop filled with good stuff and cheap,
Gathered down through the years and all tossed in a heap.

Man gathers the good and the bad as he goes;
What he has, where it is, it is he only knows.
The stranger who sees but the rags and the bones
Looks in without finding the good thoughts he owns;
But buried beneath all the rubbish that's vile
May be fancies and dreams that are very worth while.

A Light Blow Hurts in Punishment; A Heavy One Doesn't in Play.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN the native of Australia has a foot so badly poisoned or injured that amputation becomes necessary, he digs a hole in the ground; buries the affected member within; places live coals against the flesh at the surface, and patiently effects an amputation that is thoroughly sterilized.

Natives of Africa, enduring emergency operations by white surgeons who had neither general nor local anesthetics, revealed no emotion except a delighted curiosity.

Wounded animals accept pain with philosophic calm and seldom permit a fresh wound to disturb their appetite.

Here, then, is sufficient evidence that the quality of imagination, which lifts the man of delicate sensibilities so far above the brute, multiplies his capacity for suffering.

The brute and the savage have nerve system much like the high-bred white man's. But they suffer less because they endure only the actual pain and not the fear of it.

Pain is more than half imagination.

The child happily continues its play while unaware of a cut foot, but screams in anguish when it discovers the bloody wound.

Men play or work or fight despite severe hurts and are completely unaware of pain until their wounds are discovered. The pain begins when the eyes discover evidence to warrant it.

Nearly all people who visit a dentist suffer more in anticipation than in fact, and those who can measure their sensations accurately are astonished to discover the actual pain not at all severe when separated from the dread and expectation of it.

Those who have endured much are little affected by further suffering—not because their senses are dulled, but because familiarity has taken away their fears and the pain they feel is not multiplied by imagination.

Those born with the power of imagination never can enter a battle as casually as the stolid groundling who "doesn't know what fear is," nor can they avoid anticipation of an ordeal that threatens; but imagination can harness logic as well as fear, and can be trained to picture the truth instead of exaggerating error.

The truth makes men free, and the truth about pain frees them from imaginary agonies.

Take away fear and most of the pain is gone. You can prove that by experiment, and the proof will rob life of its terrors.

COLLEGE QUESTIONNAIRE.

There is getting to be no limit to what our universities want to know about candidates for higher learning. A questionnaire submitted to all registering freshmen at the University of Chicago includes these queries:

1. Is your mother satisfied with her lot in life?
2. Are you apt to be frightened in the dark?
3. Have you ever experienced a complete lapse of memory?
4. Have any of your family ever taken drugs?
5. Are you shy?
6. Are you shocked when sex problems are discussed?

* * * *

Whether students whose mothers are dissatisfied with their lots in life are rated below those whose mommers find everything okay, and whether or not a collegian who is nervous when the lights are out is considered poor material for the football squad has not been revealed by the faculty.

* * * *

The possibility that a student may be deprived of his letter for once having a complete lapse of memory, or barred from the glee club on the ground that his old man once took a sleeping potion, does not, however, appear remote.

* * * *

But why stop with a few foolish questions? Why leave anything unrevealed? Let's go to the bottom of things:

1. Did you ever have any uncles who cut themselves while shaving?
2. Is your father satisfied with his bridge game?
3. Are you irresolute when faced with the opportunity to grab the brass ring on merry-go-rounds?
4. How is your Aunt Minnie?
5. Did any female members of your family ever stop to talk to and feed cookies to horses on the city streets?
6. Do you pull the sheets over your head when you hear the floor creak in the night?
7. Is your mother satisfied with the new cook?
8. Were any of your ancestors addicted to:
   (a) Sidewhiskers.
   (b) Croquet.
   (c) Zithers.
   (d) Dotted nightgowns.
9. Do you open your own soft-boiled eggs in a public dining-room?
10. Did you ever experience a complete loss of character?
11. Are you timid in the presence of dentists?
12. Are any members of your family, now living, still addicted to the high-wheel bicycle craze?
13. On which side did your great grandmother sleep?
14. How do you like your minute steak?
15. Have there ever been any rickets, gasmeter inspectors, delirium tremers, stamp collectors, hay fever or dog show judges in your family?
16. In sighting a rifle, do you squint with the left eye or the right?
17. Have you at any time in your life ever tried to put your pants on over your head?
18. What are your reactions when you are necking on a yacht club veranda when somebody fires the sunset gun?
19. Do you blush when abused by traffic policemen?
20. Have either of your parents ever written letters to the newspapers signed "Pro Bono Publico?"
21. Do you care for animal crackers?
22. Have you any uncles named Otis, Godfrey or Chester and did they raise mushrooms to earn money at home?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Appeal Made to Save as Shrine "Wayside" in New England, Which Hawthorne Occupied.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I recently received the following letter from a young lady who had just returned from New England. I think she states the facts very clearly and concisely. In this period, when "shrines" are being dedicated every other day or so, isn't there something that can be done to bring this need to public attention?

I quote: "Nathaniel Hawthorne * * * his home, Wayside, which he occupied from 1852 until his death in 1864, is to be offered this month for sale, without restrictions. This is the house Louisa M. Alcott's family owned and lived in for some time; they had called it Hillside, and in the barn many incidents related in 'Little Women' occurred. Some time after Hawthorne's death, Mrs. Daniel Lothrop (Margaret Sidney, author of the 'Five Little Pepper' series) purchased Wayside, restored it as nearly as possible to its condition during Hawthorne's occupancy, and, at her death, left it to her daughter, who had been born and reared there, firmly believing it to be in as safe hands as Alcott's Orchard House, which she willed to the Alcott Memorial Association. This daughter, who is unmarried, taught in Leland Stanford University for a number of years, and having now retired wants what money she can raise from the sale of this property to enable her to live in comfortable retirement in California. She visited Concord last summer, and while there, put Wayside into the hands of a committee, gave them permission to open it to the public—charging 25 cents admission—and first option on buying it. That option expired August 15, and the committee has done nothing toward raising purchase money or publishing the facts in the case.

"The present caretaker, a very charming lady, believes that this unrestricted sale of Wayside and its furnishing will lower the home of three of America's really fine literary families to exactly the same level as the home of Ephraim Wales Bull, originator of the Concord grape. Our first Concord grapevine now adorns the yard of an 'Inn—Tourists Accommodated!' There must be some one sufficiently interested in our native literature to prevent this."

I wrote to the American Pen Women about this, but they are engaged in buying the home of Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, and building a clubhouse there, and do not feel like undertaking anything more. I recall this charming old place very well from a visit to it perhaps 25 years ago; as I remember, it was not far from Emerson's old home. Miss Lothrop can not be very old; I remember when she attended Friends School here—she is perhaps 45. I should be very glad to have something done to save this dear old place from a sordid commercial end.

Mountaineers May Be Peculiar But They Don't Have Portable Schools.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Owing to incidents that occurred at Mr. Hoover's camp attention has been focused on condition in the mountains, and The Post has given considerable space to this subject. There is no doubt that there is a problem in the backwardness of the mountain people in many parts of the East as compared to the people surrounding them. It should be realized, however, that in spite of peculiarities and defects due to isolation the mountain people are much better suited to their environment than their average critic would be.

I know nothing about the Virginia situation except what I have read and I am not going to discuss it. However, I recently drove around the North Carolina mountains and was in some rather out-of-the-way places. As a result of my observations I would like to suggest that a committee of North Carolina mountaineers be invited to come to Washington to advise on our school problem, since I saw very few schools that were not considerably superior to the Washington portables.

Correspondent Demands a Better Quality of Whisky.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Every day your paper throws its columns open widely to people who for no good reason discuss the prohibition problem from the fanatical point of view. Why not consider this matter sanely? No one can deny, for instance, that the quality of whisky sold in Washington is far below the health requirements of any civilized nation. The quality of the liquor consumed by the natives here is far below the standard demanded by the natives of the Kongo or of Madagascar.

Something should, therefore, be done about it by the there-ought-to-be-a-law contingent of the citizenry, with a view of bringing about an improvement in the quality of the liquor sold and consumed here and of bringing it within reach of the connoisseur of average earning capacity.

ALFRED JACOBS.

Bantam Currency Has a Way of Sliding Out Under Cover of Bigger Playmates.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The mixed currency in one's billfold has reached the point where it is very annoying. From all appearances the man-size bills are in circulation just as much now as they were before the stunted currency came out. The main drawback to such a condition is the loss which can so easily be suffered by taking one of the blanket bills out to pay for some purchase and having one of the dwarfs sneak out under the larger one. Often one pays for a purchase hurriedly and is apt to lose sight of the chickenfeed shinplasters.

I think the Government should come to the relief of the citizens by paying for all proved losses caused by the nurture of normal and subnormal currency.

Jurists Start Back to City To Open Court

Several Members of High Tribunal Already Are in Town.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE executive and legislative branches of our three-way government may be subject to the whims of politics, but the judiciary goes on the even tenor of its way. So the early autumn finds the grave and reverend seigneurs of the Supreme Court reassembling in Washington ready for the opening of the Supreme Court on the first Monday in October and their call, in a body, upon the President to inform him officially that the tribunal is in session.

Chief Justice Taft returned yesterday, while Mrs. Taft stopped in New York on their way from Murray Bay, in the Province of Quebec, which has been their summer home for a score of years excepting for the time when Chief Justice Taft was President Taft and when it was not considered expedient for the President of the United States to pass his holidays in Canada. Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft have been at Murray Bay since June and for part of the summer had their sons and their daughter with them as well as their eleven grandchildren.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes returned last week from Beverly, Mass., where he spends the summers in the old-fashioned New England house which was the home of his father, Oliver Wendell Holmes, poet and philosopher. Justice and Mrs. Brandeis are back from New England. Justice and Mrs. Butler are again in town and so is Justice McReynolds, the bachelor member of the court. Justice and Mrs. Sutherland had a house in Burlingame, Calif., for the summer months, but will be again in town before next Monday.

Justice and Mrs. Van Devanter have long favored Georgian Bay, Canada, but this year elected to spend the summer near home, at Monterey, in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Pennsylvania. They are due here today. Justice Sanford is already in town, but Mrs. Sanford will linger in New York, where she now is, through the rest of this month.

Justice and Mrs. Stone came home a few days ago. Their summer home is an island off the coast of Maine, which can be reached only by boat, and then only if the tides are right. When they entertain friends from the mainland for dinner they needs must speed the parting guest at the appointed hour or have him marooned until the turn of the tide.

Ambassador of Peru Returns to Capital.

The Ambassador of Peru, Dr. Hernan Velarde, has taken an apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel. He returned to Washington Monday after passing several months in Europe.

The Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Carlos G. Davila, entertained a party of seven at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton Hotel.

Senator and Mrs. David Aiken Reed have returned to town from Hot Springs, Va., and are at the residence at 1904 R street, which they will occupy until the house they are building is ready for them. Mrs. Reed spent the summer at Hot Springs, the senator joining her occasionally for brief vacations.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke, has engaged an apartment at the Mayflower Hotel for the winter. Mrs. Jahncke is expected to arrive in Washington early in November.

Miss Adele Townsend Jahncke is finishing her education at the H. Sophie Newcomb College for Women in New Orleans, and is not expected in Washington until after her graduation next spring.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Merritte Ireland will entertain at dinner at the Chevy Chase Club October 9, for the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurley will also be guests of honor at a dinner to be given by Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Frank R. Keefer on October 11.

Gherardis to Entertain For Mlle. Siegfried.

Capt. and Mrs. Walter Gherardi and Miss Neville Gherardi will entertain at dinner tonight at their home in Bradley lane for Mlle. Claire Siegfried, daughter of M. Andre Siegfried, of Paris, distinguished writer and lecturer, who is visiting Miss Gherardi. Capt. and Mrs. Gherardi and Miss Gherardi have recently returned to their house in Bradley lane. They spent part of the summer at Williamstown, Mass., attending the sessions of the Institute of Politics.

Mrs. Henry F. Dimock will return to Washington tomorrow and will reopen her house at 1301 Sixteenth street for the season. Since leaving Bar Harbor, where she spent the summer, Mrs. Dimock has been visiting her daughter, Signora Catalani, at South Coventry, Conn.

Mrs. Hampson Gary and Miss Helen Gary will arrive in town today from New York to join Mr. Gary, who returned a few days ago. They spent the last two months in England and France. Mr. Franklin Gary has returned to Oxford University, where he is taking postgraduate work.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John L. Clem have completed a visit with Mrs. Clem's father, Mr. Dan Sullivan, and her sister, Miss Annie M. Sullivan, in San Antonio, Tex. Gen. Clem returned to his apartment at 1870 Wyoming avenue yesterday and Mrs. Clem will be back shortly after a visit with her daughter in New Albany, Ind.

Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, and his mother, Mrs. W. Bayard Cutting, of New York, have opened their apartment at the Mayflower. For the summer months Senator Cutting occupied a house in Woodland Drive.

Mrs. Charles S. Deneen has joined Senator Deneen in Washington at the Mayflower for a few days and will return to Chicago the end of the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Tom A. Williams will spend the last few days of this week at Wardman Park Hotel. They have been at New Rochelle and are on their way South.

Mrs. Thomas B. Hutchinson has returned from Lenox, Mass., and has taken an apartment at 2400 Sixteenth street for the winter.

Mr. Mauro de Freitas, newly appointed second secretary of the Brazilian Embassy, is a guest at the Mayflower. Before coming to Washington, Mr. de Freitas was with the foreign office in Rio de Janeiro and this is his first assignment to a diplomatic post. He is unmarried.

Representative William I. Nolan, of Minnesota, and his daughters, Miss Germaine Nolan and Miss Patricia Nolan, have taken an apartment at the Cavalier. The Misses Nolan will take courses in dramatic arts in Washington.

Mrs. Hugh M. Wilson and her daughter, Miss Wilson, are guests at the Willard. After entering her daughter in school in the Capital, Mrs. Wilson will return to her home at Boyce, Va.

Mrs. William Draper Blair has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Hare Lippincott, at her home in Georgetown for a few days, but will return shortly to her home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John Powell are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Thursday in Chicago. Before her marriage Mrs. Powell was Miss Imogene Taylor, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. David Taylor.

Mrs. Hoover to Christen Air Liner Today

Ceremony to Take Place in Presence of Distinguished Company.

Mrs. Hoover will christen the giant airliner Buenos Aires to be launched today by the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Air Line. She is greatly interested in the development of air traffic between North and South America as a means of promoting good will among the American republics. The ceremony will take place this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and invitations have been issued by the officers and directors of the line to a distinguished company of official guests.

Mr. Dwight W. Morrow, United States Ambassador of Mexico, arrived yesterday at the White House to be the guest of President and Mrs. Hoover.

Last evening the President and Mrs. Hoover entertained a few guests at dinner.

Tomorrow will be "Republican Women's Club Day" at the luncheon and bridge party which is to be a feature of the Military Exposition and Carnival to be held at the Army War College for the benefit of the Army Relief. The carnival will open tomorrow and will continue through Saturday, such thrilling events as the sham battle, featuring Sergt. York's historic exploit in the Argonne, and the great aerial circus being repeated each afternoon and evening.

The guests of honor at the bridge luncheon, for which Mrs. Colden L'H. Ruggles is chairman, will be Mrs. James W. Good, wife of the Secretary of War; Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, wife of the Chief of Staff, and Mrs. Edward H. Harriman, the president of the Republican Women's Club.

Aside from the help thus given the Army Relief Society, an exceedingly pleasant social event is in prospect. It is hoped that as many members of the Republican Women's Club as possible will be present Thursday. Tickets to this benefit bridge luncheon may be obtained from Mrs. Colden L'H. Ruggles, the Wyoming Apartments; Mrs. E. D. Bricker, 3700 Massachusetts avenue, and Mrs. Charles R. Baxter, 16 Oxford street, Chevy Chase, Md.

Hale Wedding To Take Place On Old Estate

"His Lordship's Kindness" Revived as Name by Mother.

Miss Mary Hale, daughter of Mrs. Chandler Hale, whose marriage to Mr. George Howland Chase 3d, will take place on Saturday at noon, will have in her group of bridesmaids Miss Margen Wylie, Miss Laura Towne, Miss Marjorie Eustis and Mrs. Benjamin Warder Thoron, who was Miss Violet Spencer. The ceremony will be at His Lordship's Kindness, near Upper Marlboro, Md., a picturesque old estate, which Mrs. Hale purchased recently.

This house was built for a bride, the land having been part of a patent to Col. Henry Darnall, dated 1702, and deeded two decades later to his son, Henry Darnall, when he married Anne Talbott, niece of the Earl of Shrewsbury. For many generations the estate was in the possession of the Dangerfield family, distinguished in the history of Maryland and Virginia. They called the place Poplar Hill, but when Mrs. Hale bought it, she delved into history and revived the earlier and more romantic name. Mr. Chase is the son of Mrs. George Howland Chase, of Washington.

Col. William B. Ladue, Engineer Commissioner of the District, and Mrs. Ladue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Ladue, to Lieut. Gordon Hall, U. S. M. C. The wedding will take place in the winter. Lieut. Hall, who is a native of Boston, is at present on duty in China.

'SECRET' PAPER HELD BOGUS

Shearer, the latter testified, several copies of the document's contents, or what might be called "proof-sheets."

"What am I to do with these?" Shearer said he asked:

"We think you ought to give it out," he quoted "Commander Powell" as having replied.

He went to former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, whom he said he always considered a friend of the Navy. It has already been brought out that the fifteen-cruiser program was pending in the Senate at that time and there was fear among the big Navy advocates, including Shearer, that it would be sidetracked for the Kellogg peace pact and then permitted to die upon the calendar.

Gave It to Reed.

In one of his reports to the shipbuilders, Shearer told of the serious situation confronting the cruiser program and how he gave the document to Senator Reed who, as a result, made a Navy speech that resounded throughout the country.

"What happened when you gave the document to Senator Reed" he was asked.

"Then I telephoned to Powell to stand by."

"To do what?"

"To stand by or remain on board, as we say."

The point that Shearer wanted to make, and he was at a dramatic pitch now, was that the Navy should stand by as Reed cleared for action.

No Reference by Reed.

"What if anything did Senator Reed ever do about the document?" Senator Robinson asked.

"I do not know."

A check-up of the speech made by Reed at the time discloses no reference to it at all.

It was at this juncture that Senator Allen offered the report of "Mr. Merrill," Navy intelligence expert, describing the document as not authentic. The senator later explained that it was a scientific discussion of the document.

Asks Wiseman Called.

"Bring Wiseman here," Shearer said. "He can tell you." Incidentally he had first referred to Wiseman in his blustering way as "head of the British secret service in this country, the chief British spy, now with Kuhn, Loeb & Co." and looked triumphant as he said it.

"Nobody ever notified me it was not authentic," he said, and he insisted that the Navy Department "made it authentic" by placing Wiseman's name on it and photographing it.

He was asked if he ever heard any more about it.

"Sometime later a navy intelligence officer came to New York to see me," he said.

"They were investigating you," Senator Allen observed.

Old Activities Recalled.

"Yes," agreed Shearer, "but sometime afterward I called up Commander Howell, in charge of the Third Naval district and he told me that the man who was making that investigation had been sent to South America." Again he leaned back in his chair triumphant.

Shearer's patriotism was outraged on an occasion some years ago when he was here working in behalf of another cruiser bill.

There was a controversy on between the Navy and the venerable Martin B. Madden, then the hard-boiled chairman of the House appropriations committee, now dead. It was over a statement of fact. Shearer related with a disgusted air that the then Representative Blanton, of Texas, made a fiery speech siding with Madden.

One-Man Rally.

"Not a man on that floor got up to defend our Naval officers," Shearer exclaimed. But he did. He immediately got out this hot statement:

"Will you take the word of Martin Madden, born in Darlington, England, or that of the American Navy?"

"You were doing that in pursuance of your duty to earn that $7,500," Senator Allen observed.

"I was doing it to get the three cruisers," Shearer admitted.

"That's the same thing," commented Allen. It has been testified that the shipbuilders were paying him $7,500 for his work at that time; the shipbuilders insisting, however, that it was his merchant marine enterprise.

"Shearing" His Patriotism.

Senator Allen, in fact, set out to "depatriotize" Shearer as soon as it came his time to question him. He told him frankly that he thought he ought to get the $250,000 for which he is suing, but he wanted an understanding that it was for this that Shearer was working at Geneva.

He read from a letter that Shearer had written to the shipbuilders after his return from Geneva, saying that "as a result of the failure of the Geneva conference there is pending before Congress a 71-cruiser program costing $741,000,000," and saying further that he was still on the job and had been carrying out his understanding with the shipbuilders "to get more business."

Allen insisted that regardless of the various interpretations placed upon his work at Geneva, Shearer was over there in pursuance of that "contract to get more business." He called Shearer's attention to his testimony, the basis of his present suit, that he understood that when he went to Geneva that he was to be employed for ten years at the rate of $25,000 a year, or, rather, that had been his proposition and the shipbuilders had assured him he would be taken care of.

The senator never reached a definite agreement with Shearer, however, as the latter insisted upon pitching his Geneva service upon a high patriotic plane.

In answer to Allen's questions Shearer discussed his association with Admirals Reeves, Schofield and other naval officers attached to the American delegation.

"Why, we would gather in the hotel," he said. "Sometimes there was Admiral Reeves, sometimes Admiral Schofield, sometimes Commander Train, sometimes Commander Frost. They never gave me any information. There was none that they could give me. I knew more about it than they did. At no time did Admiral Reeves express himself beyond the 250,000 and 300,000 tons, which Ambassador Gibson laid down in his first speech."

He said he "never got a thing out of Admiral Schofield." Schofield, however, was at his house for dinner one night. He had expressed a desire for some "good old home cooking," Shearer said, and that was all there was to that.

Shearer said that on one occasion he put out the "story" that the British were 50,000 tons over the Washington treaty with their battleships, and the naval officers themselves were surprised.

"Where did you get that?" he quoted them as asking him. "We thought we had that locked up in our files."

Trailed by the Press.

Shearer had previously testified that the New York Times was "pro-British," a favorite expression of his. At yesterday's session prepartory to introducing the owners of the Times into the record, Senator Allen asked Shearer if he knew who they were.

"I know that the editor, Frederick T Birchell, is British and travels on a British passport," he said, "and that he ordered me trailed after I left Geneva. Wythe Williams (Times correspondent at the conference) came to me and said that he was under instructions to trail my every step, and that in order to keep the record straight and as one American to another he wanted to tell me."

Subsequently, a Chinese official of some name warned him, Shearer said, "not to put my feet on British soil or they'll get you the same as they got Imbrie in Persia."

Birchell is acting managing editor of the Times. Previously Shearer had bragged that Williams used his "stuff" and that the Times printed it.

Dropped by Hearst.

Of recent date he had been working for William Randolph Hearst, he testified, in a campaign against the world court. Hearst dropped him, however, he said, when the investigation began.

Senator Robinson could not resist going back to develop some more about the story of how Shearer went to Boston to "fool the simple Irish" for the Republicans during the campaign.

Shearer related that Nicholas Murray Butler had attacked the big Navy views of President Hoover as set out in his acceptance address. Shearer responded with a ringing retort. He wrote a Mr. Archer, Senator Allen's representative in New York, inclosing his retort and pointing out apropos of the criticism that Mr. Hoover was pro-British, that he had lived in England for 20 years himself and that if "Mr. Hoover knew as much about the British as he did he must be a good American."

Article Used by G. O. P.

As a result of this overture and at the suggestion of Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, and Representative Bacon, of New York, he had then gone to Boston, to make speeches and conduct an advertising campaign. His article, "Sea Power," was widely distributed by the Republicans. From this article, Senator Robinson read a statement that the British influence had to be removed from the Pacific.

"Anti-British propaganda, wasn't it?" Robinson asked.

"Pro-American, I'd say," Shearer replied.

"The same thing you sent from Geneva?"

"Yes."

Shearer related that when he met Senator Allen in New York—Allen was director of Hoover publicity—the senator had told him he should be out making speeches. The senator said:

"I told you that to get you away from the office."

Schwab Influence Denied.

A comparatively insignificant line of questioning but one most important to Shearer concerned his income tax for 1927. He did not make a return, he said, inasmuch as he had nothing to report.

Allen wanted to know about the money he had received from the shipbuilders but Shearer insisted that it was spent abroad.

"But it was paid you in this country," Allen said. "At any rate you did not make a return."

"No."

A. B. Homer, sales manager of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation in New York, took the stand just before the hearing adjourned to deny that Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was the motivating influence behind him in his negotiations with Shearer.

50 Dam Sites Located In Basin of Potomac

The parties that have been conducting surveys of the Potomac River basin under the direction of the District Engineer of the Army Engineering Corps have located 50 potential dam sites, according to E. J. Merrick, jr., civil engineer, who has returned from an inspection trip up the Potomac.

The rock bed at these locations is being studied by Lewis M. Prindle, who represents the Geological Survey, to determine whether or not the rock strata are firm enough to hold up the construction necessary for the dams.

The Fall Styles Demand Exceptional Dry Cleaning

THE close-fitting silhouettes so popular this season, with their long, sweeping drapes and unusual necklines, will gather soil and perspiration a little more quickly than the gowns of the past year.

The gorgeous, new silks and velvets are just a little more expensive than before, especially in the models demanding extra materials for drapes.

If you have a beautiful gown that represents to you a nice, tidy investment, you will want it to hold up in appearance. Tolman is handsomely equipped to give you the exceptional dry cleaning necessary.

Once.. they whispered "isn't it too bad"

Popularity.. begins with a Clear Skin

IT'S the person with a clear, smooth, lovely complexion that usually wins.

To be sure, not much is said openly about skin eruptions, but secretly they influence many important affairs. Personal likes and dislikes are quickly formed.

Everybody wants to be attractive. It is a just and natural ambition. A clear skin makes everyone more attractive.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The sure way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of those unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood makes the body strong and resistant to disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders or if the count of your red-blood-cells is low, take a few bottles of S.S.S. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy, which is made from fresh vegetable drugs, and has stood the test of over 100 years.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

RANKS OF LEGION ONCE MORE PARADE

35,000 ARE IN BIG PARADE

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A pagent of brilliant colors moving between immense masses of spectators, marched over a five-mile route today in what was declared by Legion officers to be one of the biggest patriotic displays America has ever seen.

The American Legion's annual parade started at 11 a. m., and as dusk came the last of the marching thousands, keeping step with their drum corps and bands, reached the reviewing stand, where stood National Commander Paul V. McNutt.

It was estimated that 35,000 men and women marched in the parade, and there were aproximately 100 uniformed musical organizations and drill teams.

Even a rough count of the spectators was imposible, the local estimates putting the number at 300,000, almost equal to the total population of Louisville.

Tennessee Unit Stands Out.

The Legion was at its zenith in today's exhibit. The "Boys of 1918" are still young enough to lift their feet in a snappy step, as every profession, every race, color and social scale was represented in line of march. There was a uniformed drum and bugle corps made up of men connected with the Chicago Board of Trade, and there was a post from Indiana which marched behind a standard announcing that every member is a union coal miner. Indianans led Oklahoma's section, and a drum and bugle corps composed of negroes from Charlotte, N. C., added a touch of the cake walk while the spectators shouted, "Get hot, boys."

The musical organizations and drill teams wore every conceivable type of uniform. Several States had impressive floats.

One organization easily won whatever prize may be offered for novelty—the Chattanooga (Tenn.) Drum and Bugle Corps appeared in muddy, ragged, ill-fitting service uniforms, with trench helmets and gas masks in similar condition. Except for their musical instruments and their jaunty step, they might have been mistaken for a chow detail which had just crawled from a shell hole.

Indiana Host Largest.

The biggest delegation seemed to be that of Indiana, home of Commander McNutt. The Bloomington Post, accompanied by the Indiana University Band, proclaimed him as a charter member. Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania had delegations which required a long time to pass, while California, Massachusetts and several other States had around 500 in the line of march.

Kentucky, the host, came last with a good-sized contingent, but still behind Illinois, Ohio and Indiana in numbers.

The marchers gathered along a 5-mile line during the morning and would have moved over the designated route in a shorter time had not the crowd several times broken through police lines and blocked the way.

The legion program today consisted of the parade and nothing else, but as quickly as the affair was over delegates began conferences on the attitude of their States toward convention business which will be on the floor tomorrow and Thursday. Boston and Los Angeles will contest for the 1930 convention tomorrow, and the national officers will be elected the next day.

NEW YORK MAYOR'S PHONE WIRE TAPPED

joined with former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, "square deal" candidate, and Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate, in demanding prosecution of the Rothstein case, was informed of the wire tapping.

"If they wanted to find out anything about the city's business," he said, 'they wouldn't tap the mayor's office. That certainly is a compliment to Whalen's (Police Commissioner Grover Whalen) policing. By the time I get ready to go to City Hall on January 1 there probably won't be any City Hall left."

In his tax statements LaGuardia said that by reducing assessments on the property of persons who had "the right connections" Tammany had shifted a tax burden he estimated at $75,000,000 annually to the shoulders of the less favored. Among the wealthy ones, he said, were favored he listed John D. Rockefeller, Samuel Untermyer, William H. Todd and August Heckscher, he also said that the site of the Wannamaker Stores, of which Whalen was general manager before he became police commissioner, was now assessed about $1,000,000 less than it was sixteen years ago.

The tax charges have been met by general denials and due to the accusations about the Rothstein case District Attorney Joab H. Banton is making arrangements to try George McManus, probably beginning October 15.

Among the wires found to have been tapped today was a special direct wire from Mayor Walker's desk to that of the police commissioner.

Statements denying LaGuardia's allegations of favoritism in tax assessments were issued today by Samuel Untermyer and James J. Sexton, president of the board of taxes and assessments.

In reply to Sexton's statement, LaGuardia said: "The first change in the department of taxes and assessments I make will be the appointment of a competent, efficient, experienced man on taxes."

"I like those extra miles"—says the man who drives his own car

"THERE are lots of reasons why I always buy AMOCO-GAS. I like the quick response I can feel in starting. I like the power AMOCO-GAS puts at my disposal on the hills. I like the freedom from knocks. But most of all, I like those extra miles I've always found in every gallon of AMOCO-GAS! It's a longer run between filling stations since I've got wise to AMOCO-GAS. And I know for a positive fact that mile per mile I'm paying a lot less for fuel!"

There's no need to tell experienced motorists that AMOCO-GAS excels all its would-be imitators in power, in flexibility, in freedom from knocks and in many other ways. The big thing to remember is that "cost-per-mile" is the only true measure of cost--and that AMOCO-GAS not only gives most miles per gallon but least cost per mile!

Fight Bout Of Dempsey Over WRC

Boxing Match Between Fields and Dundee on Air at 11 P. M.; Dixie Echoes on WMAL at 10:30; Army Band 7:30.

A description of Jack Dempsey's first boxing show to be held in Chicago between Jackie Fields and Vince Dundee, will be an attraction from WRC at 11 o'clock tonight. The contest between Fields, welterweight champion, and Dundee, an important contender for the crown, is a ten-round affair. It will be the first in a series of important contests that Dempsey is promoting in his announced effort to make Chicago the capital of Fistiana. Jack Dempsey is expected to be heard by the radio audience at intervals during the contest.

Paul Oliver, tenor, will sing, "None But the Lonely Heart" during the Palmolive hour to be heard at 8:30 o'clock, in the following program:

"My Annapolis and You," orchestra; "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," Olive Palmer and Paul Oliver; "Hang On to Me," orchestra; "Old Man River," Revelers; "Carmenia," Olive Palmer; "Chinese Fantasy," orchestra; "Lover, Come Back to Me," Revelers; "Peace of Mind," orchestra; "A Love Tale of Alsace Lorraine," ensemble; "The Three Cavaliers," Olive Palmer; "Bottoms Up," from "Scandals," orchestra; "How Am I to Know?" Paul Oliver; "I'm Comin' Virginia," Revelers; "I Hear a Thrush at Eve," soprano and contralto duet; "Tiptoe Through the Tulips With Me," orchestra, and selections from "Orange Blossoms," ensemble.

The National Grand Opera Company will present Bizet's "Carmen" through a WEAF coast-to-coast network, but not WRC, at 9:30 o'clock. Devora Nadworney will have the title role.

The genius of Rimsky-Korsakoff supplies variety for the entire Mobiloil concert to be heard at 7 o'clock. The dashing finale of the "Spanish Caprice" and the tragic ending of the "Scheherazade," in which Sinbad's ship is wrecked, are the orchestral high lights. Beatrice Belkin, soprano, will feature "The Nightingale and the Rose."

"Midsummer Night's Serenade," by Isaac Albeniz, one of the greatest modern composers, of Spain, will be played by the orchestra in the Wonder Bakers' program to be heard at 7:30 o'clock. A further high light is the familiar "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," in an arrangement for strings. Phil Duey, barytone, will sing "Love Me or Not"

"When I'm In Love," from the Moran and Mack motion picture, "Why Bring That Up," will open the Kolster Radio Hour to be broadcast at 10 o'clock from WMAL. An Oriental medley, "In the Hush of the Night," "Baby, Oh Where Can You Be," and "Reaching for Someone" are also featured.

Willard Amison, tenor; Helen Oelheim, contralto; Ethel Codd, soprano, and John Barclay, barytone, will be heard as soloists in the Voice of Columbia program at 8 o'clock. A vocal quartet and two orchestras will also be heard during this program.

The program to be presented by the Dixie Echoes from WMAL at 10:30 o'clock, follows: "Mos' Done Toiling Here," "I Want God's Heab'n to be Mine," "Do Don't Toucha My Garment," "All I Do De Church Keep Grumblin'," "Gimmie Dat Ol' Time Religion," "You Bettah Mind," "Singin' Wid a Sword in My Hand," "Come Here Lord," and "Animals Convention—Uncle Remus' story song."

A DX request program, by Stanley Bell and Les Colvin, will be heard between midnight and 1 o'clock.

"Service of the Canteen Corps" will be the subject discussed by Mrs. Joseph B. Reynolds, a member of the Canteen Corps of the D. C. Chapter of the Red Cross from WOL at 6:45 o'clock. The Edith Reed Entertainers will follow a program of dinner music. A trio will be presented during the half hour beginning at 7 o'clock.

A concert by the U. S. Army Band will be broadcast at 7:30 o'clock from WJSV. Several soloists are to be heard during the evening, with a joint recital by Joseph Dimelio, tenor, and Geneva Wallace Mitchel, pianist, scheduled for 10 o'clock.

Features by WBAL Are Announced

Program Will Include "The Arundels" on Afternoons; Dealers Plan Big Dinner on Oct. 10; Models to Be Shown.

WBAL, which shares time with WTIC, has announced its new schedule, as follows: Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.; Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, 7 p. m. to midnight; Sundays, 11 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Since his return to Baltimore from Europe, where he spent several weeks this summer, Mr. Huber, assisted by Gustav Klem, program supervisor, has been busy arranging and rearranging WBAL'S programs so that listeners may be as well served as possible under existing conditions.

Among the new studio features to be heard are "The Arudels," a group of instrumentalists who will be on the air each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon from 2 to 2:30 o'clock; "The Merry-Makers," a male quartet with xylophone soloist, scheduled for each Wednesday evening from 6 to 6:30 o'clock; "Uncle Ed and His Dream Children," who broadcasts every Sunday afternoon from 12 to 12:30 o'clock; "The Romany Trail," presenting a troupe of musical vagabonds, on Friday evening from 6:30 to 7 o'clock, and "The Day-Fan-Tastics," a gay group of wandering minstrels who, accompanied by a court jester, appear on the air each Wednesday evening from 6:30 to 7 o'clock. In addition to new studio features, an extensive program of new chain broadcasts has been arranged by WBAL.

Radiola dealers of Washington and the surrounding territory will be guests of the two Capital jobbers who handle Radio Corporation of America radio products at a dinner in the National Press Club on Thursday, October 10, it was announced yesterday. Approximately 100 persons are expected to attend.

Plans for the good-will gathering have been completed, and invitations were mailed yesterday by the H. C. Roberts Electric Supply Co. and Frank Chase, of the National Electrical Supply Co., the hosts. Dealers extending even into West Virginia and Pennsylvania, as well as Virginia and southern Maryland, are to be asked to the dinner.

The latest RCA receiving set models will be exhibited by representatives of the Radio Corporation at the meeting. Addresses will be made by F. B. Wanselow, assistant manager of the Eastern district for the Radio-Victor Corporation, and W. W. Cone, Eastern district advertising manager for Radio-Victor.

The dinner-meeting will follow similar gatherings held over the country at the instigation of the Radio Corporation to familiarize retailers with RCA products and to bring dealers and jobbers in closer relationships. Howard Butler, of the local RCA office, is assisting in preparations for the banquet here.

Jane Arden INTERPRETS the MODE

Glistening black moire and snowy white ermine make up this stunning frock. (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris.)

THE autumn collection of Brandt showed some extremely attractive coats with a long, slim and slightly flaring silhouette. Many of these were elaborate in workmanship, employing intricate incrustations, stitching and cut-outs. Except for the use of gray fox, the flat furs are most favored for trimming, such as ermine, caracul and broadtail.

Dresses at this house show, as elsewhere, the tendency toward closely fitted hips, greater length, higher waist line and full, irregular skirt effects.

• • • •

Jane Duverne, a house which has been rapidly coming to the front in recent seasons, shows coats, which also have the long and slim line with a slight flare, and the same tendency toward intricate incrustations and cut-outs, but individuality is given by the original collar, pocket and cuff arrangements for which this house is coming to be known.

Day frocks show slightly greater length and fitted hips. Evening gowns are definitely long, some of them touching the floor in back. Chiffon and taffeta are favored. A wide range of colors is employed, but the always popular black is perhaps most important.

• • • •

Ardanse shows a great use of filmy materials, laces, chiffon over velvet of the same color, a highly lustrous effect. For daytime wear, printed chiffons with large motifs in black and white or shades of yellow and orange are much used. Red is also a strong color, both in dull and brilliant shades.

Clever Fingers Contest.

Hurry, hurry, hurry—only one more week in which to send in your letter telling us something that clever fingers can do.

Rules: Your name and address must be on the letter. Drawings need not be expert, but understandable.

Prizes: A fall ensemble consisting of street dress and coat; a chiffon afternoon or dinner dress; a Dare negligee; ten of Dare's new booklet entitled "Clever Fingers." All the clothes are designed by Dare especially for the winner, whose description will be cabled to Paris and the garment made there by a famous couturier, and then forwarded to Dare here to be sent to you. Worth trying for?

• • • •

Lingerie Shorts.

And lingerie tights For isn't that just the sort of under-dainty a woman dotes on—abbreviated for jauntiness and form-fitting for comfort and grace beneath the so shapely frocks of today? Wait till you see one set of these lingerie shorts, which "just growed" out of a half-yard of chiffon or its sturdier self, crepe de chine. Dare tells you how to make them in this week's illustrated leaflet for which you have only to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Washington Post.

• • • •

It was our idea of a dress. So we moved first heaven and then earth to make Martial et Armand let us sketch it for you—you see, when they give us anything to sketch they don't let anybody else have it, so sometimes it isn't the easiest thing in the world to convince them that we should get it.

Anyhow, there it is in all its unusual black moire loveliness, with its odd little ermine collar, its waist-line molded by tucks, its low sash and black buttons. Nice?

• • • •

Then, you know, we have the weekly Dare fashion letter, appearing each Sunday in The Post. We hope you're looking for it.

Wives of Tomorrow

"SOPHOMORE LOVE."

DEAR MISS McDONALD—I have profited by the advice you have given others, now please don't overlook my letter.

I think I am in love with a sophomore in college, who is 19, while I am 17. He is exceedingly intelligent, but quite young for his age. I have had a grat deal of experience with men, while he has had none at all with girls. He thinks he is the only one I have ever been in love with, and he also thinks he is the only one I have ever kissed. I know I am the only one he has ever loved and he has ever kissed, there is no doubt about it.

We have never spoken of marriage, for it will be two years before he graduates, and if we are still in love then I suppose we will marry.

He is very sincere and was in doubt at first if he was really in love, but now insists that he is. I don't think it is real (although he honestly thinks it is), because when we are with people, he always seems very interested in them, and almost forgets me. But his letters are sweet and full of his feeling for me. Miss McDonald, I am very fond of this boy, and am giving up all my relations with others just to be true to him. Please tell me how I can be sure of him and his love.

It means a lot to me, and I will always bless you if you can offer some helpful advice.

DOUBTFUL IN LOVE.

You say you have had many love experiences, yet you expect this boy to be content with his first and only love affair. Is that reasonable and fair? His interest in other people at social affairs is normal and natural and should indicate to you the ultimate outcome of events.

Instead of figuring ways and means of holding him you should figure on ways and means of assisting him in meeting others, and gaining the experience by which he can eventually decide which one of all the women he has met is the one he wants for life.

You may be the one. But if it were possible for you to marry now, your union would prove disastrous, for his natural interest in women in general would continue to develop normally regardless of marriage and your resentment of that very natural condition would send the marriage on the rocks. He would never be content until he had acquired the experience he lacked.

Permit him the same freedom you have already enjoyed. Permit him the right to develop as a human being, just as you have developed. Then if he chooses you from all women you can marry him without fear.

For happiness in marriage, the man should be more sophisticated. He should be the more experienced one, and this because of the undeniable fact that woman is natural and inherently wise in the ways of love: Why, no one knows, but the wisdom of all ages seems to be hers, and the knowledge of the years is hers by nature.

Man is the innocent, the elemental, the primitive soul. He must yearn his way through love. Woman by instinct knows her way.

Be generous. Do not rush a boy in his first delirium into any obligation. And this for your own sake as well as his. Remember you have loved before and doubtless will again call upon the wisdom that is your birthright. Let time decide.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

OCTOBER 2.

FLORENCE NASH, American stage star, was born this day, 1888.

She has been the star of many successes. One of her best-known plays was "Merton of the Movies," in which she took the part of the Montague girl. Probably her greatest success was as Aggie Lynch in "Within the Law" in 1912. After a long run in New York she toured with the play. "The Mirage" was another play which helped make the star famous.

The term "blue stocking" is said to have been first applied to gatherings at the home of the noted English author and society leader, Elizabeth R. Montagu, born this day, 1720. One of the noted wits who gathered at her home always wore blue stockings. His conversation was so excellent that when he was absent the other visitors were wont to say, "We can do nothing without 'Blue Stockings!'" Among the celebrities who gathered at her home were Samuel Johnson, Horace Walpole, Edmund Burke, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Hannah More and David Garrick. Mrs. Montagu was the author of numerous essays and poems.

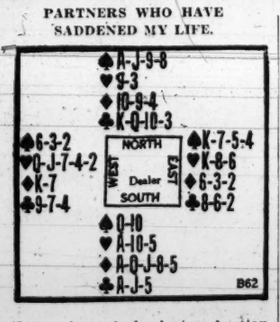
WORK ON BRIDGE

PARTNERS WHO HAVE SADDENED MY LIFE.



IN the above deal, playing Auction Bridge, South obtained the declaration with a bid of one No Trump. In Contract Bridge, South would have bid two No Trumps and North would have bid three. As the hand was played, West led the Four of Hearts and as I was sitting North, I faced my hand.

My partner, who happened to be the same one that I had in the hand given yesterday, after great hesitation won the first trick with the Ace of Hearts and put dummy in with a Club to try the Diamond finesse. West won the trick, ran four Hearts and saved game. My partner explained that he did not hold up until the third trick because he had to finesse his Diamonds and that West would obtain the lead if the finesse lost. "You see," he said, "I have learned the lesson you gave me yesterday."

Why did I regret my coaching of the preceding day?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

It is quite true that when a finesse has to be taken so as to let the danger hand in, as in yesterday's hand, the holdup will not protect; but in this case, the finesse did not have to be taken that way. Establishing dummy's Spades would cinch the game even if the Spade finesse lost as in that case East would be in the lead and the Diamond finesse would be unnecessary.

My partner should have held up the Ace of Hearts until the third round and then led the Queen of Spades, finessing. East would win and being unable to lead a Heart, would lead a Diamond. My partner should have refused the finesse and then run his Spades and Clubs, thus making three Spades, one Heart, one Diamond, and four Clubs—game. It does not pay to risk an assured game even to try a finesse which will produce a slam if it succeeds.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF October 2d is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.

An eclipse of many of your projects will take place on this date. Very quick decisions will be called for in family matters. Minor ailments should be nursed.

The child born on this October 2d will be energetic, a quick-thinker and ambitious. It will achieve more than a moderate degree of success in anything it undertakes.

You have a curious incapacity to accept the common facts of life. The bread and butter side of living, which to many is the best, seems sordid to you. You hate routine, and are always restless for new experiences. It is doubtful if you will ever take root anywhere.

You can be most amiable and agreeable, but you are capable of remaining so under stress of difficulties. You lose your temper over trifles, and are temperamentally disposed to make mountains out of mole hills.

You are not fond of money for money's sake, and you have no wish to hoard your possessions. You never worry about a "rainy day" and live and spend on each day as though tomorrow would take care of itself. Your method of living, and not fate, is the cause of your "feast and famine" existence. You are generous to a fault, and are very hospitable. Excitement and amusements are essential to your happiness.

If you be a man, you are an incurable idealist who puts a woman on a pedestal and expects her to stay there as something remote and almost intangible—you only love the unattainable. In this respect you are asking for trouble, for no woman can maintain this attitude. You will require a tactful and loving mate.

KOTEX is so light, so cool, so dainty, that women forget to dread the need of sanitary protection!

Kotex never loses its softness. It cannot pack. Many air-cooled layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding keep Kotex light and cool though worn for hours.

Used by hospitals

Do you know that 85% of our leading hospitals use Kotex filler in preference to any other absorbent? They use it even for surgical dressings in serious operations.

Kotex has rounded, tapered corners to keep it inconspicuous, though worn with the most clinging or close-draped frocks.

Deodorizes completely

Kotex deodorizes . . . so doubly comforting to dainty, smart women. And disposes instantly, like tissue. The layers of filler can be adjusted to suit individual needs.

Try the new Kotex. Learn why millions of women, all over the world, insist on Kotex . . . why it is recommended by leading hospitals and physicians everywhere.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

5—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly by a patented process.

The coming winter will see some changes in the rules of baseball, The Post sports editor predicts. Either the abolishment of the foul strike rule or some invention to handicap the pitchers will be necessary if the game is to continue. With the pitcher in the role of absolute monarch, the action of the game has become mechanical so far as the average spectator is concerned. The games are fought and won by the science and skill of the pitcher. There is not enough hitting and base running to give the cash customers their money's worth. The team which makes two or three runs in the first inning has the game practically in the bag. Rarely does the total of runs for both teams exceed five.

Three hundred and fifty "middies," took possession today of rooms in the new midshipman's quarters at the Naval Academy. Three hundred and fifty more will leave the old building and march into the new next week.

Conrad Doyle defended successfully his title as singles tennis champion of the District against C. P. Parkes, at the Bachelor's Lawn Tennis Club.

The expectations of the coaches of the Georgetown Football Team were more than realized in the game between their proteges and Princeton. After being held scoreless for 30 minutes of play, Princeton sent in an almost new team against the fagged and weary Georgetown. The teams were even on weight and playing ability, but Princeton had the advantage of fresh substitutes and won. The game was played at Princeton.

The Seven Dials Mystery

A Serial Story By AGATHA CHRISTIE.

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Gerry Wade is found dead in bed at Chimneys, scene of a house party. Seven out of eight alarm clocks placed in his room to awaken him are timed up on a manuscript. The events are told that death resulted from an overdose of sleeping powder. Jimmy Thesiger and Ronny Devereux motor to Gerry's home to tell a sister Loraine, of Wade's death.

Lady Eileen Brent, known as "Bundle," finds a letter Wade had written to his sister making reference to the Seven Dials." Bundle feels certain that Gerry was murdered. En route to London a man, mysteriously shot, staggers into the road in front of Eileen's car. It proves to be Devereux, who dying, whispers: "Seven Dials . . . tell . . . Jimmy Thesiger."

At Jimmy's quarters Bundle finds Loraine. The three of them set out to trail the murderer. From Capt. Battle at Scotland Yard Bundle obtains a list of secret societies. That evening, with Bill Eversleigh, she visits the Seven Dials Club. A watchman, Alfred, is recognized as a former footman at Chimneys.

Cabinet Minister George Lomax plans a party. He has received a warning letter from the Seven Dials Society. Bundle gets an invitation. Meantime, she hides in the meeting room of the society, and witnesses a meeting attended by masked members. She reports to Theiger. She has also obtained an invitation to the cabinet member's party. Among the guests is one Herr Eberhard, an inventor who has military plans of interest to the air ministry.

To prevent the theft of these plans by members of the Seven Dials Society Eversleigh and Theiger agree to stand watch after the other guests have retired. Jimmy takes the first watch and is armed with an automatic. At ten minutes of 2 he hears the creak of a board . . . a sound from downstairs. He creeps cautiously down the staircase, then to the library door. Suddenly, flinging open the door, he turns on the lights. The big room is empty. Meanwhile Bundle, doing some investigating in the yard on her own account, has run into Superintendent Battle.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Bundle looked at him. It struck her now, as so often before, how remarkably little camouflage there was about him. He was large and solid and noticeable. He was, somehow, very English. But of one thing Bundle was quite sure Superintendent Battle was no fool.

"What are you really doing here?" she asked, still in a whisper.

"Just seeing," said Battle, "that nobody's about who shouldn't be."

"Oh!" said Bundle, rather taken aback.

"You, for instance, Lady Eileen. I don't suppose you usually take a walk at this time of night."

"Do you mean," said Bundle slowly, "that you want me to go back?"

Superintendent Battle nodded approvingly.

"You're very quick, Lady Eileen. That's just what I do mean. Did you—er—come out of a door, or the window?"

"The window. It's easy as anything climbing down this ivy."

Superintendent Battle looked up at it thoughtfully.

"Yes," he said. "I should say it would be."

"And you want me to go back?" said Bundle. "I'm rather sick about that. I wanted to go round on to the west terrace."

"Perhaps you won't be the only one who'll want to do that," said Battle.

"Nobody could miss seeing you," said Bundle rather spitefully.

The superintendent seemed rather pleased than otherwise.

"I hope they won't," he said. "No unpleasantness. That's my motto. And if you'll excuse me, Lady Eileen, I think it's time you were going back to bed."

The firmness of his tone admitted of no parley. Rather crestfallen, Bundle retraced her stpes. She was halfway up the ivy when a sudden idea occurred to her and she nearly relaxed her grip and fell.

Supposing Superintendent Battle suspected her.

There had been something—yes, surely there had been something in his manner that vaguely suggested the idea. She couldn't help laughing as she crawled over the sill into her bedroom. Fancy the solid superintendent suspecting her!

Though she had so far obeyed Battle's orders as to return to her room, Bundle had no intention of going to bed and sleeping. Nor did she think that Battle had really intended her to do so. He was not a man to expect impossibilities. And to remain quiescent when something daring and exciting might be going on was a sheer impossibility to Bundle.

Jimmy Missing.

She glanced at her watch. It was ten minutes to 2. After a moment or two of irresolution she cautiously opened her door. Not a sound. Everything was still and peaceful. She stole cautiously along the passage.

Once she halted, thinking she heard a board creak somewhere, but then, convinced that she was mistaken, she went on again. She was now in the main corridor, making her way to the west wing. She reached the angle of intersection and peered cautiously round. Then she stared in blank surprise.

The watcher's post was empty. Jimmy Thesiger was not there.

She was still standing there, debating what to do next, when suddenly her heart gave a leap and then seemed to stand still.

The door handle of Terence O'Rourke's room was slowly turning.

Bundle watched, fascinated. But the door did not open. Instead the knob returned slowly to its original position. What did it mean?

Suddenly Bundle came to a resolution. Jimmy, for some unknown reason, had deserted his post. She must get hold of Bill.

Quickly and noiselessly Bundle fled along the way she had come. She burst unceremoniously into Bill's room.

"Bill, wake up! Oh, do wake up!"

It was an urgent whisper she sent forth, but there came no response to it.

"Bill," breathed Bundle.

Impatiently she switched on the lights, and then stood dumfounded.

The room was empty and the bed had not even been slept in.

Where, then, was Bill.

Suddenly she caught her breath. This was not Bill's room. The dainty negligee thrown over a chair, the feminine knickknacks on the dressing table, the black velvet evening dress thrown carelessly over a chair—Of course, in her haste she had mistaken the doors. This was the Countess Radzky's room.

But where, oh where, was the countess?

And just as Bundle was asking herself this question the silence of the night was suddenly broken, and in no uncertain manner.

The clamor came from below. In an instant Bundle had sped out of the countess' room and downstairs. The sounds came from the library—a violent crashing of chairs being overturned.

Bundle rattled vainly at the library door. It was locked. But she could clearly hear the struggle that was going on within—the panting and scuffling curses in manly tones, the occasional crash as some light piece of furniture came into the line of battle.

And then, sinister and distinct, breaking the peace of the night for good and all, two shots in rapid succession.

Loraine's Adventures.

Loraine Wade sat up in bed and switched on the light. It was exactly 10 minutes to 1. She had gone to bed early—at half-past 9. She possessed the useful art of being able to wake herself up at the required time, so she had been able to enjoy some hours of refreshing sleep.

Two dogs slept in the room with her, and one of these now raised his head and looked at her inquiringly.

"Quiet, Lurcher," said Loraine, and the big animal put his head down again obediently, watching her from between his shaggy eyelashes.

It is true that Bundle had once doubted the meekness of Loraine Wade, but that brief moment of suspicion had passed. Loraine had seemed so entirely reasonable, so willing to be kept out of everything.

And yet, if you studied the girl's face, you saw that there was strength of purpose in the small, resolute jaw and the lips that closed together so firmly.

Loraine rose and dressed herself in a tweed coat and skirt. Into one pocket of the coat she dropped an electric torch. Then she opened the drawer of her dressing table and took out a small ivory-handled pistol—almost a toy in appearance. She had bought it the day before at Harrod's and she was very pleased with it.

She gave a final glance round the room to see if she had forgotten anything, and at that moment the big dog rose and came over to her, looked up at her with pleading eyes and wagging his tail.

Loraine shook her head.

"No, Lurcher. Can't go. Missus can't take you. Got to stay here and be a good boy."

She dropped a kiss on the dog's head, made him lie down on his rug again, and then slipped noiselessly out of the room, closing the door behind her.

Loraine let herself out of the house by a side door and made her way round to the garage, where her little two-seater car was in readiness. There was a gentle slope, and she let the car run silently down it, not starting the engine till she was some way from the house. Then she glanced at the watch on her arm and pressed her foot down on the accelerator.

She left the car at a spot she had previously marked down. There was a gap there in the fencing that she could easily get through. A few minutes later, slightly muddy, Loraine stood inside the grounds of Wyvern Abbey.

As noiselessly as possible, she made her way toward the venerable ivy-covered building. In the distance a stable clock chimed 2.

Loraine's heart beat faster as she drew near to the terrace. There was no one about — no sign of life anywhere. Everything seemed peaceful and undisturbed. She reached the terrace and stood there looking about her.

Suddenly, without the least warning, something from above fell with a flop almost at her feet. Loraine stooped to pick it up. It was a brown paper packet loosely wrapped. Holding it, Loraine looked up.

There was an open window just above her head, and even as she looked a leg swung over it and a man began to climb down the ivy.

Loraine waited for no more. She took to her heels and ran, still clasping the brown paper packet.

Behind her, the noise of a struggle suddenly broke out. A hoarse voice. "Lemme go;" another that she knew well; "not if I know it—ah, you would, would you?"

Still Loraine ran — blindly, as though panic-stricken — right round the corner of the terrace—and slap into the arms of a large, solidly built man.

"There, there," said Superintendent Battle kindly.

Loraine was struggling to speak.

There was a sharp crack of a revolver shot—and then another.

Superintendent Battle started to run. Loraine followed. Back round the corner of the terrace and along to the library window. The window was open.

Little Visits in Asia.

VIII. WHEELBARROW TRAFFIC.

THERE is a proverb in China—"A road is good for 10 years, and then it is bad for 10,000 years."

That is not true of all roads, but the condition of some Chinese roads makes the visitor think that it is very close to being true in China.

Two ride while one walks.

Most of the roads in China are very narrow. Outside the larger cities, you will find few roads which are wide enough for two autos to pass each other. Some roads are not wide enough for a single auto—and even if the width were great enough, an autoist would not enjoy the bumps.

There are roads in China which are less than 18 inches wide. Perhaps we ought not call them "roads"—but they serve that purpose. They are paved ways for the passage of traffic.

What kind of traffic can pass along a road 18 inches wide? The one-wheeled cart known as a wheelbarrow.

There are plenty of wheelbarrows passing along China's narrow roads. Farmers wheel their rice and other produce to market, sometimes pushing the load for dozens of miles.

Coolies shove wheelbarrows before them, with loads of bricks or other heavy substance. The poor fellows use straps hanging from their shoulders to save themselves from part of the strain of holding up the handles.

There are few railroads in China. People who want to go from place to place often take passage on a wheelbarrow. It is slow travel, but possibly it is better than walking. As many as four persons may ride in a wheelbarrow at one time, two sitting on each side to keep the balance. Pity the man who is doing the work—he's taking the place of a horse.

In Chinese cities, loads are sometimes carried by horses or donkeys, and there are a few automobiles.

Canals and rivers take care of a great deal of traffic, boats, small and large, passing back and forth.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

PRICKLY HEAT.

THIS is one of the mild skin troubles. It is annoying. It causes considerable discomfort to babies because their skins are delicate, and it may be a source of annoyance to an adult though it seldom is. It is caused by sweat. If the skin is soaked continuously in sweat and especially if garments saturated with sweat are kept in contact with a delicate skin, prickly heat may be the penalty exacted. The cause removed, the malady disappears.

This summer many children went dressed in sunbath suits much of the time. One garment hung from the shoulders by narrow straps was the only clothing except when a diaper was worn. The trunk, head, neck, legs and arms were practically uncovered except in the pelvic region. The mothers of these babies watched the skin tan and congratulated themselves that their babies would not develop rickets, that their teeth would be less apt to decay and that they would be resistant to colds and other infections this winter. It probably did not occur to these mothers that their babies had gone through the summer heat without developing prickly heat.

In case the babies had not been "housebroke" and diapers were needed they may have noticed some of the skin trouble in the diaper area, but that was all. Those babies who wore no diapers or only light ones escaped entirely.

The women who remember the prickly heat they suffered when they wore corsets and heavy underwear will continue their support of the present day woman's wear.

The prevention of prickly heat is simple. It consists in protecting the skin against sweat. That can generally be done by adjusting the clothing. Men who work as stokers and at other hot jobs can avoid prickly heat by wearing no shirt or undershirt. In time, men on such jobs may wear nothing but a breechclout and sandals.

For the relief of prickly heat the skin may be dusted with any soothing dusting powder. In some cases it may be best to clean the skin with a cream rather than soap and water and then use a soothing powder or even a soothing salve. But the main method of treatment is to see that no soggy garments are left in position to macerate the skin.

NOT ALWAYS SIGN OF AGE.

A. M. C. writes: What is the meaning of a white circle around the pupil of the eyes? My sight is good and I don't use glasses, I am 41 years old.

REPLY:

These white circles go by the name arcus senilis. They were thought to be an evidence of senility. Now it is known that the white material is cholesterin. This material is apt to be deposited in the eyeball in senescence. However, it is not always a sign of age.

This circle has some relation to infection of the gall bladder, gall stones and liver troubles. People who have it are advised to eat sparingly of eggs, butter, fat, meats and salad oils.

FLOOD OF SELLING AGAIN HITS STOCKS

Dozens of Leading Issues Sink to New Lows of Movement.

CALL MONEY ADVANCES

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The trying ordeal of hammering down what is now generally regarded as an overbought speculative structure was resumed with determination in today's stock market. Dozens of leading issues were depressed to the lowest levels of the movement and extreme declines ran from 10 to nearly 40 points. Short covering in the last hour moderately reduced some of the losses, but was without marked effect.

Stop-loss orders were uncovered in heavy volume as the decline progressed, and the pace of trading was sharply accelerated from yesterday's dull rate, total sales exceeding 4,500,000 shares, an increase of approximately 1,300,000 over the previous session. Pressure was concentrated on the utilities and some of the specialties. Rails and oils held fairly steady.

Call money renewed again at 9 per cent, but the calling of about $35,000,000 in loans by banks, presumably to meet month-end and third-quarter payments checks mailed out last night, soon sent the rate up to 10 per cent. Commission houses stated that what with high carrying charges and constant calls for more margin many traders who have been stubornly hanging on to their stocks for weeks, are growing discouraged and selling out in increasing numbers.

News Mostly Favorable.

The day's news was largely favorable, particularly that relating to the steel industry. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were said to have stepped up their operation about 4 per cent to around 90 per cent of railroad capacity, presumably reflecting the heavy buying of railroad equipment. Montgomery-Ward reported that September sales increased more than 25 per cent over that month of last year. This failed to approximate optimistic estimates, but was generally regarded as satisfactory. Crude oil production was reported to have declined a little last week, but Pennsylvania crude prices were cut again.

The credit situation continued to cause uneasiness, particularly in its foreign aspects. The Bank of England lost nearly $5,000,000 more in gold to Paris, although it purchased more than $3,000,000 in the open market. It is felt in Wall street that the Bank of England may find it necessary to raise its discount rate to 7 per cent to prevent the continued drain on its gold base. Sterling exchange on New York rose to the highest levels in more than a year, but it was believed this reflected withdrawals of the proceeds of recent liquidation of stocks held here for London account.

U. S. Steel Slumps.

U. S. Steel was again under pressure, sagging to 218¾, a new low for the movement, and closing at 221¾, off nearly a point. Motors continued to sag into new low ground for the year or longer, Chrysler reaching 54¼, contrasted to the year's high of 135. General Electric, after dropping to 351, rebounded to 360, up nearly 2 points net. A few specialties moved up into new high ground, including Beatrice Creamery, Burroughs Adding, Myers & Bros. and Remington Rand, with a gain of about 2 to 4 points. Radio turned upward, making a net gain of nearly 5 points. In the rails Atchison sold off 4 points, then rebounded more than 5. American Telephone was heavy for a time, dropping about 8 points, but it regained most of its loss before the close.

In the utilities Standard Gas & Electric, a recent high flier, tumbled more than 20 points, and closed near the bottom. American & Foreign Power and American Power & Light dropped 14 and 10, then reduced their losses to 8 each. American Water Works lost about 6 points.

Other Issues Drop.

Other soft spots included International Combustion, which tumbled about 13 points to a new low at 42, and closed at 48½. Air Reduction, off more than 9, and Marmon, dropping about 7 points to a new low at 37½, then rallying 5. J. I. Case had one of its wild movements, tumbling 39 points in a small turnover.

In the commodities wheat dropped about 1½ cents on bearish crop and weather reports, and corn sagged moderately. Cotton, however, mounted about $1.50 a bale on reports of unfavorable weather in the South.

Sterling cables mounted more than one-half of a cent to $4.86 3-16, a new high for the year, while the Canadian dollar dropped below 99 cents to a new 1929 low.

BOND MART WORKS IRREGULARLY LOWER

NEW MINIMUMS ARE SEEN

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The bond market worked irregularly lower today in a moderately active session. Most of the trading, however, was in convertible or warrant issues, which were soft in reflection of the tone of stocks.

A dozen domestic corporation bonds either established new lows for the year and longer or equaled their previous minimums. A considerable part of this weakness was in the rails, although all sections of the list had representatives in this group.

International Telephone 4½s showed the least resistance to selling in the convertible division, sagging 7½ points to 181½, a low for the current decline, and closing at 184 for a net loss of 5 points. American Telephone 4½s dropped to 208, a dip of more than 4 points, but recovered to 210¾ for a net decline of 1 3-8. Both Alleghany Corporation 5 per cent bonds lost 2 points on the day, while American I. G. Chemical 5½s, American International 5½s and Commercial Investment Trust 5½s lost fractions.

The new lows included Big Four collateral 4s, Denver & Rio Grande 4½s, Erie refunding 5s, Lehigh Valley 4½s, New Orleans Public Service 5s, Pressed Steel Car 5s and San Antonio Public Service 6s. Among the issues that equaled their previous minimums were Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s, Hudson Coal 5s, Chile Copper 5s, Hudson & Manhattan Adjustment Income 5s, Loew's 6s, ex-warrants and Northern Pacific prior lien 4s. Losses ran as high as 3 points.

Changes in the industrial and utility groups were mostly in fractions. Cuba Cane Sugar issues held firm on the announcement of a request for a receivership for the company.

Three adjustment income bonds, on which a semiannual interest payment was made today, yielded slightly on selling, but rallied for small net gains. These issues were St. Paul 5s, International Great Northern 6s and Third Avenue 5s, the last named being a New York City traction. Seaboard Air Line issues found a fair market and ruled steady.

Liberty bonds and United States treasury issues gave a dull performance. Only the Liberty Fourth 4¼s and the Treasury 3¾s were active, showing little price change. Foreign obligations dragged.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

Radical Speculation.

J. T. N.—I shall appreciate your opinion of a purchase of E. L. Smith Oil Co. new issue of stock, head office at Mexia, Tex. This issue is supposed to be on the New York Curb.

Answer—The stock mentioned must be classed as a radical speculation. Therefore it is impossible for this column to make further comment. If you really wish to invest, and not speculate, why not select a seasoned preferred stock or high-grade bond?

Central Alloy Steel.

J. B. R.—Would like to have your advice as to the advisability of selling or holding Central Alloy Steel.

Answer—In view of the indicated expansion of earnings and merger possibilities for Central Alloy Steel common stock, there is moderately attractive possibilities for long-term holding. However, the issue must be considered a speculation of the more radical type, and this column believes that some of the stronger stocks in the steel group afford greater attraction. Financial position is strong, although last year was the first in which the $2 dividend paid on the common since 1926 has been fully covered.

Armour Co. of Illinois.

J. E. B.—I have 200 shares of Armour & Co. of Illinois, class B, bought at $20 per share. What are the future prospects of same?

Answer—No dividend disbursements have been made on the class B stock of Armour & Co. At present there seems small possibility of any disbursements being made in the near future. Therefore the stock must be classed as a speculation and not suitable for investment holding.

Packard New, Middle States Oil.

H. S.—I hold "Packard New" and Cities Service common, also purchased Middle States Oil at 2¾. Kindly advise whether the above are good safe investments or speculations.

Answer—Packard and Cities Service, due to excellent past records, are well regarded as speculative investment issues. Middle States Oil is a radical speculation and not suitable for you if you are attempting to invest your funds conservatively.

Pathe Common Stock.

C. M.—I have some Pathe common stock which I purchased at 8½ and 12. Would you advise me to hold same? What are the future prospects for a rise in price? I also have some Packard and North American common. Let me know your opinion of these stocks.

Answer—Outlook for Pathe Exchange, Inc., is undoubtedly improved by new management and greater emphasis on feature pictures. However, would prefer to see concrete evidence of earnings expansion before recommending either the common or class A stock for conservative investment. Packard and North American are seasoned issues and well regarded.

Minneapolis & St. Louis.

A. G.—Can you tell me something about Minneapolis & St. Louis 1st refunding 4s?

Answer—These bonds are extremely low in price, at present selling at about $30. Their original offering price was $93.50. They are regarded as highly speculative and one recognized authority on bonds rates them as "dangerous." If you are contemplating a bond investment, why not select some issues on which interest is regularly paid, thus insuring to you a fixed rate of income?

Sonora and Acoustic Companies.

M. M. H.—Would appreciate your view of Sonora Products Co. stock whose name was recently changed from Acoustic Products Co.

Answer—The stock mentioned must be considered a radical speculation and not suitable for investment holding. A change in the executives of the corporation has recently taken place, but what effect this change will have on the future of the company is a matter of speculation.

Not Attractive Speculation.

W. J. W.—I am holding at the present time 50 shares of Cavanaugh-Dobbs common stock which I purchased at 35½. Please advise if I should continue to hold this stock, or if I should dispose of it, taking my loss?

Answer—Until downward trend of earnings is reversed, common stock must be considered an unattractive speculation.

Moon Motor Stock.

Mrs. G. A. F.—A few years ago I purchased 50 shares of Moon Motor stock, paying about $37 per share for it. Since then it has steadily declined. It has paid no dividend for the last two years. Would you advise holding the stock or taking what I can get now? Can you tell me of the financial standing of the company or if there are any prospects of a rise in the price of the stock?

Answer—One of the smaller producers of automobiles, Moon Motor Car Co. has experienced since 1925 a drastic slump in sales volume and earning power. In 1925 it had a net income of $1,102,828, but in 1927 and 1926 reported deficits of $148,275 and $498,638, respectively. More recent earnings data not available. Cash on hand was reduced from $940,041 on December 31, 1927, to $232,117 at the end of 1928. With competition growing more severe, outlook does not look at all encouraging. Can not advise as to whether you should hold or sell your stock or predict future market movements in it.

WARNER'S OLD TRICKS AGAIN IN FASHION

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW CANAAN, Conn., Sept. 29.—There has been so much mystifying reference to new and magical coaching systems at Eastern colleges this fall that it is a comfort to hear from Mr. Tad Jones, late coach at Yale, that the so-called new plays are merely so old that they seem new. It seems that an old football play is something like an old joke, which the hoofers and spoofers of vaudeville call a spavin. It is so good in the first place that all the coaches take it up with the result that before long it loses its charm and is quietly forgotten. But when it has been out of mind for a sufficient length of time it is revived and Mr. Jones, lecturing on the subject of offensive football, says this is all the so-called new offensive amounts to, except that he admits having seen some novel variations of plays which are fundamentally old.

Mr. Pop Warner, the Stanford coach, undoubtedly is responsible for the present resort to versatility in the East. I take it that most of the coaches holding jobs in this part of the country must have been present at the Yankee Stadium last fall when his Stanford team practiced their startling deceptions on the Army, for in every Eastern school where there has been mention of a new and more subtle style of attack, it is vaguely hinted that the new system is an adaptation of the Warner system.

New Style Compliment To Warner.

This is a high compliment to Mr. Warner and the higher because when he was coaching in the East he came to be regarded as a person who practiced stratagems that were somewhat shyster and not strictly cricket from the standpoint of the starry-eyed sporting idealists. His application of brown leather mock footballs on the shirt bosom of his Carlisle Indians with intent to delude and confuse the Harvard team in Mr. P. D. Haughton's day at Cambridge, was an instance of this and he stands in his trade or profession as an incorrigible opportunist whose job is to teach football and whose proficiency is judged solely by the proportion of victories and defeats.

The incorrigible Mr. Warner will get come to be recognized, and before very long, as a man who thought far ahead of his time, foreseeing the development of football to such magnitude that the coach must stand or fall as his team wins or loses.

Warner's Tactics Within Letter of Rules.

Just as the players are advised to take advantage of every square inch of territory within the sidelines and end lines of the football field, Mr. Warner, in construing the game has always availed himself of every right and privilege within the letter of the rules, including, from time to time, certain obscure possibilities which did not present themselves to his colleagues in the business.

Mr. Gilmore Dobie, the coach of the Cornell Team, doubtless has thought upon the practical correctness of Mr. Warner's attitude toward football. Mr. Warner coaches his teams to win and you may be sure that it was his winning record and not his personal charm or his ideals whatever they may be, that pays him a salary which is commonly understood to be the highest in the business.

Mr. Dobie, on the other hand, had a very bad season at Cornell last year, followed by a kind of student insurrection against the interference of the alumni with the athletic affairs of the undergraduates. There were editorials in the school paper,

Johnson Asks To Retain Milan

Protests Assignment of Chattanooga Post to Coach.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

INDICATIONS now are that Clyde Milan will not be appointed manager of the Chattanooga Lookouts. When Joe Engel, Washington scout, purchased the Southern League franchise Monday, announcement was made that Milan, now coach of the Nationals, probably would be put in charge of the team. Manager Walter Johnson has something to say about the matter, however, and he let it be known over long-distance telephone from Philadelphia last night, that he wants Milan to remain here as his assistant. Definite decision in the matter probably will not be made for several days in view of Johnson's protest against Milan leaving him.

Johnny Johnston, former Brooklyn third baseman and outfielder, is the present pilot and his contract carries over through 1930. It is possible that he will be retained in view of Johnson's desire to keep Milan here but, if a change is desired by the new owners, he has offered to settle and step out for a sum considerably less than the year's pay called for in his contract.

Double Bill With Macks Shifted to Today.

The Nationals, scheduled to end their season in Philadelphia yesterday with a double-header, found the Quaker City weather almost as bad as it was here and were unable to play, the twin bill being carried over until today. Irving Hadley and Myles Thomas were scheduled to start the games yesterday, but the latter has not been effective against the Mackmen and, with the extra day of rest, "Sad Sam" Jones, who does go well against the new American League champions, will be ready. He did not take the trip with the team, but Manager Johnson last night wired for him to hustle to the Sleepy City and he is scheduled to take Thomas' place on the program this afternoon.

With a two-game lead over the Tigers for fifth place and only four more games to be played, the Nationals hope to clinch this position from Bucky Harris' team today, which would be possible should the Washington team capture both decisions.

Indiana Prepares To Test Notre Dame

Chicago, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Assigned the task of giving the 1929 model Notre Dame football machine its first test, Coach Pat Page today piled work on his Indiana squadfi It will be homecoming day for Hoosier alumni, but the affair will be shared by Notre Dame.

Page concentrated on defensive work today, with special emphasis on blocking and tackling, departments in which the Hoosiers showed weakness last week. A group of five sophomore ends was given plenty of attention on going down under punts and made a better impression than the backs who attempted to block them.

HIGH SCHOOL GRID TIME CHANGED

Advance to 3:30 P.M. Voted by Principals After Protests.

PRINCIPALS of Washington's five public high schools yesterday adjusted differences growing out of late starting times for the interscholastic football series with a compromise decision that advanced the start of the games from 3:45 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

The action followed protests of the coaches and the student bodies when the time for starting the series contests was set at 3:45 p. m. to meet the longer hours of the Washington school system. Complaints that darkness would interfere with the games were loud, and a plea was made that the contests be scheduled at 3:15 p. m. as in past years. The decision yesterday was in the nature of a compromise, with the principals believing that by advancing the original time fifteen minutes and making certain that the contests were conducted with such dispatch that play in the dusk could be avoided.

In order to assure the prompt start of the games, it was announced that teams and students of the contesting schools on the days of the games would be dismissed earlier than those of nonparticipating schools.

All to Be Dismissed In Time for Games.

Definite assurance was given also that all students would be dismissed in plenty of time to allow them to reach the Central Stadium, the scene of all interhigh contests. For example, on the day of the Eastern-Tech games, all students of these two schools will be released around 2:30 or 2:45. However, the students of the remaining high schools will be kept at their respective posts until 3 o'clock.

An exception in the case of Central High students will be made, however, as with the scene of battle directly in their own backyard there will be no necessity of dismissing them earlier than the regular time.

As the situation stands, no student will lose time from his classes on more than four days during the season, with the loss a very slight one, while the game should be run off in a manner satisfactory to all.

Heart on Right Side No Bother to Gridman

Lincoln, Nebr., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Raymond Richards' football-playing ability is not hampered by the fact that his heart and other vital organs are reversed from their normal positions.

The 200-pound tackle of the University of Nebraska's squad already has won two letters on the gridiron. Last year he was mentioned on several honorary Big Six teams.

Richards plans to enter aviation following his graduation next spring.

Joe Proctor Seeking Fourth Baltimore Win

Joe Proctor, Washington heavyweight fighter, will seek his fourth victory in a Baltimore ring tomorrow night when he meets Herman Weiner, local pride, in the main bout of eight rounds at the Embassy Theater. In his previous fights in Baltimore, Proctor twice outpointed Speedy Meyers and knocked out Bill Matoski in one round.

According to Goldie Ahearn, Proctor's manager, the Washington fighter is now showing the best form of his brief professional career, punching harder and displaying better speed. The bout will be Proctor's second meeting with Weiner, whom he knocked out in two rounds here two years ago at the Jewish Community Center when both were amateurs.

Joe Lesser, Washington lightweight, appears on the same card, meeting Harry Groves, of Baltimore, in a six-round preliminary. Lesser was undefeated as an amateur.

Clan MacLennan Team Reinstaed by U. S. F. A.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Oct. 1.—Thomas W. Cahill, secretary of the United States Football Association, controlling body of soccer in America, stated today that the prevailing suspension of the Washington Clan MacLennan Soccer Team would be lifted pending a statement from each of the players to the effect that they were not involved in the differences between the national body and a District official.

The District official, Martin Grieve, was suspended by the U. S. F. A. for his refusal to relinquish a trophy awarded to Concord Soccer Club. All that is necessary for the members of the Clan Club to be reinstated is to sign a form letter, to be sent by the Washington secretary.

All members of the Clan MacLennan Club are requested to be present at a meeting of the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in room 2, District Building.

BOZEK FAILS TO REPORT TO G.U.

Coaches Disappointed, Lose Hope of Return of Star.

Although Bozek's belated appearance was eagerly awaited by the student body as well as Coaches Lou Little and Mike Palm, no word of the slim triple-threat man was received. Reported illness in his family was given as the reason for Bozek's absence from training camp.

Coaches Not Depending On Bozek.

The Georgetown coaches are concentrating on the secondary defense and the perfection of a more varied offense than that which was used against Mount St. Mary's College last Saturday.

The Hilltop mentors are not taking their foes of Saturday lightly. Dick Harlow's Western Maryland eleven did not reveal its real strength against Baltimore U. last Saturday in hanging up a 34-to-0 triumph, although Harlow reports from Westminster that he is far from pleased with the day his huskies started the campaign.

Terrors to Present Heavy Line.

Whitey Clark, graduate of last year's Terror eleven, and at present an assistant to Nate Weinstock, another Western Maryland star of two years back, at Baltimore U., has been recalled by Harlow to coach his ends the remainder of this week. The wing positions have been the most difficult to fill, Harlow says.

The heavy center portion of the Western Maryland line is expected to well match the Hilltop line-up in that section. Capt. Havens, of the Terrors, at center; Wilker, Pincura, O'Leair and Kohout, in the tackle berths, promise to give the classy Blue and Gray pivot guardians a real battle.

Business Worth $1,190,640 Passed Up by Cubs' Office

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Not another reserved seat ticket for world series games in Wrigley Field remains in the Cub offices. The last batch of tickets was put into the mails today, along with thousands of formal "regret" notices.

William L. Veeck, president of the club, believes the number of requests for tickets to series games in Chicago to be the largest any club has experienced in the history of the classic. Lack of seating facilities made it necessary to turn down 32,800 applicants for tickets to the two, and possibly three, contests which will be played here. With the application averaging requests for two seats, making a total of nearly 65,000, it was necessary to pass up $1,190,640 worth of business.

Between $250,000 and $300,000 was returned to applicants who violated the regulations by asking for more than two seats.

Tickets have been reaching lucky purchasers during the last two days, but no scalper activity has been reported. Several ticket agencies which have raised signs reading "World Series Tickets Bought and Sold" are being watched by special agents of the Department of Internal Revenue, to see that there are no law violations. The law requires a tax of 50 per cent of the excess price charged for a resold ticket.

Cub Outfield Superior to Mack Trio

Wilson, Cuyler and Stephenson Ranked the Better Three.

Simmons Rated Best Individual; Haas Hitting Lightly.

This is another of a series of stories comparing the strength of the Athletics and Cubs in the several departments of play.

By BRIAN BELL.
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Cubs have a better outfield than the Athletics on the basis of the season's performances, but the A's have the best outfielder. The Macklan trio of Simmons, Haas and Miller can not be said to equal the usefulness of the Cub array, Stephenson, Wilson and Cuyler. Simmons, however, can point to figures which will prove he is the best of the combined assembly.

The Milwaukee product with the queer batting stance has hit around .370 this year, cracked out more than 30 home runs and batted in nearly 150 runs. Only the compact Hack Wilson has hit more home runs or batted in more counters, and Wilson's general batting is some 20 points below that of Simmons.

With the left field advantage awarded to the A's, the Cubs can claim the margin in the other two places. Wilson's showing has been much better than that of Mule Haas, whose batting record is only a few points above .300. When outfielders fall out of this select class they must buy tickets at the gate to get into the baseball grounds.

Cuyler Has an Edge On Bing Miller.

Kid Cuyler, with a batting average of .350, is a slightly better hitter than Bing Miller, who patrols right field for the Athletics, and the Cub outfielder is much faster. The only base runners in the two outfields play right. Cuyler has stolen 34 bases and Miller 24.

Base running for the rest of the fielders has been reduced to a minimum. Haas has not been credited with a pilfered sack all season, Simmons has four, Wilson two and Stephenson nine.

Riggs Stephenson, although overshadowed by Simmons on paper, is a courageous player and especially dangerous at bat with men on bases. He also has become a good fielder. He formerly was a third baseman for Cleveland. Stephenson this year has led the Cub outfielders in hitting.

Short Series May Upset Dope.

Baseball figures do not lie, but a series of six or seven games may upset all basis of comparison for several months of play. Simmons has been in a prolonged battling slump and has seen his league leadership shot away by the sharp finishing blows of Lou Fonseca, of the Cleveland Indians.

Stephenson has been out of the game with injuries and has just returned to active duty. Al may snap out of his streak of hitless games at any time and Steve may have been benefited or hurt by his absence from the game.

In reserve strength the National Leaguers are much better fortified. Cliff Heathcote, a .300 hiter, will be ready to leap in at the first opportunity, and John Moore is a fair hitter and fielder. Homer Summa and Walter French are good enough fielders, but neither speaks in eloquent tones with a bat in his hand.

Reds Rally in Eighth To Defeat Cubs, 3 to 2

Cincinnati, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Cubs outhit the Reds by seven safe drives to six in the opener of a five-game series here today, but the home team bunched three blows with an error in the eighth inning to nose out the new champions by 3 to 2. Red Lucas not only scattered the Chicago blows, save in the second, but led the eighth-inning assault upon Guy Bush with a single. Swanson followed this blow with a single, and Critz then tripled, tying the score. Critz himself scored the winning run a moment later when Grimm threw wildly to the plate after fielding Walker's bounder.

Cuyler's triple and Stephenson's single gave the Bruins one run in the second and Ford's error and McMillan's single added another. These runs seemed sufficient until the Reds got after Bush in the eighth. It was Lucas' nineteenth victory and Bush's seventh defeat.

Strenuous Drills Mark Preparation for Eastern Debuts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Having had one day of comparative rest this week, Eastern football squads got back to real work today. Gruelling scrimmages marked practice sessions at a number of schools, although only a scattered few will face major opposition this coming Saturday.

At Cambridge, Head Coach Arnold Horween, feeling that the scrubs were not tough enough for his varsity, picked two evenly matched teams from his varsity squad and scrimmaged them for more than an hour, without a score. Capt. Red Barrett and Wally Harper, full back, were on the side lines with injuries. Horween plans another hard scrimmage before the Bates game.

At New Haven Al Beane, a substitute back, and Herb Miller scored twice as the varsity, getting ready for Vermont, beat the scrubs, 27-0.

Penn Coach Demotes 6 After Scrimmage.

Pennsylvania, which is to meet Swarthmore, was sent through a scrimmage with Frank Merrick, sophomore tackle, replacing Bill Beumont on the first team. After the scrimmage six men were sent to the scrubs from the varsity. Bill Ratowsky, half back, suffered a sprained wrist and may be out of Saturday's game.

Coach "Chuc" Meehan at New York University had his varsity scrimmage with a crack freshman outfit for more than an hour in preparation for West Virginia Wesleyan. Collins was at center in place of the veteran, Harry Schneider, who suffered a slight injury to his shoulder on Saturday.

Brown's prospects picked up a bit as W. L. Fogarty and Joe Mahood, out with injuries for ten days, reported for practice. With Rhode Island next on the list Head Coach McLaughy called his own signals and sent his back field into a veteran line for an hour or more.

Only two letter men from the 1928 squad were in Army's line today as Coach Biff Jones ordered signal drill and dummy scrimmage for the Gettysburg battle to come. Navy scrimmaged in the rain and devoted a lot of attention to a passing attack in preparation for William and Mary. Ganon, regular quarter back, was back in the line-up and did most of the passing.

Upset Marks Golf Play of Women

New Jersey Girl Has 35 on First Nine in National Play.

Wins by 3 Up and 2; Glenna Collett Is Easy Victor.

By PAUL R. MICHELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

OAKLAND HILLS, Birmingham, Mich., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Sweeping over the trap-sliced Oakland Hills course with probably the most meteoric round of golf ever carded by a woman, Maureen Orcutt, of White Beeches, N. J., not only halted the march of Helen Hicks, but took the glory of the initial match play skirmishes of the women's national championship today.

The slender New Jersey miss strode over the first nine holes in 35 strokes, one equal to men's par and six strokes better than women's perfect figures, and then breezed out to end the struggle on the sixteenth green 3 up and 2 by playing some more super-perfect golf. It was easily the best round registered in the national event's 33 years of play and, because of the reputation of Oakland Hills, probably a record for the distance for feminine golf. Too, it was the third straight time she turned the trick of defeating Miss Hicks in match play this year.

Mrs. Fraser Bows to Pittsburgh Girl.

Most of the favorites, including the defending champion, Glenna Collett, sailed through today's rounds, which were alternately close and lop-sided. One glaring exception, however, was the upset of Mrs. Alexa Sterling Fraser, of Ottawa, Canada, three times national champion, by a comparatively unknown Anjeanette Hunter, of Pittsburgh. Catching the former champion far off her game, Miss Hunter blasted out a two-up victory. Mrs. Fraser was the last of six Canadian threats to drop from the championship picture.

Another record for national tournament play fell today, when Mrs. Leo Federman, an in-and-outer from New York, and Mrs. Helen B. Stetson, of Philadelphia, 1926 champion, fought to the twenty-fourth green before the New York player won. All square at the end of the regulation eighteen holes, both missed several chances to win, but on the twenty-fourth Mrs. Federman slapped a pretty shot from the rough to within four feet of the pin and then sank her putt for a birdie three and the match.

The former record for extra-hole first-round matches in the tournament was set in 1915, when Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Vanderbeck decided the issue on the twenty-first carpet.

Miss Collett Facing Orcutt Match.

Miss Collett sauntered around in even par and simply walked off with her match, 6 and 5, against Mrs. Johnson. She did not drop a single hole. Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, present Western and trans-Mississippi champion, equaled Miss Collett's overwhelming margin by conquering Rosamond Vahey, of Boston, 6 and 5.

Miss Collett finds herself threatened by Miss Orcutt's wizardry in the second round tomorrow. The two meet in the first match of the upper bracket and it will be the blue ribbon match of the round. If the champion can weather this assault she should sail along fairly peacefully

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

Radical Speculation.

J. T. N.—I shall appreciate your opinion of a purchase of E. L. Smith Oil Co. new issue of stock, head office at Mexia, Tex. This issue is supposed to be on the New York Curb.

Answer—The stock mentioned must be classed as a radical speculation. Therefore it is impossible for this column to make further comment. If you really wish to invest, and not speculate, why not select a seasoned preferred stock or high-grade bond?

Central Alloy Steel.

J. B. R.—Would like to have your advice as to the advisability of selling or holding Central Alloy Steel.

Answer—In view of the indicated expansion of earnings and merger possibilities for Central Alloy Steel common stock, there is moderately attractive possibilities for long-term holding. However, the issue must be considered a speculation of the more radical type, and this column believes that some of the stronger stocks in the steel group afford greater attraction. Financial position is strong, although last year was the first in which the $2 dividend paid on the common since 1926 has been fully covered.

Armour Co. of Illinois.

J. E. B.—I have 200 shares of Armour & Co. of Illinois, class B, bought at $20 per share. What are the future prospects of same?

Answer—No dividend disbursements have been made on the class B stock of Armour & Co. At present there seems small possibility of any disbursements being made in the near future. Therefore the stock must be classed as a speculation and not suitable for investment holding.

Packard New, Middle States Oil.

H. S.—I hold "Packard New" and Cities Service common, also purchased Middle States Oil at 2⅜. Kindly advise whether the above are good safe investments or speculations.

Answer—Packard and Cities Service, due to excellent past records, are well regarded as speculative investment issues. Middle States Oil is a radical speculation and not suitable for you if you are attempting to invest your funds conservatively.

Pathe Common Stock.

C. M.—I have some Pathe common stock which I purchased at 8½ and 12. Would you advise me to hold same? What are the future prospects for a rise in price? I also have some Packard and North American common. Let me know your opinion of these stocks.

Answer—Outlook for Pathe Exchange, Inc., is undoubtedly improved by new management and greater emphasis on feature pictures. However, would prefer to see concrete evidence of earnings expansion before recommending either the common or class A stock for conservative investment. Packard and North American are seasoned issues and well regarded.

Minneapolis & St. Louis.

A. G.—Can you tell me something about Minneapolis & St. Louis 1st refunding 4s?

Answer—These bonds are extremely low in price, at present selling at about $20. Their original offering price was $93.50. They are regarded as highly speculative and one recognized authority on bonds rates them as "dangerous." If you are contemplating a bond investment, why not select some issues on which interest is regularly paid, thus insuring to you a fixed rate of income?

Sonora and Acoustic Companies.

M. M. H.—Would appreciate your view of Sonora Products Co. stock whose name was recently changed from Acoustic Products Co.

Answer—The stock mentioned must be considered a radical speculation and not suitable for investment holding. A change in the executives of the corporation has recently taken place, but what effect this change will have on the future of the company is a matter of speculation.

Not Attractive Speculation.

W. J. W.—I am holding at the present time 50 shares of Cavanaugh-Dobbs common stock which I purchased at 35½. Please advise if I should continue to hold this stock, or if I should dispose of it, taking my loss?

Answer—Until downward trend of earnings is reversed, common stock must be considered an unattractive speculation.

Moon Motor Stock.

Mrs. G. A. F.—A few years ago I purchased 50 shares of Moon Motor stock, paying about $37 per share for it. Since then it has steadily declined. It has paid no dividend for the last two years. Would you advise holding the stock or taking what I can get now? Can you tell me of the financial standing of the company or if there are any prospects of a rise in the price of the stock?

Answer—One of the smaller producers of automobiles, Moon Motor Car Co. has experienced since 1925 a drastic slump in sales volume and earning power. In 1925 it had a net income of $1,102,828, but in 1927 and 1926 reported deficits of $148,275 and $498,638, respectively. More recent earnings data not available. Cash on hand was reduced from $940,041 on December 31, 1927, to $232,117 at the end of 1928. With competition growing more severe, outlook does not look at all encouraging. Can not advise as to whether you should hold or sell your stock or predict future market movements in it.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW CANAAN, Conn., Sept. 29.—There has been so much mystifying reference to new and magical coaching systems at Eastern colleges this fall that it is a comfort to hear from Mr. Tad Jones, late coach at Yale, that the so-called new plays are merely so old that they seem new. It seems that an old football play is something like an old joke, which the hoofers and spoofers of vaudeville call a spavin. It is so good in the first place that all the coaches take it up with the result that before long it loses its charm and is quietly forgotten. But when it has been out of mind for a sufficient length of time it is revived and Mr. Jones, lecturing on the subject of offensive football, says this is all the so-called new offensive amounts to, except that he admits having seen some novel variations of plays which are fundamentally old.

Mr. Pop Warner, the Stanford coach, undoubtedly is responsible for the present resort to versatility in the East. I take it that most of the coaches holding jobs in this part of the country must have been present at the Yankee Stadium last fall when his Stanford team practiced their stalling deceptions on the Army, for in many Eastern school where there has been mention of a new and more subtle style of attack, it is vaguely hinted that the new system is an adaptation of the Warner system.

New Style Compliment To Warner.

This is a high compliment to Mr. Warner and the higher because when he was coaching in the East he came to be regarded as a person who practiced stratagems that were somewhat shyster and not strictly cricket from the standpoint of the starry-eyed sporting idealists. His application of brown leather mock footballs on the shirt bosom of his Carlisle Indians with intent to delude and confuse the Harvard team in Mr. P. D. Haughton's day at Cambridge, was an instance of this and he stands in his trade or profession as an incorrigible opportunist whose job is to teach football and whose proficiency is judged solely by the proportion of victories and defeats.

The incorrigible Mr. Warner will yet come to be recognized, and before very long, as a man who thought far ahead of his time, foreseeing the development of football to such magnitude that the coach must stand or fall as his team wins or loses.

Warner's Tactics Within Letter of Rules.

Just as the players are advised to take advantage of every square inch of territory within the sidelines and end lines of the football field, Mr. Warner, in construing the game has always availed himself of every right and privilege within the letter of the rules, including, from time to time, certain obscure possibilities which did not present themselves to his colleagues in the business.

Mr. Gilmore Dobie, the coach of the Cornell Team, doubtless has thought upon the practical correctness of Mr. Warner's attitude toward football. Mr. Warner coaches his teams to win and you may be sure that it was his winning record and not his personal charm or his ideals whatever they may be, that pays him a salary which is commonly understood to be the highest in the business.

Mr. Dobie, on the other hand, had a very bad season at Cornell last year, followed by a kind of student insurrection against the interference of the alumni with the athletic affairs of the undergraduates. There were editorials in the school paper,

Johnson Asks To Retain Milan

Protests Assignment of Chattanooga Post to Coach.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

INDICATIONS now are that Clyde Milan will not be appointed manager of the Chattanooga Lookouts. When Joe Engel, Washington scout, purchased the Southern League franchise Monday, announcement was made that Milan, now coach of the Nationals, probably would be put in charge of the team. Manager Walter Johnson has something to say about the matter, however, and he let it be known over long-distance telephone from Philadelphia last night, that he wants Milan to remain here as his assistant. Definite decision in the matter probably will not be made for several days in view of Johnson's protest against Milan leaving him.

Johnny Johnston, former Brooklyn third baseman and outfielder, is the present pilot and his contract carries over through 1930. It is possible that he will be retained in view of Johnson's desire to keep Milan here but, if a change is desired by the new owners, he has offered to settle and step out for a sum considerably less than the year's pay called for in his contract.

Double Bill With Macks Shifted to Today.

The Nationals, scheduled to end their season in Philadelphia yesterday with a double-header, found the Quaker City weather almost as bad as it was here and were unable to play, the twin bill being carried over until today. Irving Hadley and Myles Thomas were scheduled to start the games yesterday, but the latter has not been effective against the Mackmen and, with the extra day of rest, "Sad Sam" Jones, who does go well against the new American League champions, will be ready. He did not take the trip with the team, but Manager Johnson last night wired for him to hustle to the Sleepy City and he is scheduled to take Thomas' place on the program this afternoon.

With a two-game lead over the Tigers for fifth place and only four more games to be played, the Nationals hope to clinch this position from Bucky Harris' team today, which would be possible should the Washington team capture both decisions.

Indiana Prepares To Test Notre Dame

Chicago, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Assigned the task of giving the 1929 model Notre Dame football machine its first test, Coach Pat Page today piled work on his Indiana squadfi It will be homecoming day for Hoosier alumni, but the affair will be shared by Notre Dame.

Page concentrated on defensive work today, with special emphasis on blocking and tackling, departments in which the Hoosiers showed weakness last week. A group of five sophomore ends was given plenty of attention on going down under punts and made a better impression than the backs who attempted to block them.

HIGH SCHOOL GRID TIME CHANGED

Advance to 3:30 P.M. Voted by Principals After Protests.

PRINCIPALS of Washington's five public high schools yesterday adjusted differences growing out of late starting times for the interscholastic football series with a compromise decision that advanced the start of the games from 3:45 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

The action followed protests of the coaches and the student bodies when the time for starting the series contests was set at 3:45 p. m. to meet the longer hours of the Washington school system. Complaints that darkness would interfere with the games were loud, and a plea was made that the contests be scheduled at 3:15 p. m. as in past years. The decision yesterday was in the nature of a compromise, with the principals believing that by advancing the original time fifteen minutes and making certain that the contests were conducted with such dispatch that play in the dusk could be avoided.

In order to assure the prompt start of the games, it was announced that teams and students of the contesting schools on the days of the games would be dismissed earlier than those of nonparticipating schools.

All to Be Dismissed In Time for Games.

Definite assurance was given also that all students would be dismissed in plenty of time to allow them to reach the Central Stadium, the scene of all interhigh contests. For example, on the day of the Eastern-Tech games, all students of these two schools will be released around 2:30 or 2:45. However, the students of the remaining high schools will be kept at their respective posts until 3 o'clock.

An exception in the case of Central High students will be made, however, as with the scene of battle directly in their own backyard there will be no necessity of dismissing them earlier than the regular time.

As the situation stands, no student will lose time from his classes on more than four days during the season, with the loss a very slight one, while the game should be run off in a manner satisfactory to all.

Heart on Right Side No Bother to Gridman

Lincoln, Nebr., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Raymond Richards' football-playing ability is not hampered by the fact that his heart and other vital organs are reversed from their normal positions.

The 200-pound tackle of the University of Nebraska's squad already has won two letters on the gridiron. Last year he was mentioned on several honorary Big Six teams.

Richards plans to enter aviation following his graduation next spring.

Joe Proctor Seeking Fourth Baltimore Win

Joe Proctor, Washington heavyweight fighter, will seek his fourth victory in a Baltimore ring tomorrow night when he meets Herman Weiner, local pride, in the main bout of eight rounds at the Embassy Theater. In his previous fights in Baltimore, Proctor twice outpointed Speedy Meyers and knocked out Bill Matoski in one round.

According to Goldie Ahearn, Proctor's manager, the Washington fighter is now showing the best form of his brief professional career, punching harder and displaying better speed. The bout will be Proctor's second meeting with Weiner, whom he knocked out in two rounds here two years ago at the Jewish Community Center when both were amateurs.

Joe Lesser, Washington lightweight, appears on the same card, meeting Harry Groves, of Baltimore, in a six-round preliminary. Lesser was undefeated as an amateur.

Clan MacLennan Team Reinstaed by U. S. F. A.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Oct. 1.—Thomas W. Cahill, secretary of the United States Football Association, controlling body of soccer in America, stated today that the prevailing suspension of the Washington Clan MacLennan Soccer Team would be lifted pending a statement from each of the players to the effect that they were not involved in the differences between the national body and a District official.

The District official, Martin Grieve, was suspended by the U. S. F. A. for his refusal to relinquish a trophy awarded to Concord Soccer Club. All that is necessary for the members of the Clan Club to be reinstated is to sign a form letter, to be sent by the Washington secretary.

All members of the Clan MacLennan Club are requested to be present at a meeting of the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in room 2, District Building.

BOZEK FAILS TO REPORT TO G.U.

JOHNNY BOZEK failed to report at Georgetown yesterday as expected. The former Gonzaga athletic star and last year one of the most promising ball carriers in the Georgetown back field was reported to have left his home in Manchester, N. H., on Monday with intentions of immediately taking up football training at the Hilltop.

Although Bozek's belated appearance was eagerly awaited by the student body as well as Coaches Lou Little and Mike Palm, no word of the slim triple-threat man was received. Reported illness in his family was given as the reason for Bozek's absence from training camp.

Coaches Not Depending On Bozek.

The Georgetown coaches are concentrating on the secondary defense and the perfection of a more varied offense than that which was used against Mount St. Mary's College last Saturday.

The Hilltop mentors are not taking their foes of Saturday lightly. Dick Harlow's Western Maryland eleven did not reveal its real strength against Baltimore U. last Saturday in hanging up a 34-to-0 triumph, although Harlow reports from Westminster that he is far from pleased with the day his huskies started the campaign.

Terrors to Present Heavy Line.

Whitey Clark, graduate of last year's Terror eleven, and at present an assistant to Nate Weinstock, another Western Maryland star of two years back, at Baltimore U., has been recalled by Harlow to coach his ends the remainder of this week. The wing positions have been the most difficult to fill, Harlow says.

The heavy center portion of the Western Maryland line is expected to well match the Hilltop line-up in that section. Capt. Havens, of the Terrors, at center; Wilker, Pincura, O'Leair and Kohout, in the tackle berths, promise to give the classy Blue and Gray pivot guardians a real battle.

Business Worth $1,190,640 Passed Up by Cubs' Office

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Not another reserved seat ticket for world series games in Wrigley Field remains in the Cub offices. The last batch of tickets was put into the mails today, along with thousands of formal "regret" notices.

William L. Veeck, president of the club, believes the number of requests for tickets to series games in Chicago to be the largest any club has experienced in the history of the classic. Lack of seating facilities made it necessary to turn down 32,800 applicants for tickets to the two, and possibly three, contests which will be played here. With the application averaging requests for two seats, making a total of nearly 65,000, it was necessary to pass up $1,190,640 worth of business.

Between $250,000 and $300,000 was returned to applicants who violated the regulations by asking for more than two seats.

Tickets have been reaching lucky purchasers during the last two days, but no scalper activity has been reported. Several ticket agencies which have raised signs reading "World Series Tickets Bought and Sold" are being watched by special agents of the Department of Internal Revenue, to see that there are no law violations. The law requires a tax of 50 per cent of the excess price charged for a resold ticket.

Cub Outfield Superior to Mack Trio

Wilson, Cuyler and Stephenson Ranked the Better Three.

Simmons Rated Best Individual; Haas Hitting Lightly.

This is another of a series of stories comparing the strength of the Athletics and Cubs in the several departments of play.

(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Cubs have a better outfield than the Athletics on the basis of the season's performances, but the A's have the best outfielder. The Macklan trio of Simmons, Haas and Miller can not be said to equal the usefulness of the Cub array, Stephenson, Wilson and Cuyler. Simmons, however, can point to figures which will prove he is the best of the combined assembly.

The Milwaukee product with the queer batting stance has hit around .370 this year, cracked out more than 30 home runs and batted in nearly 150 runs. Only the compact Hack Wilson has hit more home runs or batted in more counters, and Wilson's general batting is some 20 points below that of Simmons.

With the left field advantage awarded to the A's, the Cubs can claim the margin in the other two places. Wilson's showing has been much better than that of Mule Haas, whose batting record is only a few points above .300. When outfielders fall out of this select class they must buy tickets at the gate to get into the baseball grounds.

Cuyler Has an Edge On Bing Miller.

Kid Cuyler, with a batting average of .350, is a slightly better hitter than Bing Miller, who patrols right field for the Athletics, and the Cub outfielder is much faster. The only base runners in the two outfields play right. Cuyler has stolen 34 bases and Miller 24.

Base running for the rest of the fielders has been reduced to a minimum. Haas has not been credited with a pilfered sack all season, Simmons has four, Wilson two and Stephenson nine.

Riggs Stephenson, although overshadowed by Simmons on paper, is a courageous player and especially dangerous at bat with men on bases. He also has become a good fielder. He formerly was a third baseman for Cleveland. Stephenson this year has led the Cub outfielders in hitting.

Short Series May Upset Dope.

Baseball figures do not lie, but a series of six or seven games may upset all basis of comparison for several months of play. Simmons has been in a prolonged battling slump and has seen his league leadership shot away by the sharp finishing blows of Lou Fonseca, of the Cleveland Indians.

Stephenson has been out of the game with injuries and has just returned to active duty. Al may snap out of his streak of hitless games at any time and Steve may have been benefited or hurt by his absence from the game.

In reserve strength the National Leaguers are much better fortified. Cliff Heathcote, a .300 hiter, will be ready to leap in at the first opportunity, and John Moore is a fair hitter and fielder. Homer Summa and Walter French are good enough fielders, but neither speaks in eloquent tones with a bat in his hand.

Cincinnati, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Cubs outhit the Reds by seven safe drives to six in the opener of a five-game series here today, but the home team bunched three blows with an error in the eighth inning to nose out the new champions by 3 to 2. Red Lucas not only scattered the Chicago blows, save in the second, but led the eighth-inning assault upon Guy Bush with a single. Swanson followed this blow with a single, and Critz then tripled, tying the score. Critz himself scored the winning run a moment later when Grimm threw wildly to the plate after fielding Walker's bounder.

Cuyler's triple and Stephenson's single gave the Bruins one run in the second and Ford's error and McMillan's single added another. These runs seemed sufficient until the Reds got after Bush in the eighth. It was Lucas' nineteenth victory and Bush's seventh defeat.

Strenuous Drills Mark Preparation for Eastern Debuts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Having had one day of comparative rest this week, Eastern football squads got back to real work today. Gruelling scrimmages marked practice sessions at a number of schools, although only a scattered few will face major opposition this coming Saturday.

At Cambridge, Head Coach Arnold Horween, feeling that the scrubs were not tough enough for his varsity, picked two evenly matched teams from his varsity squad and scrimmaged them for more than an hour, without a score. Capt. Red Barrett and Wally Harper, full back, were on the side lines with injuries. Horween plans another hard scrimmage before the Bates game.

At New Haven Al Beane, a substitute back, and Herb Miller scored twice as the varsity, getting ready for Vermont, beat the scrubs, 27-0.

Princeton, which meets Amherst on Saturday, bowed to Rutgers, 7-6, in a practice game today. The Rutgers team flashed a fine passing attack that had the Tigers bewildered during the early part of the contest.

Penn Coach Demotes 6 After Scrimmage.

Pennsylvania, which is to meet Swarthmore, was sent through a scrimmage with Frank Merrick, sophomore tackle, replacing Bill Beumont on the first team. After the scrimmage six men were sent to the scrubs from the varsity. Bill Ratowsky, half back, suffered a sprained wrist and may be out of Saturday's game.

Coach "Chuc" Meehan at New York University had his varsity scrimmage with a crack freshman outfit for more than an hour in preparation for West Virginia Wesleyan. Collins was at center in place of the veteran, Harry Schneider, who suffered a slight injury to his shoulder on Saturday.

Brown's prospects picked up a bit as W. L. Fogarty and Joe Mahood, out with injuries for ten days, reported for practice. With Rhode Island next on the list Head Coach McLaughy called his own signals and sent his back field into a veteran line for an hour or more.

Only two letter men from the 1928 squad were in Army's line today as Coach Biff Jones ordered signal drill and dummy scrimmage for the Gettysburg battle to come. Navy scrimmaged in the rain and devoted a lot of attention to a passing attack in preparation for William and Mary. Ganon, regular quarter back, was back in the line-up and did most of the passing.

Upset Marks Golf Play of Women

New Jersey Girl Has 35 on First Nine in National Play.

Wins by 3 Up and 2; Glenna Collett Is Easy Victor.

By PAUL R. MICHELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

OAKLAND HILLS, Birmingham, Mich., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Sweeping over the trap-sliced Oakland Hills course with probably the most meteoric round of golf ever carded by a woman, Maureen Orcutt, of White Beeches, N. J., not only halted the march of Helen Hicks, but took the glory of the initial match play skirmishes of the women's national championship today.

The slender New Jersey miss strode over the first nine holes in 35 strokes, the equal to men's par and six strokes better than women's perfect figures, and then breezed out to end the struggle on the sixteenth green 3 up and 2 by playing some more super-perfect golf. It was easily the best round registered in the national event's 33 years of play and, because of the reputation of Oakland Hills, probably a record for the distance for feminine golf. Too, it was the third straight time she turned the trick of defeating Miss Hicks in match play this year.

Mrs. Fraser Bows to Pittsburgh Girl.

Most of the favorites, including the defending champion, Glenna Collett, sailed through today's rounds, which were alternately close and lop-sided. One glaring exception, however, was the upset of Mrs. Alexa Sterling Fraser, of Ottawa, Canada, three times national champion, by a comparatively unknown Anjeanette Hunter, of Pittsburgh. Catching the former champion far off her game, Miss Hunter blasted out a two-up victory. Mrs. Fraser was the last of six Canadian threats to drop from the championship picture.

Another record for national tournament play fell today, when Mrs. Leo Federman, an in-and-outer from New York, and Mrs. Helen B. Stetson, of Philadelphia, 1926 champion, fought to the twenty-fourth green before the New York player won. All square at the end of the regulation eighteen holes, both missed several chances to win, but on the twenty-fourth Mrs. Federman slapped a pretty shot from the rough to within four feet of the pin and then sank her putt for a birdie three and the match.

The former record for extra-hole first-round matches in the tournament was set in 1915, when Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Vanderbeck decided the issue on the twenty-first carpet.

Miss Collett Facing Orcutt Match.

Miss Collett sauntered around in even par and simply walked off with her match, 6 and 5, against Mrs. Johnson. She did not drop a single hole. Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, present Western and trans-Mississippi champion, equaled Miss Collett's overwhelming margin by conquering Rosamond Vahey, of Boston, 6 and 5.

Miss Collett finds herself threatened by Miss Orcutt's wizardry in the second round tomorrow. The two meet in the first match of the upper bracket and it will be the blue ribbon match of the round. If the champion can weather this assault she should sail along fairly peacefully

DONNAY BEATS GRAW FAVORITE BY STRETCH RUSH

On Her Toes Overtaken In Drive

Fator Gets Rancocas Colt Home in Front; Stream Line 3d.

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Oct. 1.—The storm, which set in here on Sunday and still continued to unload a deluge in this section failed to dampen the ardor of race-goers, and an enthusiastic gathering was again present at Havre de Grace this afternoon. Conditions were ideal for "mudders and horses that fancied that sort of footing" had a big advantage. Surprises were in order this afternoon and this was particularly so when the Rancocas Stable's Donnay, a sturdy-going son of Donnaconna, beat the heavily played favorite, On Her Toes, in the running of the Shore Acre Purse, the program's feature race. This was a dash of 6 furlongs, and was run as the fifth event.

There were five starters. Bramabiau, Erin Queen and Finite being withdrawn. In the early running, Silverdale, closely accompanied by On Her Toes showed the way, but after passing the half mile pole the Glen Riddle filly drew away and opened up a lead of three lengths. Donnay was rating along in last place but one, but Fator was sitting still making the turn for home.

On Her Toes was still two lengths in front. Fator had shaken Donnay up and, saving much ground as they swung into the home stretch, was now in second position. In the final furlong, On Her Toes began to weaken and Donnay closing with a good burst of speed, caught her in the last hundred yards to win by a length and a quarter. Another length and a half back finished Stream Line.

The latter lost whatever chance she may have had when she was taken extremely wide entering the home stretch. The six furlongs were run in 1:13, good time considering the going which was mushy.

Vinlin Scores by Head In Opener.

The W. V. Casey Stable scored a double when Letter Six won the third race and Nancy Byrd came back in the following event to gallop home an easy winner.

Thirteen of the fourteen programmed in the opening event went to the post. They were a well behaved lot and when the barrier was released they were off to a good break. Locket and Vinlin, quickest to begin, drew away and racing head and head set a good pace in the going. Locket had a slight advantage until well inside the final furlong, when Vinlin responded with good courage, passed Locket and in a driving finish, was first home by a head. St. Tuscan was third, another neck away. The latter came from the rear and after saving much ground and entering the stretch closed with a rush. He was going fastest at the end.

Slickaway Beats Poor Lot of Maidens.

The field in the second was made up of maidens and a bad lot. As usual in races of this sort there were several good things. It furnished a stirring contest in which Slickaway and Leonardeau fought it out through the home stretch, and Slickaway just lasted long enough to win by a nose.

INJURIES HIT MARYLAND AS CAROLINA GAME NEARS

2 Old Liners May Be Out Of Line-Up

Ribnitzki and Roberts Unlikely to Start Against Tarheels.

Chalmers Outstanding Candidate for Back Field Berth.

TWO sophomores are likely to break up the senior gridiron combination at the University of Maryland for the big game with North Carolina at College Park Saturday.

It isn't because Coach Curley Byrd of the Old Liners, has a desire to make any changes in the veteran eleven. He'll need all the experience he can muster. However, injuries to Fred Ribnitzki, husky right tackle and Augie Roberts, left half back, may force him to use other players to start the game against the powerful and versatile Tarheels.

Ribnitzki has not had on a football suit since he hurt an ankle in the scrimmage with the Marines last Wednesday, and Roberts has not been able to practice thus far this week on account of twisting his leg in the opening encounter with Washington College last Saturday.

Both have followed the practice sessions this week in civilian clothes and will be up on the plays if they recover sufficiently to perform against the Tarheels.

Chalmer to Play For Roberts.

Shorty Chalmers, versatile sophomore, doubtless will be seen in the Maryland back field against the Tarheels if Roberts is unable to play. Right now he is the only kicker Byrd has in good shape as Buck Miller, who has been doing the punting for the second team, also is nursing a bad ankle. Chalmers is a good ball carrier and in addition to being a punter of ability is an adept drop-kicker.

There is no outstanding candidate for Ribnitzki's job if he can not play. One of several sophomores might be assigned to his berth and Bill Fisher, 1928 reserve tackle, who has just returned to the squad after an absence of more than two weeks, may be used. Then, too, it may be that John McDonald, who has been playing guard, may be shifted to the tackle berth with one of the sophs taking his place.

V. M. I. TEAM TO DRILL AT COLUMBIA

27 Players to Make Trip for Game With Florida Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 1.—With only three days of practice behind the mthis week, the Virginia Military Institute cadets will leave Lexington by automobile Wednesday evening for Lynchburg to entrain there for the trip to Tampa to meet the Fighting 'Gators of the University of Florida Saturday. Twenty-seven players, headed by Capt. Al Hawkins, will invade the Palmetto State. Others in the party will be Head Coach Bill Raftery, Coaches Ed Heas and Stag Sinish, Athletic Director Blandy Clarkson, Trainer Herb Patchin, Manager Billy Saunders and Cadet Representative Porter McCray.

Through the courtesy of Coach Billy Laval and other University of South Carolina officials, the cadets will hold a practice on Molton field, Columbia, S. C., behind closed gates Thursday morning. Lying over over five hours in Columbia will break the monotony of the trip and allow the Flying Squadren to polish up the plays to be used against the 'Gators.

Rough Work Barred In Practice.

The cadet coaches barred rough work in the three practice sessions held in Lexington, concentrating more on conditioning and correction of the mistakes that cropped out in the Richmond game last Saturday. Though the Spiders were downed, 40 to 0, the performance of the first-string players for V. M. I. was not as satisfactory on the whole as it was when Hampden-Sidney was defeated by a 19-to-0 count in the first game. The blocking was excellent on the opening kick-off, when Johnnie Biggs got away for 85 yards, and on the first play from scrimmage when Al Hawkins took a jaunt of 62 yards off tackle, but thereafter there was too much ragged play for a team that has drawn the assignment of furnishing the opposition for the famous Florida machine.

No serious injuries came in the wake of the Richmond tilt, but several first-string players, including Scott, Chadwick, Palmer, Williams and Haase, are nursing minor hurts that Trainer Patchin will busy himself with during the week before the big test at Tampa.

and very well written and thought out, too, attempting to repulse the alumni and, as the plaintive phrase goes, give the game back to the students.

Pressure From Outside Dominates Game.

I do not believe the game ever will be given back to the students. The pressure from the outside is so strong that they can not hpoe to stand against it. Even at Cornell, the first school as which the students put up an aggressive resistance, this year's results will be very important in the professional life of the coach. Cornell has several favorite enemies or traditional rival, namely Dartmouth, Columbia and Penn, and Dobie has two arrays of fast, nimble back field men to serve his ambition. They scored nine touchdowns in their opening game against Clarkson Tech, which, of course, is no more significant than Dartmouth's ten touchdowns against Norwich or Columbia's six touchdowns against Middleburg, the opponents of these three being set-ups and selected as such.

In these feuds, Cornell will be meeting two teams at any rate which are not supposed to be in their full traditional strength this season. Dartmouth has a new coach and more than any other team that I know of is depending on one player, Al Marsters. If he should be invalided out or impaired by injuries this year as he was much of the time in 1928 Dartmouth's offensive strength will be seriously reduced.

New Men Must Learn Penn's Tricks.

Pennsylvania, specializing in sleight of hand tricks, must use a new set of men to perform them this season, due to the graduation of the boys who fuddled the Harvard team last year. Mr. Horween, the Harvard coach, said he was always expecting Mr. Shober of the Penn back field, to borrow a plug hat from some one in the stands and prdouce a bowl of gold fish from it, their hocus-pocus was that sly.

Penn is one of the teams which go into training quarters for three weeks before the beginning of school but there is still no certainty about the back field line-up, with the California game only three weeks away.

Rolf Carlsten, a sophomore, is very fast and elusive and he ran back the opening kick-off for a touchdown which meant victory in a close game with Franklin and Marshall Saturday. There is not much weight in the Penn back field and with two or three sophomores among the best candidates, there is no combination available which has had quite enough drilling and experience in Penn's well-known feints.

Columbia's Prospects Highly Regarded.

Columbia, after years of building, comes along with a fine, swift team, at present regarded as the best Columbia has had since the game was restored there. Bleecker and Tys, two great tackles, play side by side in some of Columbia's formation and have blasted wide avenues through the scrubs with the backs sailing along behind them for long gains. In the back field, Hewitt, Lifander and Stanczyk rank with the best in the East, with a happy mingling of football sense, speed and assurance.

Columbia also is using a more or less recognizable adaptation of some of the so-called Warner antics but having no intersectional games on the schedule, will have to be compared with the rest of the country at the end of the season, only by indirect reckoning.

RAINEY RING CAPTAIN AT VIRGINIA

Lightweight Beats Champ in One of 1928 Features.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 1.—Robert M. Rainey, of Oklahoma City, will be captain of Virginia's Boxing Team for the 1929 season. Rainey succeeds Capt.-elect Frank R. Capps, of Jacksonville, Fla., who failed to return to college. At the close of last season Rainey was chosen alternate captain in the event Capps did not return to school. When a telegram came from the Floridan last week Rainey automatically ascended to the captaincy.

Rainey, a lightweight, proved one of the stars of last year's team. His greatest achievement of the season came in mid-February, in a dual meet here with the Navy, when he toppled the crown of intercollegiate champion from the shoulders of Williams, Navy lightweight.

Rainy Beats College Champ in Extra Round Bout.

This vigorous attack was repeated throughout the third round, and it looked to be Rainey's fight, but the judges called for an extra round. Seldom, if ever, did a fighter in collegiate circles take more body punishment than did the Navy entry, in the fourth round. Throughout Rainey had Williams hanging on to him for support.

Besides Capps and Rainey, other members of last year's boxing squad who received their letters were: William L. Clay, jr., of Savannah, Ga.; John W. Fishburne, jr., of Charlottesville, Va.; Julian B. Fite, of Muskogee, Okla.; E. Earle Hart, of Fort Mills, Philippine Islands; Hunter C. Motley, of Madison, Va.; Charles H. Rhett, of Bedford, Va., and Dan L. Williams, of Richmond, Va.

James D. Puller, of St. Augustine, Fla., is manager of boxing for the coming season, with James Ford, of Petersburg, Va.; John N. Sebrell, jr., of Norfolk, Va., and D. G. Roe, jr., of Sadlersville, Md., assistants, and Baskerville Bridgeforth, jr., of Richmond, Va., alternate.

North Carolina Squad Practices New Plays

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 1.—Several new plays were added to the Tarheel repertoire today as the North Carolina coaches worked at building up the Tarheel offense for Saturday's first Southern Conference game with Maryland at College Park.

With rain falling steadily, the whole squad worked at dummy scrimmage inside the tin can, the university's big indoor sports home.

The injured right guards, Eskew, Hudson and Fysal, were back at regular work to strengthen Tarheel line propects. Don Holt, end, and Phil Jackson, half back, were suffering with colds and not out for practice, but the rest of the squad seemed to be in fine shape for the first conference tilt, which will be followed by hard games with Georgia Tech and Georgia.

Little World Series Opener Listed Today

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Kansas City Blues, champions of the American Association, and the Rochester Redwings, International League flag winners, will meet here tomorrow in the first game of the little world series.

Arriving early this morning, the Rochester Club worked out at Muehlebach Field for two hours before giving way to the Blues, who came direct to the field from a victory luncheon given to them by Kansas City fans.

Tex Carleton, right-handed no-hit hurler of Rochester, probably will start for the International League representatives tomorrow. Manager Dutch Zwilling, of the Blues, was undecided tonight between Tom Sheehan and Pearidge Day, both right-handers, and young Max Thomas, sensational youthful port-sider.

Games are scheduled in Kansas City tomorrow, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. The teams then go to Rochester. The club winning five games takes the series.

Stuart Junior High Soccerists in Debut

Stuart Junior High School will pry open the local soccer season Saturday when Leonard Hall, of Maryland, will play the local youngsters on the Monument Grounds at 3:30 o'clock.

Coach George Youngblood, of Stuart, has lost many of his regulars through graduation, but, nevertheless, he expects to have another strong eleven on the field. Edward Kruse will refree the Saturday game.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 1.—The St. Mary's Celtics Baseball Team, contrary to expectations, is not yet through with its 1929 season, a game having been arranged with the Burk Co., of Richmond, to be played next Sunday afternoon at Mayo Field, Richmond. Director Corbett received a telegram today from E. F. Hollowell, manager of the Burk Club, offering an engagement, and expected to close the arrangements finally tonight.

This game practically will decide the championship of Virginia, it is understood, since the Celtics have cleaned up in northern Virginia, and the Richmonders claim like honors in the southern part of the State. It is expected a large number of local fans will accompany the Celtics to Richmond.

Special practice for this game will be held at Baggett's Stadium Thursday afternoon, and all players have been requested to attend. This game, it is understood, will in no way affect the football plans of the Celtics, since the personnel of the baseball and football teams is entirely different.

The football team will hold a practice at Baggett's Stadium tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting, since the drill scheduled for today was completely rained out. The team will open its season Sunday against the Clarendon Lyons.

The George Mason High School Football Team will meet the Episcopal High School Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock on Hoxton Field, this being the second game of the season for both teams. The Episcopalians defeated Alexandria High last week by a decisive score, and expect to repeat at the expense of the Masonites. Prex Wilson, of the Masonite Team, however, is grooming his charges for this contest, and expects to give the Cherry and Black a strong argument.

Coach Reynolds, of Alexandria High, expects to book a game with St. John's College Team for Friday afternoon. The locals have lost their last two starts, on each occasion facing a greatly superior team, and are now devoting their energies to preparing for the District games. They have been handicapped by the loss of their captain, Sidney Hancock, but hope to have him in Friday's game.

Coach Slewie Peyton, of the Del Ray-Rosebuds Football Team, expects to open his season Sunday against the Warwicks, of Washington, the game to be played on Edward Duncan Field. He now has 22 players out for the team, among whom will be found some very promising material.

Navy Gridmen Hold Drill in Downpour

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 1.—Notwithstanding a driving northeast rainstorm and a field converted into a veritable quagmire, Navy gridders worked outdoors at least for a while in today's practice session. The time was about ripe for just such a combination of elements in view of unusually dry early fall and the coaches virtually courted an opportunity for their charges to get a good feel of a wet ball and sloppy conditions under foot.

While the Middies ran Denison ragged Saturday, the opposition was not as strong as had been looked for, and the game not only did not furnish much of a test, but the coaches are by no means satisfied with the work of some of the plans of play and there may be something of a shakeup before the team takes the field against William and Mary on Saturday. Certain it is, however, the Navy has the greatest array of back-field talent in years, and the potential power should begin to assert itself in the fracas with Rockne's Eleven at Baltimore on October 12. All of the backs, and there are enough for practically four sets of almost equal strength, were given a thorough tryout against Denison.

Hard-Fought Matches In Mid-Atlantic Tennis

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 1.—Two hard-fought, three-set matches marked the second round of play in the singles event of the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament of the courts of the Greenbrier Golf and Tennis Club here today. Edward Graham, of the University of North Carolina, eliminated Frank Brady, of Washington and Lee University, 6—2, 3—6, 6—2, and Fred Johns, of the University of Virginia gained the quarter finals by defeating James Allen, jr., of Davis and Elkins College, 6—4, 2—6, 7—5.

C. Alphonso Smith, jr., University of Virginia star, defeated F. X. Brewka, of Washington and Lee, in straight sets to reach the quarter finals by scores of 6—1 and 7—5. Horace Gooch, jr., of Washington and Lee, eliminated Finley Talbot, of Hampden-Sidney College, 6—4, 6—4, while D. G. Thomas, of Hampden-Sidney put out his schoolmate, W. D. Sloan, in straight sets, 6—1 and 6—4.

Robert Clapp and Shields, of Washington and Lee, easily defeated Smith and Leeming, of Greenbrier College in the only doubles match that was played in the tournament.

FRIENDSHIPS DRILL.

A practice for the Friendship A. C. grid candidates will be held tonight at 7:15 o'clock at the Virginia Avenue Playgrounds. In case of rain the team will meet in the clubhouse at 749 Eighth street southeast.

John B. Wins Feature As Aqueduct Closes

Aqueduct Race Track, N. Y., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Aqueduct meeting came to a close here today with the running of a seven-race program. It was featured by the Stonybrook Claiming Stakes, which resulted in a surprise when W. E. Martin's John B., under W. Smith's hustling ride, got up to snatch victory in the last stride from Host. Host was held at 1 to 3, while John B.'s price was 3 to 1.

Host went into the lead at the break and led to the final 20 yards, when he tired and John B., well ridden, won by a head. Host beat Star Flyer twelve lengths for the place. The winner's share was $2,625. The track was muddy, but fast time was the rule.

High Score Captures Fourth in Row at Downs

Churchill Downs Race Track, Ky., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—High Score, a 3-year-old brown colt from A. P. Canale's Stable, racing consistently registered his fourth consecutive victory when he won the Marshal Petain Purse, the featured number on the program here today. It was an allowance event for 3-year-olds and upward over the 6-furlong route and drew but five starters. Retort, from W. Reed's Stable, was next best with Virado, owned by M. Goldblatt, third.

High Score, displaying his usual early speed, went into a two-lengths lead at the quarter pole and was never headed, winning easily by three lengths. Retort, always a contender, was forced a trifle wide on the far turn, but held on gamely through the stretch to take the place money by a half length over Virado.

The clever apprentice, P. Neal, carried off the riding honors of the day, piloting Relline home in the first number and Lasiandra in the fourth.

Cartago Surprises In Hawthorne Feature

Hawthorne Race Track, Ill., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—R. E. Lechleiter's 4-year-old chestnut colt Cartago, which made but one start since the spring meet at Churchill Downs in May, won the Kibitzer Purse, provided as the feature here this afternoon. It was an allowance for 3-year-olds and up at a mile and 70 yards and was worth $950 to the winner. Golden Mint, from Mrs. R. Pollard's stable, was second, with S. Peabody's Flat Iron third.

Jockey M. Meyer had the leg up on the winner, which covered the distance in 1:43 flat. Cartago was away slow and knocked back sharply going to the first turn, but worked his way up steadily and, forcing his way through on the inside near the finish, drew out under a hard ride to win by a length. Gold Mint, racing close up, but under slight restraint, went into a short lead in the stretch drive, but could not match strides with the winner and finished second by a head over Flat Iron. The latter raced evenly throughout to take the small end of the purse by two lengths.

The weather was clear and the track fast.

Wardman Tennis Play Is Indefinitely Off

The opening round of the Wardman Park tennis tournament, which was scheduled to start yesterday, has been postponed indefinitely by the committee due to the wet condition of the courts. The committee hopes to be able to have play started by Saturday. Once the opening rounds are cimpleted, the problem of completing the tournament will be largely solved.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Unfavorable weather crop reports were reflected by increasing activity and strength in the cotton market today. Realizing and Southern selling were readily absorbed by the broadening of demand which sent prices up to 19.08 for December and 19.38 for March, or 34 to 38 points above yesterday's closing quotations. December closed at 19.04 and March at 19.33 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 31 to 36 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 14 to 20 points on buying which was evidently stimulated by apprehensions of storm damage to cotton in the Eastern belt, and relatively steady Liverpool cables. The Southern hedging evidence at the start was absorbed on slight setbacks and the market developed increased firmness as the demand continued with indications of a broadening commission house interest.

Trade interests were also credited with buying, and the demand seemed to receive some additional impetus from a private crop report making the condition 52.4 compared with a report of 57.3 by the same authority a month ago. Some bullish crop advices also reached here with reference to the effects of recent wet weather in the Eastern belt as well as to the tropical storm, and after a lull in the buying movement during the middle of the day, prices firmed up again in the later trading.

The trade buying was supposed to include a demand from Eastern mills and some price fixing by foreign spinners, with both the continent and Liverpool mentioned in this connection. There were also reports of an improved spot demand which no doubt contributed to the advance, and the buying was quite general in the late trading, when active months sold 34 to 38 points above yesterday's closing quotations and about 56 points above the low level of last Saturday morning in the case of December contracts.

Closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing. Part of the late buying was supposed to be in anticipation of bullish features in the weekly report of the Weather Bureau tomorrow, particularly with reference to Eastern belt conditions.

Liverpool cables reported continental and Bombay buying in that market on the Southern storm news. Exports today, 47,551, so far this season, Port receipts, 86,388; U. S. port stocks, 1,189,368.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Wheat suffered a decided setback in price today mainly as a result of general speculative unsettlement caused by severe downturns in stock market values. Lowest prices of the day were reached for wheat during the final transactions. Sinking spells were in the face of announcement that export demand for North American wheat was larger, and that cash purchases of wheat in Chicago today were the best in some time.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1¾ to 1¾ cents a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼ to ⅝ of a cent down, oats ⅛ to ⅝ of a cent off, and provisions ranging from 5 cents decline to an equal advance.

Extreme nervousness pervaded the wheat market, especially as the day drew to an end. Earlier, the fact that sterling exchanges had risen to the highest level since July, 1928, and that this circumstance appeared likely to stimulate export demand, was hopefully noted in various quarters. Considerable stress was laid also on Canadian shippers would hold wheat back for higher prices. Comment on unusual moisture shortage in the principal wheat growing region of Canada was likewise a source of buying that caused temporary price rallies.

Overshadowing all other factors in the wheat market, though, toward the last was the disturbing effect of violent tumbles in stock market prices. Under this influence, wheat values crumpled, and buying support for future deliveries of wheat was waning fast when the gong stopped trading. Purchases today of North American wheat to be shipped to Europe were estimated at 750,000 bushels. The world's available supply of wheat was reported as having increased 21,305,000 bushels for the week, making the total now 414,998,000 bushel compared with 244,244,000 bushels a year ago.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat. Weather over the corn belt was generally favorable, with the forecast pointing to a continuance.

Provisions were easier, influenced by downturns in the value of hogs.

Seasonal advances by business in the fifth or local Federal Reserve district in August and early September over the preceding month were reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, its statement also announcing that business for August compared favorably with the month in 1928.

Retail trade in the district showed slightly more than the usual seasonal increase over July trade and, in addition, averaged 4.1 per cent above the business done in August last year. The statement was based on information from 30 leading department stores.

Total sales this year through August 31 were 2.8 per cent above those from January 1 through August, a year ago, and August, 1929, sales were 18.8 per cent greater than average August sales in the three years, 1923-25, inclusive, the review showed.

Stock on Shelves Increases.

Stock on the shelves of the 30 reporting stores increased 1 per cent during August, but on August 31 was 3.3 per cent less in retail selling value than stock on hand August 31, 1928. The percentage of total sales since January 1 to average stock carried during each of the eight elapsed months was 206.8 per cent, indicating an annual turnover of 3.099 times. The rate of turnover during the first eight months of 1928 was 2.978 times.

Shippers of the country, through estimates of the Shippers' Regional Advisory Boards, anticipate that carload shipments of the 29 principal commodities in the fourth quarter of this year will be approximately 9,134,023 cars, an increase of 209,391 cars above the corresponding period in 1928, or 2.3 per cent, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday.

The Shippers' Regional Advisory Boards, covering the entire United States, furnish these estimates quarterly to the car service division so that the railways may have a guide as to the service they are to be called upon to perform in a given quarterly period.

Freight Loadings Increase.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on September 21 totaled 1,166,330, the division announced. This was an increase of 22,199 cars over the same week last year and an increase of 39,928 cars over the same week two years ago. It also was an increase of 13,968 cars over the preceding week this year, increases being reported in the loading of all commodities except grain and grain products, forest products and ore.

Loading of revenue freight in 1929, compared with the previous year, follows:

Pint Bottle in Heavy Use Through Valley

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Oct. 1.—Pint bottles have displaced all other classes of containers throughout the Shenandoah Valley. They range in price from eight to ten cents each, depending upon the urgency with which they are wanted.

Two sizes, one marked "full pint" and the other without the words, have their respective friends, the "full" pint size being in demand by the liquor buyer; the other has its champion in the bootlegger. Some stores throughout Page County specialize in the containers made to fit the ordinary hip pocket.

Another container on the market throughout the Shenandoah Valley is the half-pint size, embellished with artistic figures. These are said to have been made for women's handbags. The figure of a moonshine still with a small stream of water beside it is worked into one side of the half-pint containers.

JUDGE HEARS PLEA IN FIRE PLOT CASE

VALUE OF PLANT IS TOLD

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 1.—A defense motion to have all of the evidence of the prosecution stricken out in the case of J. C. McClung, Waynesboro oil man, charged with conspiracy to defraud insurance companies by the burning of his Idle Elkton ice plant last April, late today was taken under advisement by Judge H. W. Betram, in Rockingham Circuit Court.

The defense introduced only two minor witnesses before making the motion, which, in effect, would provide for an instructed verdict. Argument by counsel over this motion and over the admission of other evidence occupied the greater part of the trial today.

Before ending its case the State attempted to establish the value of the destroyed ice plant as being considerably less than the $25,000 insurance carried on the property. Sol J. Hensley, who established the plant, admitted that he conveyed the title of the factory to R. R. King, Charlottesville real estate broker, in payment of his commission for negotiating a real estate sale, although he had an investment of $35,000 in the property, which had not been operated for several years. King, in turn, sold the plant to McClung for $20,000, the evidence showed.

Closing prosecuting witnesses told further of the capture of Roy Wheeler, young Waynesboro attorney, after he allegedly fled from the blazing structure, and of the statements made by the young man, who had acted as real estate broker for McClung. Wheeler is indicted as the principal in the case but is unable to appear for trial because of injuries suffered in an automobile accident. McClung is under indictment as an accessory before the crime.

MONTAGUE ASSAILS BROWN'S TAX STAND

Former Virginia Governor Addresses Culpeper Democratic Rally.

FEARS FOR ROAD WORK

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Oct. 1.—Former Gov. Jack Montague, of Richmond, spoke here this evening in behalf of the Democratic nominees for the November election. The governor assailed what he called the "wild and incoherent vagaries" of Dr. William Mosely Brown, coalition candidate for governor, and referred to the achievements of the present Democratic rule of Virginia, saying that none has surpassed it in the government of Virginia.

Montague went into a complete explanation of the charges of the coalition candidate as to the cost of collecting pledged funds for the proposed Blue Ridge Mountain National Park. All these charges, he said, had been successfully refuted by the president of the park organization.

He then explained in detail the present taxing system of the State and compared the general cost of the Virginia State government with costs of other State governments to show that it is much lower, and declared that lopping off half a cent from the selling price of gas, as advocated by the coalition candidate, would necessarily curtail good roads construction in Virginia.

Hollenga traced the steps that had been taken by the chamber of commerce to secure the terminal since February 21, 1928, and pointed out facts which substantiated his claim that Petersburg has just as good a chance of getting the terminal as any other city.

FIVE IN JURY BOX AT GASTONIA TRIAL

LOCAL PREJUDICE GRAVE

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Five jurors had been accepted by the prosecution and defense when the Mecklenburg County Court recessed tonight, representing the first full day's work in the trial of the seven labor agitators and strikers charged with second degree murder in connection with the shooting of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police.

Two farmers, a rural letter carrier, an employe of an automobile assembly plant and a wealthy retired merchant were found acceptable to both sides, but in selecting this group the entire regular venire of twelve men and the special venire of 100 men were exhausted.

When the court was adjourned, Judge M. V. Barnhill, presiding, announced that a new special venire would be picked tonight in order to give sheriff's deputies a chance to begin early tomorrow to serve the summons.

Accepted as Jurors.

Those accepted for jury duty were: John L. Todd, of Pawtre Creek, rural mail carrier; E. L. Moore, of Charlotte, automobile assembly plant employe; J. A. Helms, Mecklenburg County farmer; C. L. Hill, Mecklenburg County farmer, and Zeke Johnston, retired merchant.

In selecting the five jurors, a total of 81 veniremen were examined and both prosecution and defense had made a big dent in their peremptory challenges. The State had used 6 of its 14, the defense 15 of its 28. The defendants are Fred Erwin Beal, of Lawrence, Mass., Southern organizer for the National Textile Workers Union; George Carter, Mizpah, N. J., union member and tent colony guard; Clarence Miller, of New York City, union organizer; Joseph Harrison, Passaic, N. J., union organizer, and William McGinnis, Louis McLaughlin and K. Y. Hendricks, Gastonia, union members.

Chief Aderholt was killed on the night of June 7 as he and four other officers were raiding the ground of the tent colony occupied by the Loray textile mill strikers and organizers.

Trial of the case against the men charged with his murder was begun July 28, but halted the next day when a change of venue from Gastonia to Charlotte was granted.

Second Trial Fails.

The second trial was ended in Charlotte September 9 when a juror became insane. First degree charges against all the defendants were dropped yesterday by Solicitor John G. Carpenter and six of the men who had been held on first degree charges and the three women who had been held on second degree charges were freed. Solicitor Carpenter nol prossed the cases.

A special venire of 150 men was drawn tonight preparatory to resuming selecting a jury Thursday. All names of Charlotte men were excluded in accordance with order of Judge Barnhill, who said previous veniremen from Charlotte township had shown more prejudice than veniremen from other sections of the county. Court was adjourned until Thursday to allow sheriff's officers tomorrow to summon the new venire.

ALEXANDRIA YOUTH TRAPS SELF; JAILED

ADMITS PETTY THEFTS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
315 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

Police here believe they have cleared up a number of recent small store robberies with the arrest of Clyde Holland, colored, 16 years old, whose imprisonment was brought about by his own bravado.

While Sergt. Lawrence Padgett was sitting at the desk in police headquarters late Monday night the telephone rang and a boyish voice inquired whether the police had under arrest Clyde Holland. Padgett realized there was something unusual about the call and, using another telephone while holding the boy on the one he was using, traced the call to the office of Alfred H. Collins, colored attorney. The voice, in the meantime, in answer to a question of Padgett's, stated that it was the father of the Holland boy calling.

Padgett and Policeman Mullins made a hurried trip to the office from which the call had come and discovered young Holland in the act of ransacking desk drawers. Taken to headquarters the boy readily acknowledged that on Sunday night he had committed six robberies in different sections of the city, and attempted another.

Among the robberies he admitted were those of the store of Jacob Kleinman, 100E Queen street, where he stole cigarettes, pennies and destroyed fifteen pies; the Sanitary Grocery Store, 601 North Columbus street, where he ate a half dozen doughnuts but failed to carry anything away; the office of Dr. Thomas Blue, colored dentist, in the same building where he was captured; Mrs. James B. Wells, 1325 Queen street, from whom he stole a pocketbook containing between $15 and $17 after entering her store by a side door while she was employed in the kitchen, and the barber shop of Charles Whiting, colored barber, of $5 in quarters.

The report of Police Capt. W. W. Campbell for September shows that there were 330 arrests during the month, or 9 more than in August. Of these arrests, 82 were for drunkenness, 50 for violations of the prohibition law and 8 for driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor.

Other offenses listed were: Traffic violations, 38; disorderly conduct, 20; disorderly and fighting, 19; minor assault, 16; petit larceny, 13; abusive language, 11; grand larceny, 8; held for investigation, 8; reckless driving, 6; carrying concealed weapons, 4; nonsupport, 5; operating automobile without permit, 5; destroying property, 2; menace to health, 1; interfering with an officer, 1; desertion, 1; incorrigibility, 1, and allowing cattle to run at large, 1.

There were 38 automobile accidents within the corporate limits and 7 outside the limits which the local police investigated. In four cases outside the city persons were killed.

The total value of property reported stolen during the month was $2,108.50, and property recovered was in excess of this amount, or $2,152.50, some of this having been stolen in previous months.

The local schoolboy traffic patrols organized last year under the auspices of the American Automobile Association will be reorganized this year under the same sponsorship, but under the local supervision of William L. Leitch, local scout executive. Arrangement have been completed through the city manager's office and the local police to take over this activity, which was under their control last year, and it is believed a more efficient organization will be effected.

R. C. Bowton, superintendent of schools, has given his indorsement to this movement in the interest of school child safety. It is planned to have boy patrols function at those schools where the traffic conditions warrant and where there are a sufficient number of boys large enough and old enough to serve in this capacity. It is not the purpose of this plan to have the boys serve in any sense as traffic directors, but to have them direct the school children in the proper crossing of streets on their way to and from school.

Last year the boy patrols functioned at the High School, Jefferson School, Lee School and Washington School. This year patrols will also be established at the two colored schools of the city, the Parker-Gray and the Seminary School.

The work of improving seven squares on King street, which has been in progress for some time, has been halted for two days by the rain. If the whether had continued good, it had been planned to reopen several squares on the south side of the street, west of Royal street, which has been closed to traffic, but which is virtually completed. The street is being constructed of bituminous macadam, replacing old vitrified brick, which has been in place for more than 25 years, but which was badly worn and broken by the heavy traffic.

A new form of gambling is reported to have developed here within the last few days, this being a book on the world series baseball games. Tickets, it is stated, sell for $1 each, and its backers are reported to be doing a thriving business. The police have so far made no arrests, the gambling being kept carefully under cover.

Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner John Barton Phillips yesterday, on charges of manufacturing and possessing liquor, eight men were placed under bonds of $2,500 each for their appearance in the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia.

The men, Edward Julians, 23, of 2105 Fourth street northeast, Washington; Norman Simpson, 33, of Lorton, Va.; J. R. Montgomery, 37, of 1420 R street northwest, Washington; Harry Johnson, 36, of Orange, Va.; Eugene Williams, 27, of Woodridge, Va., and A. J. King, 25, of Rossiyn, Va., were arrested by prohibition agents who claim they were operating an 800-gallon still on Occoquan Creek, almost within sight of the District Workhouse. The officers, under cover of the rain Monday night, raided the still about 11 o'clock and captured four men. A little later four others arrived on the scene and were also placed under arrest, all eight being taken to Alexandria to be held pending the hearing yesterday.

The raiders, in addition to the still, which was destroyed, seized 40 cases of corn whisky, a 15-horsepower boiler, and a large quantity of paraphernalia used in the manufacture of whisky. This is said to be one of the largest plants ever found in this section, and to have supplied large quantities of its product to Washington and northern Virginia.

Page County Gale Cuts Apple Crop

Luray, Va., Oct. 1.—A series of the most severe September electrical storms ever known in this county took heavy toll of the apple crop throughout four magisterial districts during the week-end.

In the eastern ends of Shenandoah, Marksville, Luray and Springfield districts the apple crop suffered severely from high winds accompanying the first storm. In some of the mountain hollows the wind assumed hurricane proportions. Hail also fell in the eastern end of Marksville district.

Another storm that began after dark also blew down thousands of bushels of apples. Preparations were on foot to begin gathering the crop this week. Trees in some sections were broken down by the heavy winds, while farm lands and public roads have been damaged to the extnt of thousands of dollars.

MAN IS ACQUITTED OF ATTACK ON GIRL

Federal Jury at Cumberland Frees Pennsylvanian on Mann Count.

ONE SENTENCED FOR RUM

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 1.—Cecil Porter, of Wellersburg, Pa., today was found not guilty of violation of the Mann act by transporting Jessie Miller, 16, of Wellersburg, across the line into Maryland for immoral purposes.

The case, which took all today's session of the United States court, was the outcome of an automobile ride in the summer. While there was evidence that the girl was attacked, the defense was that the attack was made on the night before the ride by some person other than Porter. A large number of character witnesses were summoned. Porter was defended by J. Phillip Roman, while United States District Attorney Amos W. Woodcock conducted the prosecution.

Judge William C. Coleman today modified the sentence of Mrs. Jennie Dekleva, of Kitzmiller, Md., of 75 days in jail, imposed yesterday for manufacture and possession of liquor. The woman was paroled for six months. As she can not speak English, her 15-year-old daughter acted as interpreter.

Anthony Staunton, of Rekhart, upon plea of guilty of manufacture and possession of liquor, was given 45 days in jail. Mrs. Sophie Miller, Cumberland, whose place had been raided by Cumberland police, was fined $100 for possession. A jury was drawn to try Sloan Headley, indicted in Baltimore under the Jones act, tomorrow. Louis R. Steele, indicted jointly with him for manufacture and possession, entered a plea of guilty today.

Condemnation proceedings in connection with the erection of proposed addition to the local Federal building, which contains the postoffice, may be taken up tomorrow. The owners of the property on North Liberty street have rejected offers made by the Government.

ARLINGTON WATER SITUATION STUDIED

CLARENDON PLANS FETE

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clarendon 509. Clarendon, Va.

With the view of cooperating with the Arlington County Water Department to create a greater desire on the part of citizens to take the water provided under the five-year program development, a committee of the Chamber of Commercie held a lengthy meeting yesterday in the offices of former President Clarence R. Ahalt, in the National Press Building, in Washington, at which the subject was discussed at length.

It develops that if citizens in front of whose homes the water mains now are laid will use the water the operation of the water department will be maintained with a surplus which will result in a reduction in the rates to the user. The rate already has been reduced from $27 to $24 a year.
